How Army pulled 'the sting' on Johnson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The troops were howling mad and the generals felt faint the day the Army conned President Johnson, but, as the Armed Forces Journal recalls it now, the con worked perfectly.

Johnson, the Journal says in its February edition, stood hand over heart and teary-eyed at the Pope Air Force Base, N.C., on Feb. 17, 1968, watching what he thought was a planeloand of gung-ho paratroopers take off for a destination he thought was Vietnam.

Inside the plane, the Journal says, the stunned and furious troops — a group just back from Vietnam — were screaming things like, "you double-crossing . . .!"

AT A NEARBY picnic ground, unknown to Johnson, the real Vietnam-bound bunch was getting drunk at a farewell beer bust.

Johnson, the Journal says, bade farewell to the wrong troops — a disgruntled battle-weary contingent hastily substituted for the partying unit by generals who wanted to keep both Johnson and the departing GIs happy.

After the President departed, the plane brought the angry soldiers back to base. The designated group left quietly the next day for Vietnam, where the savage Communist Tet offensive was raging.

In a report titled "The Day the President Got Conned," the Journal, a private, unofficial monthly publication on military affairs, says Johnson decided spur-of-the-moment he would personally bid farewell to the Vietnam bound 82nd Airborne Division soldiers from Ft. Bragg, N.C.

WORD OF HIS visit reached Ft. Bragg only hours before he did. A mad scramble ensued.

"The next battalion to leave for Vietnam was having its own farewell beer bust and barbecue," the Journal said. "By noon every man in it would already have had a snootful of hootch."

Yet when Johnson took the podium, ranks of troopers stood before him.

"Most of the men standing before him had just returned from Vietnam," the Journal said. "They had been called out hastily and not everyone had gotten the word on the charade about to take place. The men had been through some screwy experiences, but Lyndon Johnson's five-minute speech took the cake. The President was telling them goodbye!"

The Journal said Brig. Gen. Donald Blackburn, assistant commander of the 82nd Airborne, "thought he was going to have a heart attack" and the division commander, Major Gen. Richard Seitz, "turned pale" when Johnson decided to mingle with the GIS.

But the worst moment, the Journal says, came when Johnson insisted on watching the men actually take off. The Journal said Blackburn told the men to keep quiet for fear the troops would break out of the plane and start rioting.

As for Johnson, the Journal said, he was close to tears.

This story, the Journal said, remained secret until about a year ago, Col. Hugh Robinson, Johnson's military aide, met Blackburn and told him how touched the President had been by the occasion.

"Hugh, Blackburn interruped, let me buy you a drink," the Journal quoted Blackburn as saying. "I think I ought to tell you something."

The article was written by Benjamin F. Schemmer, Armed Forces Journal's publisher and co-editor. In an explanatory box on the story, he said:

"This is the story of how he (Johnson) said 'goodbye' to the wrong troops — and got conned by resourceful soldiers determined not to let their President down. The story is true — embellished with a little editorial license where eight years of time have dimmed the details." Apparently, the story was hushed up at the time so as not to embarrass the President.

Calderwood to retire this year

Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood Thursday ended speculation that he plans to retire by saying he definitely "will retire this calendar year."

Although no specific date has been set, Calderwood told The Herald, "I'm going to be retiring this calendar year, you'd better believe it."

The 72-year-72-year-old Calderwood received a unanimous vote of confidence from the village board at a special session Tuesday called to hear charges of mismanagement brought against him by former police Capt. Jack W. Aldrich.

AFTER ALDRICH made the allegations two weeks ago, Trustee Frank Palmatier said Calderwood was retiring on July 31, the anniversary of his becoming a policeman.

Before Thursday, Calderwood steadfastly had refused to comment on either Aldrich's charges or the retirement date reported by Palmatier.

During the hearing before the trustees, repeated references were made to Calderwood's impending departure. However, at no time did Village Manager L. A. Hanson or any of the trustees say specifically that Calderwood would be leaving this year.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan said, "It does not come as any surprise that there would be a retirement this year."

Ryan said "it is a little premature" to discuss Calderwood's successor, but added that there would be a "wide open search" for a new chief from within and outside the department.

TO FIND A NEW police chief, Ryan said, "Certainly I would want to involve the (village) fire and police commission with the possibility of some additional expertise."

At Tuesday's special meeting, Trustee Frank Palmatier called for

Some odd remedies for all your flu bugs

You hardly ever read anything nice about having the flu. It's always presented in such an icky light, as if the flu might be something you want to avoid.

Well now, I've had the flu all this week. It hasn't been all that bad. Sure, I might have enjoyed walking around in those fine spring temperatures. But what's so neat about that when you can stay home and sweat in bed?

This, of course, is flu season. I've been hearing all about it this week on the radio. There's been lots of time for listening to various ideas regarding the flu.

Since newspapers also are public servants, I thought this would be a fine opportunity to discuss the flu. We should touch on where it comes from, how you'll recognize flu, its various treatments and how you'll know when you're getting better.

Back in the old days, it was thought little children got the flu because they kissed the cow on Grandpa's farm. Bigger boys got the flu because they saw older women.

AND OLDER WOMEN got the flu from bigger boys who were still kissing the cow on Grandpa's farm.

Most of these explanations are no longer any good.

It's now thought flu sneaks underneath your bedroom door late at night or hides in your toothpaste until morning. Some have said that flu also can be found in old holiday fruit baskets.

There are many key symptoms to flu.

In the morning, you will remain listless in bed, almost as though you were hit over the head with a bottle of pure grain alcohol. Of course, you will not feel like going to work and will mumble incoherently.

Other recognizable flu symptoms include a stuffed-up head and chest, sore muscles, a headache, slight fever and the feeling you have been mugged in a dark alley.

The best thing to do now is just lie there and act shocked, like you really can't believe it.

Now that you've got the flu, there's the immediate task at hand of curing yourself.

U.S. probing details of lease for state offices

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner has begun an investigation into the details of an $18 million lease of office space for the Illinois Bureau of Employment Securities, The Herald has learned.

Federal investigators have obtained records from the U.S. Manpower Administration containing the details of a lease agreement for office space at 910 S. Michigan Ave.

The action came after disclosures the state will spend $1.3 million more over the next 10 years for the offices than it currently spends.

THE STATE'S unemployment offices were located at 160 N. Canal St., but moved to the old Standard Oil Building early last year.

An official of the U.S. Dept. of Labor in Chicago refused Thursday to confirm that Skinner's investigators had entered the case.

"I can't say, but I did just ship a lot of records out of here," the official said.

Skinner's investigation appears to be the first of several probes into the lease agreement. State Rep. Ted F. Leverenz, D-Maywood, announced plans also to have the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission look into the matter.

AIDES TO Gov. Daniel Walker have labeled the questions raised by the lease agreement "political charges." The Walker administration negotiated the lease for the property.

An examination of state and Walker campaign contribution records indicates Gary Spain, the head of a Chi-

Doctors face big insurance hike

About 8,000 Illinois doctors are facing a possible 267 per cent across-the-board increase in malpractice insurance premiums starting July 1, raising the cost of coverage from $9,800 to $36,200 a year. Dr. Joseph L. Bordenave, chairman of the Illinois State Medical Society's board of trustees, said if a demand for the increase by the Hartford Insurance Co. is met, it may lead to a doctors' strike similar to the one in California earlier this year.

Two library votes Saturday

Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows residents will be asked to approve library referendums in their communities Saturday. Arlington Heights voters will be asked to approve a $2.2 million bond referendum to finance an expansion of the village library, and if approved, will cost owners of homes with an assessed valuation of $10,000 approximately $8 annually during the next 20 years. In Rolling Meadows, voters will be asked to approve increasing library taxes from 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation to a maximum 29 cents. Library officials say additional funds are needed to continue operations at their current levels and have pledged to increase taxes by only a few cents initially and not impose the maximum tax.

Dist. 21 mulls 50-teacher cut

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education members Thursday discussed cutting 50 teachers from the district's teaching staff of 420 in order to help offset an anticipated $1 million deficit next year. In executive session, the board discussed specific teachers' positions that will be cut for the 1976-77 school year. The cutbacks in teachers would pare nearly $500,000 from the budget, administration officials have said. The administration also has proposed cuts of $350,000 in administration costs and $280,000 in materials and supplies.

cago consulting firm which recommended the lease, gave $1,000 to a March 1975 fund-raising dinner for the governor.

Leverenz told The Herald he raised questions about the lease after looking at the two buildings involved in the situation and after several persons questioned him about the details of the lease agreement.

Leverenez said the new lease agreement will cost the state $1.3 million more in the next 10 years. He also said the Canal Street offices were served by more mass transit lines than the current facilities.

THE U.S. MANPOWER Administration, which funnels federal funds into the state's unemployment compensation program, reviewed the lease agreement. Sources close to the federal investigation indicate the agency may begin a review aimed at withdrawing approval of the agreement.

Federal officials voiced concern about the lease agreement earlier this month. They cited the fact Illinois passed up an estimated $10 million which could have been used for construction of offices for the Illinois Dept. of Labor and the Bureau of Employment Security.

Questions also have been raised over a report produced by Spain's Comprehensive Planning Corp. The CPC report cost $106,000 and was funded by the owners of the two buildings.

The Walker administration appointed Chicago attorney Gary D. Friedman to hold the funds for the study. State officials said Friedman named CPC to perform the report for the state. Friedman is an assistant secretary of CPC. He also is a member of the same law firm, Arvey Hodes, Costello and Burman, which employs Daniel Walker Jr., the governor's son.

Several observers predicted that either Skinner or the U.S. Dept. of Labor could issue a report on the lease investigation before the March 16 primary.

The federal government also has the authority to delay payments of funds used to pay the lease, which could serve to worsen the state's already shakey cash flow situation.

In Rolling Meadows, voters will be asked to approve increasing library taxes from 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation to a maximum 29 cents. Library officials say additional funds are needed to continue operations at their current levels and have pledged to increase taxes by only a few cents initially and not impose the maximum tax.

Dist. 21 mulls 50-teacher cut

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education members Thursday discussed cutting 50 teachers from the district's teaching staff of 420 in order to help offset an anticipated $1 million deficit next year. In executive session, the board discussed specific teachers' positions that will be cut for the 1976-77 school year. The cutbacks in teachers would pare nearly $500,000 from the budget, administration officials have said. The administration also has proposed cuts of $350,000 in administration costs and $280,000 in materials and supplies.

cago consulting firm which recommended the lease, gave $1,000 to a March 1975 fund-raising dinner for the governor.

Leverenz told The Herald he raised questions about the lease after looking at the two buildings involved in the situation and after several persons questioned him about the details of the lease agreement.

Leverenez said the new lease agreement will cost the state $1.3 million more in the next 10 years. He also said the Canal Street offices were served by more mass transit lines than the current facilities.

THE U.S. MANPOWER Administration, which funnels federal funds into the state's unemployment compensation program, reviewed the lease agreement. Sources close to the federal investigation indicate the agency may begin a review aimed at withdrawing approval of the agreement.

Federal officials voiced concern about the lease agreement earlier this month. They cited the fact Illinois passed up an estimated $10 million which could have been used for construction of offices for the Illinois Dept. of Labor and the Bureau of Employment Security.

Questions also have been raised over a report produced by Spain's Comprehensive Planning Corp. The CPC report cost $106,000 and was funded by the owners of the two buildings.

The Walker administration appointed Chicago attorney Gary D. Friedman to hold the funds for the study. State officials said Friedman named CPC to perform the report for the state. Friedman is an assistant secretary of CPC. He also is a member of the same law firm, Arvey Hodes, Costello and Burman, which employs Daniel Walker Jr., the governor's son.

Several observers predicted that either Skinner or the U.S. Dept. of Labor could issue a report on the lease investigation before the March 16 primary.

The federal government also has the authority to delay payments of funds used to pay the lease, which could serve to worsen the state's already shakey cash flow situation.

Ford proposes import lid on natural gas

PRESIDENT FORD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Thursday proposed strict limits on U. S. imports of liquefied natural gas and asked Congress for power to make key decisions himself on development of Alaska's natural gas riches.

Ford proposed an import lid of 1 trillion cubic feet of liquefied natural gas a year by 1985 — less than the total that would be supplied by projects already on the drawing board to bring LNG from Algeria and Nigeria.

Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb said the lid would keep Americans from growing dependent on another insecure foreign fuel besides oil.

Ford's Alaskan gas proposal would take from the Federal Power Commission and give to the President the power, subject to congressional approval, to choose between two competing routes for moving natural gas from the North Slope of Alaska to the lower 48 states.

One route would be a pipeline across Canada, the other a land-sea system bypassing Canada. Zarb said the choice could be made in about a year, after negotiations with Canada, and Congress would have 60 to 90 days to approve or disapprove.

The President's new energy message also said the United States will give $5 million in the next five years to strengthen international safeguards against nuclear theft and terrorism and proposed a new billion dollar aid program for areas impacted by development of federally owned energy resources.

"Thus far the Congress has completed action on only one major piece of energy legislation . . . " Ford said. "Eighteen other major legislative proposals still await final action by the Congress."

Ford said the "most critical" area is natural gas. He urged speedy action on existing proposals to remove federal controls from natural gas production, and on the new proposal for Alaskan gas.

A White House fact sheet said the Alaskan gas measure, to be submitted soon to Congress, would force federal agencies to finish studies of the two route proposals by Feb. 1, 1977.

It said the President would then pick one of the routes, subject to congressional approval, and "judicial review thereafter would be limited."

Ford said the quick development of Alaska's rich natural gas fields, estimated to hold reserves of 24 trillion cubic feet of gas, could provide U. S. consumers with more than 1 trillion cubic feet of gas a year by the early 1980s.

Ford called for reform of nuclear power plant licensing rules to shorten the time required for bringing new plants into operation.

"I have also decided," he said, "the United States should make a special contribution of up to $5 million in the next five years to strengthen the safeguards program of the International Atomic Energy Agency" against theft of nuclear material.

Ford's $1 billion energy development impact assistance proposal would provide loans, loan guarantees and planning grants to impacted areas — particularly Western regions rich in coal and oil shale — during the next 15 years.

The President said such aid "is the only approach which assures that communities that need assistance will get it where it is needed, when it is needed."

Ford's message also called for:

- Gas price degregulation, which Ford said, would boost production 25 per cent by 1980.
- Rejection of proposals to tighten clean air standards and instead passage of measures removing some existing restrictions on the burning of coal.
- Creation of a new Energy Independence Authority to help private companies obtain financing for new energy facilities.

Psychiatrist: Patty was playing role for kidnapers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Patricia Hearst trial Thursday got down to whether she is lying about what happened during her captivity, with a psychiatrist saying she is not "simulating" and a prosecutor suggesting she is not telling the whole truth.

Dr. Martin Orne, a key defense witness, told the jury Miss Hearst was playing a role for her kidnapers and that she reached the point of no return after the bank robbery when they convinced her she was a "common criminal."

Asst. U.S. Atty. David Bancroft, in a hammering cross examination, intimated that the defendant was playing a role for Orne when he examined her in jail and that he swallowed her story of being terrorized until she broke mentally.

Citing Miss Hearst's defiance when she was arrested, her refusal to discuss the last year of her underground life and her shootup of a store, Bancroft asked whether there was not "another reasonable hypothesis" other than that she was brainwashed.

"I reject the hypothesis that she was playing games with me," Orne snapped.

"Isn't it possible?

"If it were not possible, we wouldn't be here and I wouldn't have examined her," the doctor said.

The trial was marked Thursday by the receipt of a document by the FBI signed by the "SLA eastern region" threatening the lives of U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter, U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr., chief defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey and two previous defense witnesses.

Orne, a professor at the University of Pennsylvania who also has a private practice, was the second psychiatrist called by the defense to testify that the 22-year-old heiress suffered a "traumatic neurosis."

He was followed late in the day by a third defense expert, Dr. Robert J. Lifton, a research psychiatrist at Yale. He testified only briefly before court was recessed.

The government had two of its own experts waiting to go on the stand to testify in what was expected to be a far different manner, providing the jury the spectacle of the "battle of the psychiatrists."

Orne said tat there were nine persons in the Symbionese Liberation Army and that she was given the number 9.

"She was the only private in an army of generals," he said.

"If she had really gone over to them, she would have insisted on a promotion. It doesn't make sense for her to remain a private. It doesn't make sense for the SLA. It doesn't make sense for her."

In the tapes she made for the terrorist group, he said, it would have been "far more compelling if she could have identified herself at least as Colonel Hearst."

The leader of the SLA band called himself "Field Marshal General Cinque" and the others were generals.

Orne said that in joining the bank robbery Miss Hearst "had to betray herself — she was forced to commit a crime that she knew was a crime."

"She had reached a point in time when there was no way back, she was stuck with that role. And there was no one she could tell that she was just playing the role."

The psychiatrist gave an example of a man who tries to butter up his boss in every way he can and then comes home and tells his wife what he really thinks of the employer.

"But if there is no one to tell how you really feel, then the role becomes more and more real."

Orne said Miss Hearst became firmly convinced she was an outlaw when then U.S. Attorney William Saxbe called her a "common criminal."

A portion of Friday's session was expected to be taken up, with arguments outside the presence of the jury, about admitting a lie detector test given Miss Hearst some weeks ago.

Orne said that one reason he believed the defendant was telling him the truth when he examined her in jail was that she passed up opportunities to give "self serving" answers that would have put her in a favorable light.

Panel threatens to subpoena bank records

A House subcommittee Thursday threatened to subpoena federal records of all U.S. banks with more than $1 billion in assets unless the comptroller of the currency makes them available within a week. The House Government Operations subcommittee voted to issue a letter rejecting Comptroller James E. Smith's compromise offer to make certain information available but to keep the names of the banks and certain other records confidential. The commerce subcommittee wants to see the records of all U.S. banks with assets of more than $1 billion — an aide estimated there are 125 — to determine for itself whether they have made questionable loans.

Charges dismissed against Attica convicts

A New York Supreme Court justice Thursday reluctantly dismissed all charges against 10 convicts accused of kidnaping guards during the 1971 Attica prison riot — America's bloodiest. The chief prosecutor in the case leveled a sweeping blast at "flagrant" deficiencies in the state investigation of the riot and asked Justice Frank R. Bayger to drop all but one of the charges against both the convicts who rioted and the law officers who suppressed the uprising. Forty-three persons died during the uprising.

Flights of the Concorde to begin April 10

British Airways and Air France, seeking to quickly get out from under a court challenge, said Thursday they plan to start daily flights of the Concorde supersonic airliner to New York and Washington on April 10. The specific date was included in documents filed in the U.S. Court of Appeals here, where the Environmental Defense Fund is seeking to block Transportation Secretary William Coleman's clearance for 16 months of SST flights into Washington's Dulles International Airport and New York's John F. Kennedy.

Will CIA leak have effect on free press?

A group of 13 Democrats, defending CBS newsman Daniel Schorr for making "an act of conscience" in leaking a secret report on the CIA, Thursday warned that House reaction may have "a chilling effect . . . on freedom of the press." The House Ethics committee is looking into procedures for investigating who leaked the report to Schorr and whether the veteran newsman may be found in contempt of Congress. Schorr has been suspended by CBS pending the outcome of the probe.

FORMER PRESIDENT Richard Nixon arrived in scenic Kweilin, China Thursday, and was met in the rain by Chiao Hsiao-kuang, vice chairman of the Kwangsi Revolutionary committee.

Nixon ignores criticism of visit to China

KWEILIN, China (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, ignoring stinging criticism of his visit to China, Thursday said "without qualification" that Kweilin was the most beautiful city in the world.

Nixon stared blankly at American reporters who met him at the airport and ignored their questions about the criticism as though he had not heard them. He brusquely brushed past the newsmen.

Retired Marine Lt. Col. John Brennan, an aide traveling with Nixon, said Nixon would not have any comment on the charges by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that he was breaking the law on his visit to China. "It would be stupid if he said anything," Brennan said.

At a banquet given in his honor later, Nixon said Sino-American friendship would "last for generations to come" and recalled his daughter Julie's visit to Kweilin and how she loved the city.

Nixon said in his toast that he had seen many cities in his visits to more than 80 countries and added, "I can say without qualification that of all cities, large or small in the world, there is not one more beautiful than Kweilin."

FTC opens probe of Blue Shield

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission Thursday announced an investigation of the Blue Shield medical insurance program to look for what FTC sources described as possible conflicts of interest by doctors involved with its operation.

The FTC announcement said the inquiry was started as part of an overall look into the health insurance industry.

It will involve all of the 71 separate Blue Shield plans across the country as well as the parent national organization, which provide reimbursement of doctor bills to subscribers.

A spokesman for the national Blue Shield said the organization "will respond to and participate in the investigation."

According to commission sources, the main thrust of the investigation will be into the extent to which doctors control Blue Shield plans and have a say in how much the program will provide for fees.

"Blue Shield literally pays physicians," said an FTC source. "They may be paid according to a fee schedule or according to a formula and we are concerned with how those are set up. There is a potential for conflict of interest."

Doctors have varying degrees of control over Blue Shield in different areas. In Ohio Blue Shield is an outright subsidiary of the state medical society, FTC sources said, while elsewhere doctors may make up only 25 per cent of the board of directors or simply maintain contact through liaison committees.

The national Blue Shield spokesman said about 72 million Americans participate in the program. Payments are estimated at $3 billion each year.

FTC sources said the inquiry could prove to be a lengthy one because much of the necessary information may not be available at the national level and jurisdictional disputes may arise that could require court action.

The Blue Shield spokesman said that participation of doctors was "of significant value to the public" because the program "has the support and commitment of most of the physicians practicing in an area."

Court asked to end death penalty as now imposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court was urged Thursday to abolish the death penalty as impossible to administer fairly and an affront to the principle of Human Worth.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund, representing the 230-plus persons now on death row, said in a brief filed with the court that matters have not basically changed since the court in 1972 struck down capital punishment as then administered. The justices said the sentence was meted out capriciously with no objective standard for determining who lived or died.

"The perpetuation of arbitrariness . . . is not mere happenstance," the LDF said in connection with Georgia and Florida cases the court has agreed to hear, along with appeals from North Carolina, Louisiana and Texas, on March 30.

"The death penalty is too cruelly intolerable for our society to apply it regularly and even-handedly; and it is inherently too purposeless and irrational to be applied selectively on any reasoned, non-individual basis."

The brief said discretion is explicitly present in the post 1972 laws of both Georgia and Florida. It cited recognition of "aggravating circumstances" as well as plea bargaining, jury discretion and executive clemency.

Touching on the same legal points, attorneys for Troy Leon Gregg, the defendant in the Georgia case, described the death penalty as "an ancient exercise in savagery that has run its course."

Amnesty International, a private humanitarian organization, filed views as a "friend of the court" in all five cases. Its brief described the death penalty as "an act of cold blood beneath the dignity of a modern state."

Acknowledging that the legal issue is "devoid of specific constitutional direction," the organization urged the justices to set an example for the nations which still use capital punishment. It said 22 countries have abolished it for ordinary crimes (exclusive of treason, state assassination and the like) in the last century.

"If the death penalty were abolished in the United States, other nations would be greatly influenced to follow in the same course," said the Amnesty International brief.

Thursday was the deadline for briefs by appealing parties in the five cases, and the states have until March 25 to file replies.

Yellow Kid dies in Chicago at 100

People

- The Yellow Kid, perhaps the greatest con man the nation has produced, died Thursday at the age of 100. Joseph Weill, known to crime connoisseurs the world over as the Yellow Kid, slipped away from a lifetime of flimflam at the Lake Front Convalescent Center in Chicago. He spent his last years savoring a career based on the theory that you can't cheat an honest man. He figured that during his illustrious career he conned his way into $8 million, mainly by fleecing wealthy businessmen who wanted something for nothing. He lost most of it, he said, but he had enough left to spend his last years in the dignity befitting a man who proved that crime pays enough to live the good life.

- Motorcycle stuntman Evel Knievel has been charged in Oakland Park, Fla. with injuring a barroom patron. Acting police chief Ed Turner said a warrant was sworn out by William Kretschmar, 31 of Fort Lauderdale. Turner said Knievel was being harassed by Kretschmar, who wanted the motorcyclist to buy him a drink. When Kretschmar persisted, the chief said, Knievel pushed him, and he hit his head on a table.

- Alexander Solzhenitsyn, in Paris, said Thursday in his latest book that only force can make the Soviet Union give up or soften its Communist system, the most "bloody," "cruel," and "crafty" in history. He derided Western intellectuals who, each "sitting at his warm table surrounded by comfort," say arming oneself with weapons makes one "as brutal as the oppressor." He said. "It is not by clemency that wickedness will be eliminated."

- The Federal Election Commission Thursday certified Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, as the 14th person eligible to run for the presidency with government money. Church won't announce his candidacy until next month after his Senate CIA investigation committee makes its final report.

- It used to be goldfish swallowing, then telephone booth stuffing and a couple of years ago, streaking. Now, the latest campus fad seems to be mattress stacking. On Saturday, the University of Cincinnati is staging a "Grand Stackoff" to challenge the campus record of 46 students piled atop a standard-sized double bed mattress within 60 seconds. Jerry Summerville, the school's assistant athletic director said "It's a minute of madness."

- FBI Director Clarence Kelly, denying a congressional charge, said the FBI conducts domestic intelligence operations to prevent violence and does not investigate operations to prevent voilence and does not investigate groups or individuals solely because of political views.

- Yosef Tekoah, former Israeli ambassador to the United Nations, said in Chicago there will be no peace as long as the Palestinian Liberation Organization is on Lebanese soil.

Will CIA leak have effect on free press?

A group of 13 Democrats, defending CBS newsman Daniel Schorr for making "an act of conscience" in leaking a secret report on the CIA, Thursday warned that House reaction may have "a chilling effect . . . on freedom of the press." The House Ethics committee is looking into procedures for investigating who leaked the report to Schorr and whether the veteran newsman may be found in contempt of Congress. Schorr has been suspended by CBS pending the outcome of the probe.

FORMER PRESIDENT Richard Nixon arrived in scenic Kweilin, China Thursday, and was met in the rain by Chiao Hsiao-kuang, vice chairman of the Kwangsi Revolutionary committee.

Nixon ignores criticism of visit to China

KWEILIN, China (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, ignoring stinging criticism of his visit to China, Thursday said "without qualification" that Kweilin was the most beautiful city in the world.

Nixon stared blankly at American reporters who met him at the airport and ignored their questions about the criticism as though he had not heard them. He brusquely brushed past the newsmen.

Retired Marine Lt. Col. John Brennan, an aide traveling with Nixon, said Nixon would not have any comment on the charges by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that he was breaking the law on his visit to China. "It would be stupid if he said anything," Brennan said.

At a banquet given in his honor later, Nixon said Sino-American friendship would "last for generations to come" and recalled his daughter Julie's visit to Kweilin and how she loved the city.

Nixon said in his toast that he had seen many cities in his visits to more than 80 countries and added, "I can say without qualification that of all cities, large or small in the world, there is not one more beautiful than Kweilin."

FTC opens probe of Blue Shield

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission Thursday announced an investigation of the Blue Shield medical insurance program to look for what FTC sources described as possible conflicts of interest by doctors involved with its operation.

The FTC announcement said the inquiry was started as part of an overall look into the health insurance industry.

It will involve all of the 71 separate Blue Shield plans across the country as well as the parent national organization, which provide reimbursement of doctor bills to subscribers.

A spokesman for the national Blue Shield said the organization "will respond to and participate in the investigation."

According to commission sources, the main thrust of the investigation will be into the extent to which doctors control Blue Shield plans and have a say in how much the program will provide for fees.

"Blue Shield literally pays physicians," said an FTC source. "They may be paid according to a fee schedule or according to a formula and we are concerned with how those are set up. There is a potential for conflict of interest."

Doctors have varying degrees of control over Blue Shield in different areas. In Ohio Blue Shield is an outright subsidiary of the state medical society, FTC sources said, while elsewhere doctors may make up only 25 per cent of the board of directors or simply maintain contact through liaison committees.

The national Blue Shield spokesman said about 72 million Americans participate in the program. Payments are estimated at $3 billion each year.

FTC sources said the inquiry could prove to be a lengthy one because much of the necessary information may not be available at the national level and jurisdictional disputes may arise that could require court action.

The Blue Shield spokesman said that participation of doctors was "of significant value to the public" because the program "has the support and commitment of most of the physicians practicing in an area."

Court asked to end death penalty as now imposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court was urged Thursday to abolish the death penalty as impossible to administer fairly and an affront to the principle of Human Worth.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund, representing the 230-plus persons now on death row, said in a brief filed with the court that matters have not basically changed since the court in 1972 struck down capital punishment as then administered. The justices said the sentence was meted out capriciously with no objective standard for determining who lived or died.

"The perpetuation of arbitrariness . . . is not mere happenstance," the LDF said in connection with Georgia and Florida cases the court has agreed to hear, along with appeals from North Carolina, Louisiana and Texas, on March 30.

"The death penalty is too cruelly intolerable for our society to apply it regularly and even-handedly; and it is inherently too purposeless and irrational to be applied selectively on any reasoned, non-individual basis."

The brief said discretion is explicitly present in the post 1972 laws of both Georgia and Florida. It cited recognition of "aggravating circumstances" as well as plea bargaining, jury discretion and executive clemency.

Touching on the same legal points, attorneys for Troy Leon Gregg, the defendant in the Georgia case, described the death penalty as "an ancient exercise in savagery that has run its course."

Amnesty International, a private humanitarian organization, filed views as a "friend of the court" in all five cases. Its brief described the death penalty as "an act of cold blood beneath the dignity of a modern state."

Acknowledging that the legal issue is "devoid of specific constitutional direction," the organization urged the justices to set an example for the nations which still use capital punishment. It said 22 countries have abolished it for ordinary crimes (exclusive of treason, state assassination and the like) in the last century.

"If the death penalty were abolished in the United States, other nations would be greatly influenced to follow in the same course," said the Amnesty International brief.

Thursday was the deadline for briefs by appealing parties in the five cases, and the states have until March 25 to file replies.

Yellow Kid dies in Chicago at 100

- The Yellow Kid, perhaps the greatest con man the nation has produced, died Thursday at the age of 100. Joseph Weill, known to crime connoisseurs the world over as the Yellow Kid, slipped away from a lifetime of flimflam at the Lake Front Convalescent Center in Chicago. He spent his last years savoring a career based on the theory that you can't cheat an honest man. He figured that during his illustrious career he conned his way into $8 million, mainly by fleecing wealthy businessmen who wanted something for nothing. He lost most of it, he said, but he had enough left to spend his last years in the dignity befitting a man who proved that crime pays enough to live the good life.

- Motorcycle stuntman Evel Knievel has been charged in Oakland Park, Fla. with injuring a barroom patron. Acting police chief Ed Turner said a warrant was sworn out by William Kretschmar, 31 of Fort Lauderdale. Turner said Knievel was being harassed by Kretschmar, who wanted the motorcyclist to buy him a drink. When Kretschmar persisted, the chief said, Knievel pushed him, and he hit his head on a table.

- Alexander Solzhenitsyn, in Paris, said Thursday in his latest book that only force can make the Soviet Union give up or soften its Communist system, the most "bloody," "cruel," and "crafty" in history. He derided Western intellectuals who, each "sitting at his warm table surrounded by comfort," say arming oneself with weapons makes one "as brutal as the oppressor." He said. "It is not by clemency that wickedness will be eliminated."

- The Federal Election Commission Thursday certified Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, as the 14th person eligible to run for the presidency with government money. Church won't announce his candidacy until next month after his Senate CIA investigation committee makes its final report.

- It used to be goldfish swallowing, then telephone booth stuffing and a couple of years ago, streaking. Now, the latest campus fad seems to be mattress stacking. On Saturday, the University of Cincinnati is staging a "Grand Stackoff" to challenge the campus record of 46 students piled atop a standard-sized double bed mattress within 60 seconds. Jerry Summerville, the school's assistant athletic director said "It's a minute of madness."

- FBI Director Clarence Kelly, denying a congressional charge, said the FBI conducts domestic intelligence operations to prevent violence and does not investigate operations to prevent voilence and does not investigate groups or individuals solely because of political views.

- Yosef Tekoah, former Israeli ambassador to the United Nations, said in Chicago there will be no peace as long as the Palestinian Liberation Organization is on Lebanese soil.

Daley backers rap snub of Howlett

Regular Dems attack Mugalian

State Rep. Richard Mugalian, D-Palatine, has told his chief political enemies in Palatine Township that "I wear no man's collar" and found himself attacked as not being a "real Democrat."

Mugalian spoke to the Palatine Township Democratic Club, the organization loyal to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley which was formed in 1974 after Mugalian, who was then township committeeman, broke with Daley.

During the confrontation, which lasted less than an hour, Mugalian fielded several hostile questions from club members about his failure to support Daley-backed gubernatorial candidate Michael Howlett. Mugalian also was put down for his stand on patronage.

HE TOLD THE GROUP legislators should be judged on openness, ability, willingness to work and "guts" and cited his ratings from the AFL-CIO and the Independent Voters of Illinois as evidence of his legislative record.

Richard Mugalian

"What good is a legislator if he wears somebody else's collar?" Mugalian said. "What good is he if he listens to some political boss instead of the people?" He said, "The worst kind of corruption is log-rolling political bondage."

Members of the audience of about 40, which was split between Mugalian supporters and club members, groaned when Mugalian said his views on the primary campaign between Howlett and Gov. Daniel Walker were "irrelevent."

He said, "If the judgement of a legislator whose record is clear depends on whether he endorses one politician or another in a primary, that judgement is not the soundest," he said.

WHEN PRESSED BY repeated questions, Mugalian said he is "leaning toward Walker" in the primary fight. He said, "I have voted against some of his bills, I have disagreed with many of his actions, but the choice is between two men, not between the governor and perfection."

Mugalian also said that as committeeman he sponsored persons for political patronage jobs. He said, however, "Making a guy who has a government job work for a politician or lose his job stinks." He said that kind of patronage "is an insult to the dignity of the person in the job."

Last fall, several members of the Palatine club who also are patronage workers for the county complained that Mugalian's successor as committeeman was threatening to have reprisals taken against them in their jobs unless they joined the regular township organization instead of the club.

Mugalian said when he was committeeman he sponsored persons for county job's "but I said they were free not to support me and as far a I know they worked against me."

Following Mugalian's appearance, William Sarto, a an employe of Sec. of State Michael Howlett, who will be Mugalian's Democratic rival in the 2nd Legislative District this fall, told the group, "I'm proud to say I'm a Democrat and I'm supporting Mike Howlett for governor."

Because of the cumulative voting system, which virtually guarantees two Republicans and one Democrat will be elected to the state house in the predominately Republican 2nd District, it is expected Sarto and Mugalian will in effect be running against each other for the one Democratic seat in the legislature.

Court funds returned to suburbs

Elk Grove Village and Arlington Heights led the Northwest suburbs in 1971 in the amount of revenue returned from the Cook County Circuit Courts, the Circuit Court clerk has reported.

Elk Grove Village received $120,714 from the courts last year, a five per cent increase over 1974. Arlington Heights took in $116,500.

Altogether 125 Cook County suburbs received $4,023,108 from the court system, most of it in traffic fines levied through tickets written by local police, the clerk reported.

The totals for Elk Grove Village and Arlington Heights put those two suburbs second and third in the amount of revenue received. Evanston was first on the list with $133,886.

Among the Northwest suburbs receiving money, Buffalo Grove was lowest, ranking 65 out of 125 with $24,676. Inverness did rank lower, receiving no money, but that village contracts with Palatine for police service. Palatine, ranked number 17, received $59,593.

Other Northwest suburbs, their rankings and amounts collected are: Mount Prospect, 10th, $80,045; Des Plaines, 11th, $73,987; Schaumburg, 20th, $57,048; Hoffman Estates, 23rd, $51,338; Rolling Meadows, 28th, $44,355; and Wheeling, 33rd, $40,116.

Vote machine OK delayed

The Cook County Board Thursday once again delayed action on approving the purchase of new voting machines for the November general election.

The county board delayed action for two weeks in order to wait for more financial data on the cost of converting the county from the present lever-type voting machines to some other voting machine system.

County Clerk Stanley Kusper has told the board it will cost $1.6 million to upgrade the present lever-type machines for use in November. Converting to a different system, such as one which would use punch cards for ballots, would cost between $6 and $8 million, Kusper has said.

March 1 land tax deadline

March 1 is the final date for Cook County taxpayers to pay the first installment of their property taxes without a penalty.

Penalties for late payment are one per cent a month, according to County Treasurer Edward J. Rosewell. Rosewell said the county already has collected $76 million from the first installment.

Any property owner who has not received a tax bill or who has questions about the bill may call Rosewell's office in Room 112 of the county building, 443-7930.

Cops support parole end

The president of the Combined Counties Police Assn. has announced support for Gov. Daniel Walker's proposals to eliminate parole for criminals.

John Flood said the organization supports Walker's plan which provides for fixed sentences and voluntary participation in rehabilitation programs. The rehabilitation programs would have no effect on the length of a prisoner's sentence. Flood called the proposal "tough, fair and realistic."

He gets unexpected ride

The blue goose on the tail of North Central Airlines flight 570 was flush red when the DC-9 arrived from Madison, Wis.

A member of the Madison baggage crew was locked in the jet's baggage compartment. It was an accident, airline officials say.

The employe, whom officials refused to identify, was inside the compartment looking for a suitcase shortly before the jet's departure from the Dane County Regional Airport.

The door was slammed shut, and no one knew he was inside until the rest of the crew discovered someone was missing.

An ambulance crew was waiting at O'Hare Field, but the employe wasn't injured.

"When we opened the door, he was just sitting there smiling," said an official in Chicago.

The employe was put on the next North Central flight back to Madison. A seat up front, of course.

Boy beaten to death

Hector Cruz, 14, of Chicago, told his parents he was going to "shoot baskets" at the schoolyard two blocks away.

Twenty minutes later, he was found dead.

Police found the body only about 100 feet from the door of his parents' basement apartment. A night attendant at the lighted schoolyard told police Hector never arrived.

Police said Thursday the eighth grader may have been beaten to death with a baseball bat. They had no suspects.

Hector's father, Santos Cruz, 32, said his son was "a good boy" who had never been involved in gang activities. Police said the boy had not been robbed or sexually molested.

Police Sgt. Rocco Rinaldo said: "It looks like the body may have been dragged to where it was found, or the boy was trying to crawl home."

Schools hit for segregation

The state Board of Education Thursday cited Chicago, Cahokia and Argo-Summit school districts for failing to desegregate their classrooms or to file a plan indicating they would do so in the future.

The districts were among 11 which state School Superintendent Joseph Cronin had told the board were not in compliance with state desegregation guidelines. The other districts, which are expected to be cited later today, are in Madison, Harvey, Maywood, Rockford, Springfield, Waukegan, Chicago Heights and Hazelcrest.

A citation by the board is the first step in a 14-month time table leading to a possible cutoff of federal funds for districts which don't cooperate.

Under state regulations, all school districts must have the same percentage of minority students in each school as the percentage in the entire district, give or take 15 per cent.

Symphony schedules kids' concert

The Harper Community Orchestra, under the direction of George Makas, will present a children's concert at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, March 7.

Featured performers at the concert will be students from the Suzuki Academy of Performing Arts in Arlington Heights. These students range in age from 6 to 16 and have performed throughout the Midwest at various universities, on television and in films.

Director Betty Haag, a student of Mischa Mischakoff, introduced the Suzuki method of violin instruction to the public schools of Arlington Heights.

Featured pianists will be two Harper faculty members, Fred Kern and Beverly McGahey. The performance of Sergei Prokofieff's "Peter and the Wolf" will be a highlight of the concert. Jean Makas, narrator, is currently reading specialist at Glenbrook High School. She will also narrate "Carnival of the Animals" by Saint-Saens.

Open to the community free of charge, the concert will be held in the college center lounge, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

Ex-Grant workers may claim pay

Former W. T. Grant employes can contact the Illinois Dept. of Labor if they want to file claims for severance pay or other benefits, said Donald Johnson, department director.

"Our wage claim division has been in touch with W. T. Grant and has taken responsibility for forwarding all claims to the attention of the bankruptcy court in New York," Johnson said. "W. T. Grant recently closed its Illinois stores, affecting 1,500 employes.

The company's bankruptcy is the largest in U.S. history. It is "extremely unlikely" former employes will receive all the money they claim, Johnson said. Claims should be sent to: Wage Claim Division, Room 1808, 910 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, 60605.

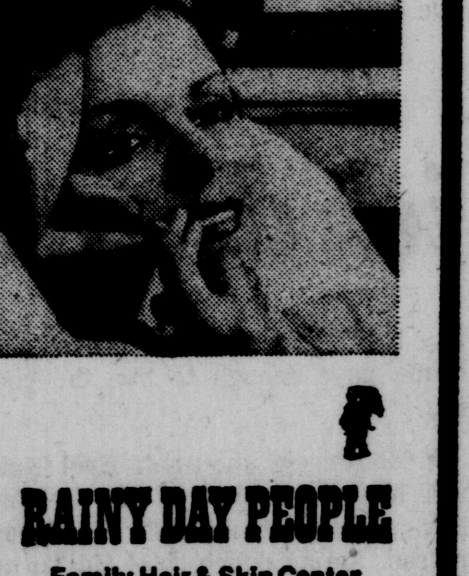
INTRODUCING...

Depilatron, totally effective, totally safe, totally painless hair removal.



Now there is a revolutionary, new way to remove unwanted hair from any part of your body. It's called the DEPILATRON Method...and it's as safe and painless as it is effective.

With the patented Depilatron Method, no needles are used, so no scabs can develop. A special tweezer touches only the hair, not the skin, and in seconds, as if by magic, the hair is removed. And the Depilatron Method is fast. Normally, a lip or chin hair problem can be taken care of in an hour or so. Without pain, without swelling or irritation. In fact, make up can be applied immediately after treatment.

Scholarships

The Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will award 36 Golden Jubilee Scholarships for the 1976-77 school year, one in each PTA district. Applications are available at high school guidance offices and must be submitted by March 15. The purpose of the award is to recruit teachers, librarians or instructional media specialists, school nurses, social workers, school psychologists, and teachers of vocational subjects, for Illinois public schools.

Applicants must graduate in the upper 20 per cent of their class and are judged on love of children, desire to teach, scholastic standing, leadership, character, and mental and physical health. The winner may attend the college of his choice.

The scholarship in each district is $1,000, with $250 being awarded each year. Applications for renewal must be made each of the last three years the student is in college. All recipients are obligated to teach one semester in an Illinois public school for each $250 received, or to repay the money awarded. A five-year period is allotted for the teaching or cash repayment.

Four area students will be awarded Eugenia S. Chapman Legislative scholarships. State Rep. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, will award the scholarships to students attending state-supported universities. These tuition scholarships are offered to any high school or community college student in the third legislative district.

In addition to four winners, four alternates will be selected. Each scholarship is for two years. Deadline for applying is March 26. Applications may be obtained from counseling offices of area high schools and Harper College or by writing Rep. Chapman, 16 S. Princeton Ct., Arlington Heights, 60006.

Contests

The Phillip Carpenter AMVETS Post 66 is holding its annual Americanism essay and poster contest for sixth graders. "What the Spirit of '76 Means to Me" is the theme of this years' contest. Awards will be presented for first, second and third place winners. Rules and information have been distributed to area schools or can be obtained by writing Mrs. Marge Rannie, Americansim chairman, AMVETS Auxiliary 66, 3200 Salk Rd., Arlington Heights, 60004.

Deadline for entires is March 29.

Special Education

PATHS, a group of parents and teachers of handicapped students, will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at Kirk Center, 52 S. Old Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

Guest Connee Meschini will talk on respite care, a competent and sympathetic care for the disabled family member while parents are away.

The election of officers will also be conducted at this meeting.

Sacred Heart High School

Honors were announced this week for five Sacred Heart of Mary High School, students who submitted art work in the Scholastic Arts Awards competition at Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect.

Chicago and suburban artists who won recognition in the Scholastic Magazine's contest will have their work displayed in the basement level of Wieboldt's through Saturday. Top winners are eligible to join regional and national competition.

Peggy McMahon, Mount Prospect, was awarded a gold key for a rug design. Also placing in the contest were: Maureen Forsythe, Buffalo Grove; Denise Chandler, Wheeling; Kathy Ley, Mount Prospect; and Colleen Mulroy, Arlington Heights.

High School Dist. 214

Wheeling High School debaters captured three speaker awards at two tournaments recently. Twenty debaters gained experience through participating in four types of competition.

Bob Tuklio, senior, ranked as the second place speaker among 54 participants in the extemporaneous debate division at the Oak Park-River Forest High School tournament.

Nancy Sabal, sophomore, ranked as third place speaker among 116 participants in the novice division in the tournament. She also received the second place speaker award at a tournament at Crystal Lake High School.

Competing in extemporaneous debate at Oak Park-River Forest were Brian Eklow, Harlene Pearlman, Sophie Terios and Bob Tullio, Patti Gorham, Larry Hitzeman and Kevin Schindler.

Novice debaters were Bill Halstead, Linda Platt, Julie Tarrant and Paul Wrezel, all juniors. Sophomores Cris Ambrose, Gertrude Honermeier, and freshman Andy Wisbacher also competed.

Participants at Crystal Lake were Patti Gorham, junior and Miss Pearlman, senior at the varsity level. Novice debaters included senior Bo Poulsen, who is an American Field Services exchange student, and sophomores Debbie Bruder, Sandy Getowicz, Ed Griffiths, Gertrude Honermeier and Miss Sabal, and freshman students Brad Greenberg and Andy Wisbacher.

High School Dist. 207

Four Maine East High School students received awards at the Future Business Leaders of America northern area conference held recently.

Bruce Bellak placed first in public speaking, George Dix second in bookkeeping, Norma DiPrima third in junior clerical typing and Scott Bellak third in public speaking.

For $2.2 million

Library bond vote Saturday

Twelve polling places in Arlington Heights will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. for Saturday's library bond referendum.

The polling places are: 1st precinct, Rand Junior High School, 2550 N. Arlington Heights Rd.; 2nd precinct, Camelot Park, 1005 E. Suffield Dr.; 3rd precinct, Hasbrook Park, 333 W. Maude Ave.; 4th precinct, Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.; 5th precinct, Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St.; 6th precinct, First Methodist Church, 1903 E. Euclid Ave.; 7th precinct, Wheeling Township Hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy.;

Eighth precinct, Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave.; 9th precinct, South Junior High School, 301 W. South St.; 10th precinct, Faith Evangelical Lutheran Church, 431 S. Arlington Heights Rd.; 11th precinct, Lutheran Church of the Cross, 2025 Goebbert Rd.; and 12th precinct, Heritage Park, 506 W. Victoria Ln.

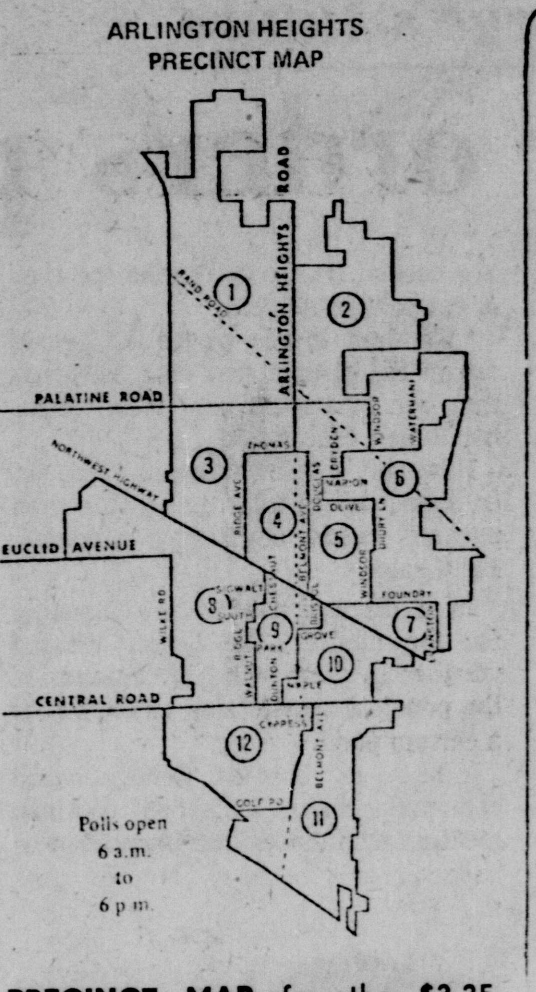
IF APPROVED, the $2.2 million in bonds would be used to expand the library, improve parking facilities and purchase new equipment. The proposed $1.6 million building expansion would extend the present building across Fremont Street onto land now used as a commuter parking lot.

A $50,000 remodeling of the existing facilities, $55,000 improved parking lot and $265,000 in new equipment also are part of the planned expenditures.

The referendum would cost homeowners with a house with an assessed valuation of $10,000 approximately $8 annually for the next 20 years.

Library officials have said the expansion program will meet the community's needs for the next 5 to 10 years.

Last year, voters approved $720,000 in bonds for the purchase of new books for the library. However, the library cannot purchase the books under law unless the additional space, to be financed with Saturday's referendum, is provided for them.



PRECINCT MAP for the $2.25 million Arlington Heights Memorial Library expansion referendum set Saturday. Polling places will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Shopping, business area survey slated by village

Arlington Heights residents will be surveyed on their shopping habits and their attitudes on the central business district in the village's March newsletter.

The survey is being conducted by the village board's special committee on central business district improvements.

The committee, headed by Trustee August Bettman, is expected to recommend next month that a parking garage and pedestrian mall be built to revitalize the business district. The survey data will be used to assist in planning the projects.

THE SURVEY asks residents their opinions of the physical, parking and traffic conditions in the central business district, as well as their thoughts on prices, advertising and service at the downtown businesses.

It also asks what improvements shoppers would like to see made downtown and whether they would shop there more often if changes were made.

Village Planner Joseph Kesler said he is optimistic that surveys will be returned by at least 8,000 of the 22,000 households in the village.

Village officials are hopeful that such improvements as a parking garage and shopping mall will bring new businesses to the downtown area and encourage residents to shop in Arlington Heights, rather than the large shopping centers in the area.

VILLAGE PRES. James T. Ryan, in a preamble to the newsletter survey, said the improvements are needed to increase the village's tax revenue.

"In communities with viable downtown areas, their percentage of contributions to the over-all tax base can range from 10 to 20 per cent. In Arlington Heights, the downtown represents only 1.3 per cent of this figure," Ryan said.

"The assessed valuation also reflects a decline in growth. While the total assessed valuation of our village has increased 153 per cent in the past 10 years, the downtown's contribution to that total was only 2.4 per cent," his letter said.

Dist. 21 mulls cutting 50 teaching positions

Cutting about 50 teaching positions in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 was discussed Thursday by the board of education as one way to help offset an anticipated $1 million deficit next year.

The board, in executive session, discussed specific teaching positions that might be cut for the 1976-77 school year. The administration presented possible budget reductions that would cut about $500,000 from teacher salary expenditures, $350,000 in administration costs and $280,000 in materials and supplies.

The district has about 420 teachers this year. The proposed cuts would reduce the staff to about 366 teachers. The district had planned to cut 11 teachers because of declining enrollment.

THE BOARD HAD not made any decision on budget cuts by 11 p.m. Thursday.

The administration projects an income of about $8.9 million in the education fund next year, an increase of about $13,000 from this year. A surplus of about $560,000 also is expected at the end of the 1975-76 school year, making a total of $9.5 million in revenue available for the 1976-77 school year.

The district spent about $10.6 million during the 1975-76 school year. The district will face a deficit of about $1 million by July 1977 if expenditures are maintained at this level next year. To prevent this deficit, the administration proposed budget cuts totalling about $1 million, which would reduce expenditures to about $9.6 million last year.

Ed Searing, Dist. 21 teachers' union president, said the teachers also were meeting Thursday to discuss the administration's proposed budget cuts, particularly that reducing the teaching staff by about 50. He said the union might present a statement today.

IN THE TEACHERS' newsletter, "Hotline," the teachers stated the district is "not overstaffed but underfunded" and should look into ways to increase its income.

The teachers suggested that the district check into the possibility of reassessing underassessed property in the area, lobby for more state aid, approach the voters with a tax rate referendum and work to elect a governor who would give schools full state aid.

The newsletter also stated the "proposed 15 per cent reduction in the teaching staff and the resulting increase in class size will result in a drastic and totally unnecessary decline in the quality of education received by the children of Dist. 21."

To plan for college's future

Harper orders population study

The Harper College Board of Trustees agreed Thursday to commission a new study of population trends in the district to aid in future planning for the college.

"We need to plan based on the new developers in our area, the population within these geographic areas, and the new age categories we deal with," said Guerin Fischer, vice president for academic affairs.

The board currently is working with data from a 1973 demographic study and it will request an update of that study from Real Estate Research Corp., Chicago.

WITH THE NEW information the board plans to evaluate what facilities are needed and to determine the type of curriculum to offer.

"We want to see where the people are in the district and then see what they are interested in," board member Robert Moats said.

However, these buildings are not equipped to handle the traffic and parking needs of Harper students, Lahti said.

In a discussion of future planning for the district, the board debated whether to grow with the demands of the population or to stop expansion at a certain point.

Shirley Munson, college board chairman, said, "We should continue meeting demands of the population as long as it is fiscally possible."

THE BOARD ASKED the administration to set up a deliberation schedule to determine what information it will need before continuing its expansion plans.

Spring semester enrollments at Harper are 31 per cent ahead of enrollments at this time last year, according to early registration figures. College administrators expect enrollments to continue climbing in the next few years.

Meeting as a committee-of-the-whole Thursday, the board considered establishing an extension center as a temporary solution to overcrowding at the main campus in Palatine. The board has not reached a final decision on whether to build a second campus. Extension centers would be off-campus buildings housing classes.

A $12 million bond issue was approved by voters in September to provide funds for construction of a second campus at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads, Arlington Heights.

"When the update of the demographic study comes in and if it appears we are still growing at a fast pace, we will assess the enrollment, look at campus utilization and consider using extension centers on an interim basis," College Pres Robert Lahti said.

Two Arlington Heights Boy Scouts tonight will receive Eagle Scout awards at a court of honor ceremony.

The Scouts, Kevin G. Kurtz and Thomas P. Schumacher, will be inducted at 7 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall by Richard Kozakiewicz, Troop 166 committee chairman.

Kurtz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Kurtz, is an eighth-grade student at St. James Junior High School. Schumacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth V. Schumacher, is a junior at Arlington High School.

New liquor license for Giraffe?

The creation of a new liquor licIense for the Giraffe discotheque will be recommended by the public health and safety committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The issuance of the new license would resolve a five-month-long controversy over liquor restrictions at the discotheque adajcent to the Brass Rail restaurant, 2121 S. Arington Heights Rd.

The new license is in addition to the Class AA liquor license issued to the Brass Rail. It allows the Giraffe to serve liquor without the requirement that food also be offered.

The proposed fee for the adjunct license is $2,000.

Village officials and the discotheque operators have disagreed since September whether the Giraffe can legally operate under the liquor license issued to the Brass Rail.

The restaurant pays $2,000 for its Class AA license and $500 for a cabaret license, which allows live entertainment.

To comply with the Class AA license requirements, the Giraffe has been offering food to its customers. The discotheque has been operating under a grace period from the village board, while the public health and safety committee studied the matter.

Village fiscal unit OKs youth unit funds request

Budget requests from the Arlington Heights Youth Council totaling $67,800 have been approved by the village board's finance committee.

Final approval must now be received from the full board when the final budget is presented in April.

Unless reductions are made then, the youth council will receive $29,000 for Omni-House, $19,000 for the counselor-in-the-park program, $15,000 for Uplift, a peer group counseling service, $4,500 for the Ecology Corps program, $200 for a quarterly newsletter and $100 for general operating expenses.

A decision on the youth council's request for funds to stage a "Youth Fair" was delayed until the committee's final budget hearing March 3.

The approval of $29,000 for the Omni-House program, a youth service bureau that also receives funds from Wheeling Township and other municipalities in the township, was $9,000 more than recommended in the budget proposed by the village administration. The program received $20,000 last year.

THE JUMP IN funding to $29,000 surprised Trustee Alfred Barboro, who served as chairman of the youth council until last month when he was named to the village board.

"During deliberations with the youth council, I myself felt we should only ask for $25,000. I'm not sure the jump from $20,000 to $29,000 was totally justified in one year. I guess it shows they have confidence in the youth council," Barboro said.

The approval of $19,000 for the counselor-in-the-park program was $1,000 more than was appropriated last year. The village administration had also recommended that that level not be increased.

Expanded store to open

A new, expanded Jewel Food Store will open in the Arlington Market Shopping Center Saturday.

The store will feature a bakery, fresh seafood, a prepared-food center, a sausage shop and a general merchandise area.

an outside management consultant study of the department's operations but no action was taken.

Ryan said Thursday it was likewise "premature" to consider hiring outside consultants before a retirement date for Calderwood is announced.

Palmatier said, "As I indicated Tuesday night, I would still favor such a study." He suggested it coincide with the selection of Calderwood's successor.

"We should defer it until the new chief is on board or at least on hand to have input. I still think the study should be conducted," he said.

LIKE RYAN, Palmatier said there should be a "wide open search . . . nationwide . . . to get the best man available."

He said, "The village manager has the right to appoint the chief and all other department heads," under the manager-council form of government, but that the fire and police commission or a special committee should make recommendations to Hanson.

Calderwood assumed command in Arlington Heights in 1958. Before that, he had been a policeman in Evanston since 1928, attaining the rank of captain before he left that town.

Burglars rob office, apartment complex

Burglars broke into two apartments of a complex in Arlington Heights late Tuesday, stealing a $300 television set owned by Curtis D. Donges, 2206 Goebbert Rd., police said.

The burglary of Donges' apartment was discovered while police were investigating another break-in at the residence of Mary L. Brooks. Nothing was reported stolen from that apartment, but the woman returned home about 10 p.m. and noticed the break-in.

The burglars entered both apartments through windows.

Burglars also broke into John Lewis Beauty School, 320 Northwest Hy., and stole between $38 and $50 in cash Early Wednesday, police said.

Police said the money was in an office cash box. The burglars broke a rear window to enter the building, then forced open the office door, police said.

Parade plans announced

Marching organizations or groups wishing to have a float in the Arlington Heights Memorial Day parade should contact Edward Doyle, secretary of the VFW Memorial Day Committee, 1221 S. Pine St., Arlington Heights, by letter no later than April 16. The parade is May 31.

Daley and suburbs—what gives?

by STEVE BROWN

Herald Political Writer

Richard J. Daley in the suburbs. The mayor and his entourage, much like Dorothy and her gang tripping into Oz, discovered last week that there is something somewhere over the rainbow — votes.

Hizzoner, as some like to refer to one of the most powerful figures in the Democratic Party, broke a decade of abstinence when he visited suburban Kenilworth last weekend.

Replacing the familiar term "Chicaguh" with "Nort Shore," Daley told a group of loyal transplants there is no wall between the suburbs and the city.

ALMOST LIKE THE critics of Christopher Columbus who feared the navigator would fall off the earth, Daley stepped gingerly from his limousine last week, apparently not sure how firm the ground was beneath him.

Welcome Mayor. The suburbs are for real, as you probably noticed. Daley's proclamation about no wall is a little shallow.

If there is no wall, why did he try to promote a congressional redistricting plan that was aimed at increasing the number of Chicagoans elected to Congress from Illinois?

If there is no wall, why did he push for a closed primary plan that would have limited the power of the suburban voter in countywide elections?

IF THERE IS no wall, why does he prohibit city police and firefighters from living in the suburbs? The time has passed when police and firefighters had to live nearby so they could rush to the scene of an emergency.

If there is no wall, why are bonafide Democratic township committeemen, like Lynn Williams of New Trier Township, barred from some of the party's key decisions? Granted, Williams is a rable rouser in the eyes of the party leaders, but he was elected by the "pee-pul."

If there is no wall, why does he need to send Jane Byrne to the suburbs to organize "clubs?" Why not just work with the current party organizations?

It appears Daley speaks with either a forked-tongue or a fogged mind. In fairness, it does seem the mayor believes there is no wall when it comes to exacting taxes for the continuing bailout of the Chicago Transit Authority under the guise of the RTA.

THERE ALSO appears to be no wall for the placement of workers in the county forest prserves or highway departments.

It appears the mayor has finally decided Cook County does not end at the Chicago city limits and that there may be some votes to gain in the suburbs.

The mayor should be warned that he may need to change his style. Suburban voters classically do not seem to be motivated by jobs — patronage jobs that is. They seem to vote more on issues.

The situation might have changed. Daley does not seem to think so. At this point he seems to be willing to let the Byrne barnstormers race through selected areas establising beachheads.

Whether this tactic works remains in question. The emergence of Daley in the suburbs might just guarantee the mavericks more success. If the mayor or Mrs. Byrne push too hard on some of the regular organization people, however, the city hall brain trust may just find the welcome mat pulled in and a few bricklayers at work.

Dow Jones drops 15.74 points

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market suffered its worst loss in nearly three months Thursday in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange when the Dow Jones industrial average failed for the third day to crack the 1,000 barrier.

The Dow plunged 15.74, points to 978.83, the worst setback since it dropped 17.71 points on Dec. 3. As in the previous two sessions, the closely watched average had reached the 996 area but failed to go higher.

"You might say it's a case of three strikes and you're out," said Newton Zinder, vice president of E. F. Hutton & Co. He was not surprised at the setback. A number of analysts noted the Dow did much the same thing in 1965 when it made its first assault ever on the barrier.

THE LAST TIME it closed above 1,000 was on Jan. 26, 1973, when it finished at 1,003.54. It reached an all-time high of 1,051.70 on Jan. 11 of that year. It gained 1.02 points Wednesday to reach a three-year high.

A number of traders, sensing there would be a sell-off if the Dow went through 1,000, placed sell orders in the 995 range, analysts said, and that blunted a further advance.

"This is a classic example of the contrary investor adage that when everybody thinks the market is going to do something, it does the opposite," said Monte Gordon, vice president of Dreyfus Corp.

Volume totaled 34,320,000 shares, indicating the sell-off was widespread. Turnover Wednesday totaled 34,680,000 shares. Volume so far this year has been the heaviest in the 184-year history of the NYSE, while prices have registered one of the strongest short-term advances ever.

Further demonstrating the breadth of the slide, Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 1.58 to 100.11. The NYSE common stock index dropped 0.84 to 53.62, and the average price of an NYSE common share by 53 cents.

DECLINES ROUTED advances, 1,219 to 388, among the 1,893 issues crossing the tape.

Profit taking hit the blue-chips and glamors hardest, which were the leaders in the unprecedented new year rally. IBM fell 4 to 256, Getty Oil 4 to 159½, Phillips Petroleum 3-7/8 to 49-5/8, Eastman Kodak 3-1/8 to 107¾, MCA Inc. 3 to 69-3/8 and DuPont 3 to 153¾.

American Motors led the Big Board actives, falling 3/8 to 6-7/8 on 561,800 shares, including an opening block of 222,000 shares at 7¼. Chrysler was third, off 3/8 to 18-1/8 on 455,600 shares, including a block of 105,000 shares at 18-7/8. General Motors and Ford lost fractions...

Litton Industries was the second most active Big Board issue, off 3/8 to 12-1/8 on 473,100 shares. The company, which Wednesday won a $200 million Navy ship contract, reported second quarter earnings of 24 cents a share, compared with 21 cents a year ago.

Prices closed lower in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by 13 cents. Volume totaled 5,800,000 shares, compared with 5,720,000 traded Wednesday.

If there is no wall, why did he try to promote a congressional redistricting plan that was aimed at increasing the number of Chicagoans elected to Congress from Illinois?

If there is no wall, why did he push for a closed primary plan that would have limited the power of the suburban voter in countywide elections?

IF THERE IS no wall, why does he prohibit city police and firefighters from living in the suburbs? The time has passed when police and firefighters had to live nearby so they could rush to the scene of an emergency.

If there is no wall, why are bonafide Democratic township committeemen, like Lynn Williams of New Trier Township, barred from some of the party's key decisions? Granted, Williams is a rable rouser in the eyes of the party leaders, but he was elected by the "pee-pul."

If there is no wall, why does he need to send Jane Byrne to the suburbs to organize "clubs?" Why not just work with the current party organizations?

It appears Daley speaks with either a forked-tongue or a fogged mind. In fairness, it does seem the mayor believes there is no wall when it comes to exacting taxes for the continuing bailout of the Chicago Transit Authority under the guise of the RTA.

THERE ALSO appears to be no wall for the placement of workers in the county forest prserves or highway departments.

It appears the mayor has finally decided Cook County does not end at the Chicago city limits and that there may be some votes to gain in the suburbs.

The mayor should be warned that he may need to change his style. Suburban voters classically do not seem to be motivated by jobs — patronage jobs that is. They seem to vote more on issues.

The situation might have changed. Daley does not seem to think so. At this point he seems to be willing to let the Byrne barnstormers race through selected areas establising beachheads.

Whether this tactic works remains in question. The emergence of Daley in the suburbs might just guarantee the mavericks more success. If the mayor or Mrs. Byrne push too hard on some of the regular organization people, however, the city hall brain trust may just find the welcome mat pulled in and a few bricklayers at work.

Dow Jones drops 15.74 points

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market suffered its worst loss in nearly three months Thursday in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange when the Dow Jones industrial average failed for the third day to crack the 1,000 barrier.

The Dow plunged 15.74, points to 978.83, the worst setback since it dropped 17.71 points on Dec. 3. As in the previous two sessions, the closely watched average had reached the 996 area but failed to go higher.

"You might say it's a case of three strikes and you're out," said Newton Zinder, vice president of E. F. Hutton & Co. He was not surprised at the setback. A number of analysts noted the Dow did much the same thing in 1965 when it made its first assault ever on the barrier.

THE LAST TIME it closed above 1,000 was on Jan. 26, 1973, when it finished at 1,003.54. It reached an all-time high of 1,051.70 on Jan. 11 of that year. It gained 1.02 points Wednesday to reach a three-year high.

A number of traders, sensing there would be a sell-off if the Dow went through 1,000, placed sell orders in the 995 range, analysts said, and that blunted a further advance.

"This is a classic example of the contrary investor adage that when everybody thinks the market is going to do something, it does the opposite," said Monte Gordon, vice president of Dreyfus Corp.

Volume totaled 34,320,000 shares, indicating the sell-off was widespread. Turnover Wednesday totaled 34,680,000 shares. Volume so far this year has been the heaviest in the 184-year history of the NYSE, while prices have registered one of the strongest short-term advances ever.

Further demonstrating the breadth of the slide, Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 1.58 to 100.11. The NYSE common stock index dropped 0.84 to 53.62, and the average price of an NYSE common share by 53 cents.

DECLINES ROUTED advances, 1,219 to 388, among the 1,893 issues crossing the tape.

Profit taking hit the blue-chips and glamors hardest, which were the leaders in the unprecedented new year rally. IBM fell 4 to 256, Getty Oil 4 to 159½, Phillips Petroleum 3-7/8 to 49-5/8, Eastman Kodak 3-1/8 to 107¾, MCA Inc. 3 to 69-3/8 and DuPont 3 to 153¾.

American Motors led the Big Board actives, falling 3/8 to 6-7/8 on 561,800 shares, including an opening block of 222,000 shares at 7¼. Chrysler was third, off 3/8 to 18-1/8 on 455,600 shares, including a block of 105,000 shares at 18-7/8. General Motors and Ford lost fractions...

Litton Industries was the second most active Big Board issue, off 3/8 to 12-1/8 on 473,100 shares. The company, which Wednesday won a $200 million Navy ship contract, reported second quarter earnings of 24 cents a share, compared with 21 cents a year ago.

Prices closed lower in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by 13 cents. Volume totaled 5,800,000 shares, compared with 5,720,000 traded Wednesday.

He needs to be controlled better!

The way we see it

Ford, Congress must curb CIA

Some past activities of the Central Intelligence Agency are badly out of harmony with the spirit of our free and democratic society.

Finding a method of reining in CIA abuses, while still maintaining an effective system for gathering foreign intelligence, is not a simple task.

A problem inherent in governing the CIA is that the agency has two masters: Congress, which allocates money, and the President, who makes foreign policy. Each has considerable influence over the CIA and must bear considerable responsibility for insuring its proper operation.

President Ford has moved first to correct abuses identified through congressional hearings, newspaper investigations and Administration probing. Last week, Ford proposed a three-part plan to establish better control over the intelligence system.

Ford's first proposal includes creation of a three-member "independent oversight" board to monitor intelligence activities.

The plan has several defects. We would prefer a fixed term for the board members to protect them from political interference; we also would have preferred to see Ford nominate some members who had no previous ties to the intelligence community.

The chief need of any corrective plan is to control the activities of our Presidents, who have been the worst abusers of the CIA. We are not certain the Ford plan offers an adequate check against presidential abuse.

Congress, like the White House, must share responsibility for abuses that have occurred. Lethargic congressional oversight committees too often have worked hand-in-hand with the CIA, allowing the kinds of abuses we've been reading about in recent months.

Ford proposed a joint Congressional committee on intelligence; it is predicted that each house of Congress will form its own intelligence committee and disband the six existing committees. Either way, Congress bears a growing obligation for sternly controlling CIA spending and scrutinizing overseas paramilitary activities.

Ford has ordered a sweeping ban on CIA domestic activities as well as a secrets act to stop the leaking of government documents to the press.

The domestic activities proposal, which restricts such activities as burglaries and eavesdropping, should not have been necessary in our democracy. But it is a needed reform, which should be accompanied by a plan to curb Federal Bureau of Investigation domestic abuses.

The secrets plan, however, is a repressive and unneeded proposal. Our government has not been seriously jeopardized by leaks; rather, the public has been alerted to government's failures by the Pentagon Papers and the Watergate-era disclosures. If a law is needed, it is one to loosen up the oppressive secrecy which engulfs our federal government.

We cannot judge today the likely success of Ford's plan; all we can do is measure some of the CIA's abuses. What is suggested by these abuses is a need for White House and congressional action to protect both our freedoms and our real security needs from future abuse.

Backs 'yes' library vote

On Feb. 28 the voters of Rolling Meadows have a unique opportunity to do something for themselves and their community. On that date they can vote "yes" in the referendum to benefit the Rolling Meadows Library.

The library, which serves as an important intellectual center for our community, will use the increased revenue from a tax rate increase to maintain present services, materials and hours. Unfortunately, the library finances are now at a point where hours and services will have to be cut back without an increase. Much-needed library materials cannot be purchased. Improvements in services and in the library collection cannot even be considered.

We have much to be proud of in Rolling Meadows. It would be a shame if our library could not be one of those things.

Vote "yes" on February 28.

'Wake up, Arlington, and support your race track'

I was enormously disturbed by the recent decision of the village board to disallow Arlington Park Race Track to celebrate our Bicentennial by having races on the Fourth of July which occurs on Sunday.

What better way is there to celebrate our 200th birthday? Horse racing is as much a part of our heritage as the Liberty Bell! This Fourth of July celebration would mean much for our community — additional revenue and nation-wide television coverage of an event that is so fitting for 1976.

How can our village board deny us this privilege? Are they trying to shape our morals? Please a handful of people on Wilke Road? Or impress us with their power?

I have been a resident of Arlington Heights for 20 years and I care about my village; therefore, I sincerely believe the village board should reconsider the issue and allow racing on July 4. Wake up, Arlington Heights, and support your race track! Your race track supports you in numerous ways — contributions amounting to over a half million dollars were made to Northwest Community Hospital; approximately $4,000 a year in contributions to Maryville Academy; not to mention the publicity our city receives.

Let's show our spirit and back the "Stars and Stripes Handicap!"

She hits Walker community college view

I'd like to protest the philosophy of Gov. Daniel Walker on Illinois community colleges. According to his interview with The Herald, published Feb. 20, the Governor said that community colleges should be confined to two functions — vocational education and educating students who cannot get into a college anywhere else.

Harper College in Palatine has done a spectacularly successful job in reaching the mature student — the student who may be hesitant about college courses, or who can take only one or two courses at a time because of the pressure of job, family or finances.

For many of these students, including me, enrollment at a "regular" college somewhere else (as defined by Walker) would be impossible. Many of my classmates at Harper in the physiology course I'm taking this semester are homemakers — mothers of young children. In no way would we be able to enroll at schools like Northwestern or University of Chicago, which is apparently what the Governor is suggesting we do. But we can advance our education, slowly but realistically, through attending classes at Harper.

Far from being the haven for rejected students the Governor seems to think it should be, Harper teaches excellent courses, with high standards of faculty instruction and course content. I speak from experience. Even though I have a bachelor's degree from long ago, I have nearly 40 hours of Harper credits taken in the past five years in a number of areas, as a way of continuing my learning.

Why are we going to have to get community colleges to cut back on courses, as Walker suggests, merely because we have projected enrollment drops in 1980 in four-year schools? Community colleges have seen a need and have been meeting it.

Educationally, too, the Governor's philosophy doesn't make sense. Why should a community college deliberately turn itself into only a school for students who can't get in anywhere else, as Walker recommends? If the goal of education is to offer opportunity and training, why penalize eager-to-learn students by telling them they're "too qualified" to be admitted?

The average age of the Harper student is 27 — because so many adults are enrolled part-time. Harper, and other community colleges throughout the state, have done an excellent job in making it possible for thousands of us to continue our education, presumably making us more productive to the state, and certainly making us more knowledgeable and aware citizens.

Cheers for Harper! Boos for Governor Walker! And cheers also for the thousands of mature students who have the guts, determination, and enthusiasm to go back to school.

He objects to dog on bike trail

I am writing this letter to lodge a strong complaint about dogs littering on and around the bicycle trail. On the small section where I live, I have counted 10 to 12 people who walk their dogs along the trail making no attempt to clean up after their animals have defecated. Some are leashed and some are not. I have even seen people drive up in their autos and allow their dogs to use the bike trail area as a toilet. I consider this littering at its worst and a possible health hazard.

I have lived here for 10 years and maintain that part of the trail area that abuts my property. I try to keep it clean and neat as a play area for the children in the neighborhood, but I will not clean up dog excrement. Therefore, I appeal to you for action that will stop or decrease this illegal use of the bike trail. Won't you please help?

She rips 'illogical' school budget cuts

Once again our district is in trouble. The Maine Dist. 63 School Board, in an effort to align the budget for the 1976-77 school year, has acted "illogically," a phrase used by a board member. They have lost sight of their Number One criteria and cut the heart out of quality education. One board member went so far as to say that they are in the business of administering, not educating. Your child is entitled to an education, not administration.

The board acted upon recommendations by the superintendent, and his list of cuts did not include many repeated options presented by some of the interest groups who were asked for input. The board passed upon recommended cuts that will affect every program and child in the district. There will be an added burden placed upon remaining staff and principals by the loss of classroom teachers, instructional coordinators, all but one nurse, custodians, secretaries, resource teachers, library aids and instrumental music teachers, and by administering the reduction and dissemination of physical education, vocal music, art, and speech teachers and social workers. The reduction of these services will hurt children directly and drastically! Will the children be safe in case of emergency without a qualified nurse in attendance? How can an intramural program survive with a minimum amount of time allotted each child per week?

Some school board members had intelligent suggestions for gaining additional revenue and learning to live with a deficit for next year; cutting programs only when necessary and not at all if the cut would affect the quality education that Dist. 63 is noted for. It would appear that the superintendent's recommendations have placed the dollar sign before the interest of your children's education.

The board has reversed decisions in the past and this time we feel a reversal would be a popular decision. They are elected to represent you, the parents and taxpayers, and to see that your children are afforded the best educational opportunities available. Call board members! Go to board meetings! Make your voices and opinions heard!

Views swim time

It is unfortunate that our high schools do not have pools and must make arrangements with park districts for use of their pools. This is not, however, the fault of the park district and in most instances they try to cooperate as much as possible.

I feel it is a little unrealistic for a high school to ask for "prime time" hours for practice at the cost of young children's swimming instruction and park district swim team practice. Also does Prospect High share the expenses of Kopp pool as you pointed out that all other area high schools do with their park districts?

Young children cannot have classes very early in the morning or late at night. Don't most high school athletics (football, track, basketball) require extra hours of practice, not always at convenient times or places? Isn't that all part of it? I don't think it is asking too much of high school age youngsters to start realizing many things in life are not arranged for their specific convenience; in this case, a whole park district swim program would have to be sacrificed. Without it, where would your high school swim teams come from?

MOORE'S CREEK, N.C., Feb. 27 — The armed forces of loyalist Highlanders made a dawn charge trying to cross Moore's Creek in the face of American opposition. The attack was repulsed in three minutes and the Highlanders routed. Subsequent capture of the loyalist leaders and 850 men netted 1,500 rifles, 150 broadswords and dirks, two medicine chests and about $75,000 in gold.

She rips 'illogical' school budget cuts

Once again our district is in trouble. The Maine Dist. 63 School Board, in an effort to align the budget for the 1976-77 school year, has acted "illogically," a phrase used by a board member. They have lost sight of their Number One criteria and cut the heart out of quality education. One board member went so far as to say that they are in the business of administering, not educating. Your child is entitled to an education, not administration.

The board acted upon recommendations by the superintendent, and his list of cuts did not include many repeated options presented by some of the interest groups who were asked for input. The board passed upon recommended cuts that will affect every program and child in the district. There will be an added burden placed upon remaining staff and principals by the loss of classroom teachers, instructional coordinators, all but one nurse, custodians, secretaries, resource teachers, library aids and instrumental music teachers, and by administering the reduction and dissemination of physical education, vocal music, art, and speech teachers and social workers. The reduction of these services will hurt children directly and drastically! Will the children be safe in case of emergency without a qualified nurse in attendance? How can an intramural program survive with a minimum amount of time allotted each child per week?

Some school board members had intelligent suggestions for gaining additional revenue and learning to live with a deficit for next year; cutting programs only when necessary and not at all if the cut would affect the quality education that Dist. 63 is noted for. It would appear that the superintendent's recommendations have placed the dollar sign before the interest of your children's education.

The board has reversed decisions in the past and this time we feel a reversal would be a popular decision. They are elected to represent you, the parents and taxpayers, and to see that your children are afforded the best educational opportunities available. Call board members! Go to board meetings! Make your voices and opinions heard!

MOORE'S CREEK, N.C., Feb. 27 — The armed forces of loyalist Highlanders made a dawn charge trying to cross Moore's Creek in the face of American opposition. The attack was repulsed in three minutes and the Highlanders routed. Subsequent capture of the loyalist leaders and 850 men netted 1,500 rifles, 150 broadswords and dirks, two medicine chests and about $75,000 in gold.

Views swim time

It is unfortunate that our high schools do not have pools and must make arrangements with park districts for use of their pools. This is not, however, the fault of the park district and in most instances they try to cooperate as much as possible.

I feel it is a little unrealistic for a high school to ask for "prime time" hours for practice at the cost of young children's swimming instruction and park district swim team practice. Also does Prospect High share the expenses of Kopp pool as you pointed out that all other area high schools do with their park districts?

Young children cannot have classes very early in the morning or late at night. Don't most high school athletics (football, track, basketball) require extra hours of practice, not always at convenient times or places? Isn't that all part of it? I don't think it is asking too much of high school age youngsters to start realizing many things in life are not arranged for their specific convenience; in this case, a whole park district swim program would have to be sacrificed. Without it, where would your high school swim teams come from?

Mayo shifting draws CBE ire

by LEA TONKIN

The news of Francis T. Mayo's replacement effective April 1 as U.S. Environmental Protection Agency chief in Chicago has drawn criticism from the Citizens for a Better Environment.

"We're going to put more resources into monitoring the EPA. If they back off in enforcement, we'll go to court," said CBE's Research Director Barry Greever.

Mayor's strong enforcement program against the steel industry and other polluters may have prompted the appointment of former insurance executive George Alexander as regional director, Greever said.

"You always become suspicious when someone with a proven track record is replaced by someone unknown," he said. Mayo will direct an EPA research center after he leaves his current post.

THE U.S. ARMY CORPS of Engineers plan to deepen the Upper Mississippi River channel, increase the size of locks on the river and extend the navigation season will require an investment of more than $3 billion, said officials of the Des Plaines Valley chapter of the Sierra Club. The group urges citizens to contact federal legislators to prevent the massive construction program.

The first step in the construction program is replacement of Alton Lock and Dam 26 at Alton, Ill. The planned construction program would change the Mississippi River waterway to a "Mississippi canal, with all the scenic charm, recreational potential and biological interest of a storm drain," the local organization said. The Sierrans also charged that the planned increase in commercial barge traffic on the river woud cause pollution and loss of wildlife.

THE ILLINOIS Pollution Control Board has slated three hearings on hexane solubles regulations. The sessions will be held 9:30 a.m. March 8 at the Metropolitan Sanitary District office, Chicago; April 16 at the new State Office Building in Springfield; and April 26 at the MSD Chicago office.

Walker campaign chief accused of illegal flights

Victor DeGrazia, Gov. Daniel Walker's campaign manager, has flown in state airplanes 13 times in the past 10 weeks even though he is not officially on the state payroll, the Quad-City Times and the Rockford Morning Star said in their Thursday editions.

The newspapers also said it appears attempts have been made to obliterate DeGrazia's name from official documents authorizing the travel.

The flights cost the state thousands of dollars. Since billings have not been made final, however, it is still possible for the Walker for Governor campaign to pay for the flights.

Walker press aide Mark Clark said he feels DeGrazia's use of state aircraft is justified because he has continued to do official business on special assignment from the governor even though he no longer is on the payroll.

The apparent alterations were made on the "cover sheets" of the Division of Aeronautics' flight request forms. On four of those sheets, DeGrazia's name was covered by "Snowpaque," a white fluid normally used by typists to obliterate errors. DeGrazia's name, however, could be read by holding the paper to a light, the newspapers said.

Illinois briefs

Stackler raps Crosstown

Ronald Stackler, a candidate for the Democratic attorney general nomination, Thursday called the proposed Chicago Crosstown Expressway an "environmental monster" and said Attorney General William Scott ignored Illinois law in saying the highway can be built.

Stackler, in Springfield, said the proposed highway will destroy 3,500 homes, "chase 18,000 jobs out of the city and add 5 million pounds of dangerous pollutants to the air we breathe."

He also said the $2.7 billion bill for the construction will use all of Illinois' federal highway money for the next 10 years. The money could be better spent, he said, improving mass transit systems and roads in Chicago.

Blackbirds stymie state

An Illinois Dept. of Agriculture official Thursday said the state has scrapped plans to use cannon fire to scare off millions of blackbirds plaguing residents of Massac County because county officials didn't like the idea.

"We brought up the possibility of using cannons (to scare the birds away) with officials and residents of the county," Neil Gunkel, assistant to the director of the Department of Agriculture, said. "But they didn't agree with this.

"I don't know what they're going to do," Gunkel said. "That's about all the state has to do right now."

Gunkel said there are about 5 million blackbirds roosting in Massac County near Metropolis in Southern Illinois. He said the glut of birds began arriving about three weeks ago, and state and federal officials are virtually helpless to do anything until the presence of the birds is declared a health hazard.

Nude massage ban legal

A Carbondale city ordinance licensing massage parlors is constitutional, Judge Peyton Kunce ruled Thursday in Jackson County Circuit Court.

The ordinance was passed last July by the Carbondale City Council and prohibits nude massages and any sexual stimulation in the performance of massages.

It was challenged by the Deja Vu massage parlor in Carbondale.

In his decision, Kunce said he took judicial notice of an advisory referendum in Carbondale in which voters by a narrow margin said they were against nude massages and sexual stimulation in massage parlors.

But will you survive the 'cure'?

This'll do your flu some good!

days, you won't even care. You'll just move from bedroom-to-couch-to-bathroom and back in total misery.

It's long been said the best cure for flu is aspirin, plenty of rest and lots of fluids, such as water and fruit juices.

You'll soon discover that all those fruit juices are causing many washroom visits. Since every step is sheer agony, I would suggest drinking no fruit juices.

But mostly, having the flu is just time spent sweating, chilling and being miserable. One of the biggest miseries doesn't even come from the flu. It's your sore back from resting on the bed and couch.

There are two ways to correct this. The first is to get dressed and go to work. But that isn't practical.

The second involves sitting on the floor with your legs spread wide apart. Now bend over until your head touches the floor, arms fully outstretched.

Here is the important part. Now wiggle your toes.

If you have wiggled your toes fiercely, you soon will have forgotten about the soreness in your back because there will be cramps in your calves and feet.

Another problem common to flu sufferers is the much-dreaded "Green Tongue."

THIS USUALLY DOES not pass until the flu is cured. However, there are a couple treatments.

The first treatment is a solid brushing of your tongue and teeth with either toothpaste or kitchen cleanser. Both work equally well.

If you want a more permanent cure, then follow this procedure.

Approach the bathroom mirror with your tongue stuck way out.

Today

Mike Klein's people

This might look silly. If you think it does, then try crossing your eyes, too. That's even more ridiculous.

How that your eyes are uncrossed, take a good look at your green tongue and answer this very important question: Am I ready to pay the price?

If you answer yes, then take a very sharp scissors, stick it way back into your mouth and snip off your tongue. This will forever remedy the much dreaded "Green Tongue."

You might want to brush your teeth afterwards, but that is strictly optional.

There are many ways to know when you are beginning to feel better. The first clue is when you want to wash your hair again. If you have the energy to warm some soup, that is another clue.

BUT THE BEST WAY to know that you are recovering is when you develop a terrible sore throat. This means two things.

First, the congestion has moved out of your lungs and into your nasal passages. Second, your nasal passages are draining the stuff back toward your lungs.

So that you do not recontaminate yourself, it becomes very important to begin blowing your nose hard and often.

Eventually, your nose will become red and raw. When that happens, begin blowing your right ear. (If you are lefthanded, then blow your left ear.)

Throughout all of this, there will be the problem of keeping yourself busy. It won't be very tough the first couple days. You'll just sleep.

Long about the third day, you should begin moaning. This is a sign for everyone around that you are still alive and might be wanting something for dinner.

Even though you have awakened, it is recommended that you lie on your back, your right hand over your heart. This is because you are not yet out of danger.

If you notice that your heart has stopped beating, get up and go to your telephone. Now call the doctor.

WHEN THE NURSE answers, ask for the nurse. This will confuse her because nobody ever asks for the nurse. She will immediately get the doctor.

Advise him that your heart stopped beating a couple minutes ago. He'll probably tell you to get some rest, take a couple aspirin and call back in three days.

Make sure you say thank you. Then go and write him a $10 check in anticipation of a bill for "phone consultation."

Now that you are resting again, perhaps you suddenly feel lonely and unloved. There is a way to cure this, too.

Take some peace beads between your fingers and couple your hands across your chest. Now lie very straight and quiet. Next, you should imagine there are lots of people in the room who are talking very quietly.

This will make you feel like somebody cares.

Congressional wrapup

Dunes expansion splits Mikva, Crane

From the Roll Call Report

Here is how the Illinois delegation in the U.S. House and the state's two U.S. Senators voted on major issues recently.

House

INDIANA DUNES: The House passed, 272-118, a bill to greatly enlarge the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore. The bill authorizes the spending of $3.5 million to add more than 4,000 acres to the 8,300-acre national park.

Supporters of the bill said the move allows for the preservation of additional property that may not be available later.

Opponents contended the "hodgepodge" of parcels slated for acquisition had no national significance.

YES: Mikva, Murphy, Russo, Derwinski, Fary, Hyde, Collins, Yates, Annunzio, McClory, Erlenborn, Hall, Anderson, O'Brien, Railsback, Findley, Shipley, Price, and Simon.

NO: Crane, Michel and Madigan.

Metcalfe and Rostenkowski did not vote.

CONRAIL: The House passed, 298-95, a bill appropriating $2 billion to implement the reorganization of seven bankrupt railroads in the Northeast and Midwest.

The bill provides capital and operating funds for the system. Supporters said without approval of the funds the nation's freight rail service could completely break down. Opponents said federal regulations drove the railroads into bankruptcy and unless the government reduces the restrictions continued subsidies will be required.

YES: Murphy, Russo, Derwinski, Fary, Hyde, Collins. Annunzio, McClory, Hall, O'Brien, Railsback, Madigan, Shipley, Price and Simon.

NO: Crane, Mikva, Erlenborn, Anderson and Findley. Metcalfe, Rostenkowski and Michel did not vote.

Senate

Official Secrets: the Senate rejected, 36-44, an amendment to allow a president to continue the practice of classifying some of the material contained in his annual report to the Congress on military aid for foreign countries. The amendment was attached to a $3 billion foreign military aid appropriations bill.

Percy voted yes. Stevenson did not vote.

ANGOLA AID: The Senate defeated, 70-21, an amendment to delete the ban on the government giving covert military aid to Angola. The amendment was offered for the same appropriations bill' that the secrecy amendment was attached.

Percy voted no. Stevenson did not vote.

CHILEAN AID: The Senate also approved an amendment, 48-39, to prohibit military aid to Chile.

Percy voted no. Stevenson did not vote.

Blood supply drops; center needs donors

The North Suburban Blood Center is asking for donors to replenish supplies of fresh blood depleted by illness and increased useage by area hospitals.

Donors should be between the ages of 17 and 65 and in good health. Persons will not be eligible to donate if there is flu in the household, according to center spokesmen.

Persons wishing to donte should call the North Suburban Blood Center at 498-9840, Alexian brothers Medical Center, 437-5500; Holy Family Hospital, 297-1800, ext. 1900; or Northwest Community Hospital, 259-1000, ext. 366, for more information.

But will you survive the 'cure'?

This'll do your flu some good!

days, you won't even care. You'll just move from bedroom-to-couch-to-bathroom and back in total misery.

It's long been said the best cure for flu is aspirin, plenty of rest and lots of fluids, such as water and fruit juices.

You'll soon discover that all those fruit juices are causing many washroom visits. Since every step is sheer agony, I would suggest drinking no fruit juices.

But mostly, having the flu is just time spent sweating, chilling and being miserable. One of the biggest miseries doesn't even come from the flu. It's your sore back from resting on the bed and couch.

There are two ways to correct this. The first is to get dressed and go to work. But that isn't practical.

The second involves sitting on the floor with your legs spread wide apart. Now bend over until your head touches the floor, arms fully outstretched.

Here is the important part. Now wiggle your toes.

If you have wiggled your toes fiercely, you soon will have forgotten about the soreness in your back because there will be cramps in your calves and feet.

Another problem common to flu sufferers is the much-dreaded "Green Tongue."

THIS USUALLY DOES not pass until the flu is cured. However, there are a couple treatments.

The first treatment is a solid brushing of your tongue and teeth with either toothpaste or kitchen cleanser. Both work equally well.

If you want a more permanent cure, then follow this procedure.

Approach the bathroom mirror with your tongue stuck way out.

Today

Mike Klein's people

This might look silly. If you think it does, then try crossing your eyes, too. That's even more ridiculous.

How that your eyes are uncrossed, take a good look at your green tongue and answer this very important question: Am I ready to pay the price?

If you answer yes, then take a very sharp scissors, stick it way back into your mouth and snip off your tongue. This will forever remedy the much dreaded "Green Tongue."

You might want to brush your teeth afterwards, but that is strictly optional.

There are many ways to know when you are beginning to feel better. The first clue is when you want to wash your hair again. If you have the energy to warm some soup, that is another clue.

BUT THE BEST WAY to know that you are recovering is when you develop a terrible sore throat. This means two things.

First, the congestion has moved out of your lungs and into your nasal passages. Second, your nasal passages are draining the stuff back toward your lungs.

So that you do not recontaminate yourself, it becomes very important to begin blowing your nose hard and often.

Eventually, your nose will become red and raw. When that happens, begin blowing your right ear. (If you are lefthanded, then blow your left ear.)

Throughout all of this, there will be the problem of keeping yourself busy. It won't be very tough the first couple days. You'll just sleep.

Long about the third day, you should begin moaning. This is a sign for everyone around that you are still alive and might be wanting something for dinner.

Even though you have awakened, it is recommended that you lie on your back, your right hand over your heart. This is because you are not yet out of danger.

If you notice that your heart has stopped beating, get up and go to your telephone. Now call the doctor.

WHEN THE NURSE answers, ask for the nurse. This will confuse her because nobody ever asks for the nurse. She will immediately get the doctor.

Advise him that your heart stopped beating a couple minutes ago. He'll probably tell you to get some rest, take a couple aspirin and call back in three days.

Make sure you say thank you. Then go and write him a $10 check in anticipation of a bill for "phone consultation."

Now that you are resting again, perhaps you suddenly feel lonely and unloved. There is a way to cure this, too.

Take some peace beads between your fingers and couple your hands across your chest. Now lie very straight and quiet. Next, you should imagine there are lots of people in the room who are talking very quietly.

This will make you feel like somebody cares.

Congressional wrapup

Dunes expansion splits Mikva, Crane

From the Roll Call Report

Here is how the Illinois delegation in the U.S. House and the state's two U.S. Senators voted on major issues recently.

House

INDIANA DUNES: The House passed, 272-118, a bill to greatly enlarge the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore. The bill authorizes the spending of $3.5 million to add more than 4,000 acres to the 8,300-acre national park.

Supporters of the bill said the move allows for the preservation of additional property that may not be available later.

Opponents contended the "hodgepodge" of parcels slated for acquisition had no national significance.

YES: Mikva, Murphy, Russo, Derwinski, Fary, Hyde, Collins, Yates, Annunzio, McClory, Erlenborn, Hall, Anderson, O'Brien, Railsback, Findley, Shipley, Price, and Simon.

NO: Crane, Michel and Madigan.

Metcalfe and Rostenkowski did not vote.

CONRAIL: The House passed, 298-95, a bill appropriating $2 billion to implement the reorganization of seven bankrupt railroads in the Northeast and Midwest.

The bill provides capital and operating funds for the system. Supporters said without approval of the funds the nation's freight rail service could completely break down. Opponents said federal regulations drove the railroads into bankruptcy and unless the government reduces the restrictions continued subsidies will be required.

YES: Murphy, Russo, Derwinski, Fary, Hyde, Collins. Annunzio, McClory, Hall, O'Brien, Railsback, Madigan, Shipley, Price and Simon.

NO: Crane, Mikva, Erlenborn, Anderson and Findley. Metcalfe, Rostenkowski and Michel did not vote.

Senate

Official Secrets: the Senate rejected, 36-44, an amendment to allow a president to continue the practice of classifying some of the material contained in his annual report to the Congress on military aid for foreign countries. The amendment was attached to a $3 billion foreign military aid appropriations bill.

Percy voted yes. Stevenson did not vote.

ANGOLA AID: The Senate defeated, 70-21, an amendment to delete the ban on the government giving covert military aid to Angola. The amendment was offered for the same appropriations bill that the secrecy amendment was attached.

Percy voted no. Stevenson did not vote.

CHILEAN AID: The Senate also approved an amendment, 48-39, to prohibit military aid to Chile.

Percy voted no. Stevenson did not vote.

Blood supply drops; center needs donors

The North Suburban Blood Center is asking for donors to replenish supplies of fresh blood depleted by illness and increased useage by area hospitals.

Donors should be between the ages of 17 and 65 and in good health. Persons will not be eligible to donate if there is flu in the household, according to center spokesmen.

Persons wishing to donte should call the North Suburban Blood Center at 498-9840, Alexian brothers Medical Center, 437-5500; Holy Family Hospital, 297-1800, ext. 1900; or Northwest Community Hospital, 259-1000, ext. 366, for more information.

Fun factory cranks out the comics

by ART HENRIKSON
(Herald cartoonist)

Did you know that Lois of "Hi and Lois" is Beetle Bailey's sister?

Did you know you might have sent or received one of the thousands of greeting cards that Mort Walker created while he was head designer for Hallmark?

If you are one of the more than 150 million Americans who regularly read the comics, you probably are curious as to how the strips are created.

Mort Walker, head proprietor of "Beetle Bailey" and "King Features East," tells all in a big, 300-page profusely illustrated volume, "Backstage at the Strips," published by Mason/Charter, $12.50.

"THE TROUBLE with creative people," writes Mort Walker, "is that they keep creating things, especially on gray days in February."

Walker is the Norman Lear of the comics field.

"THE TROUBLE WITH creative people," said Walker, "is that they keep creating things, especially on gray days in February."

The fun factory which Walker has assembled, includes Dik Browne, Jerry Dumas, Bob Gustafson, Frank Johnson, Bud Jones and himself, all talented cartoonists.

Every Monday morning each writer brings 15 to 20 gags to Mort's barn. This is "King Features East" located in easy commuting distance from Walker's Connecticut home — exactly 73 steps.

Readers of "Beetle Bailey," "Hi and Lois" and "Boner's Ark" expect to be entertained daily. Cartoonists can't wait for the muse to strike once, let alone 21 times. So this team produces the ideas. Walker pencils in "Beetle" and "Boner's Ark." Frank Johnson inks in all the dailies. Bob Gustafson does the comic books. Dik Browne pencils in "Hi and Lois."

SEX AND RELATED subjects cause the most flack for both the creators of the strips and the syndicate that releases them nationwide. The chief concern always: not to offend the reader.

For instance, Walker had a running battle with the syndicate over "Belly Buttons." Every time he put a girl in a bathing suit, he'd put in a navel. The syndicate took it out.

"I heard the editor started collecting my navels. With a razor blade he'd cut them out and put them in a small container labeled "Beetle Bailey's Belly Button Box,' " writes Walker.

"I decided to help him out and put on two belly buttons."

One day Walker hit them with everything he had. He drew Cookie receiving a shipment of navel oranges.

"THEY NEVER TOOK out a navel again!"

Products are shown from time to time in the strips. Gillette sent a new razor to Walker when he showed Lois shaving her legs. Other cartoonists will receive cartons of products after they have shown up in strips.

One famous cartoonist drew his leading character driving a Cadillac and then wrote General Motors to demand a free car for the plug.

When they refused he wrote back: "Watch strip on Aug. 17."

On that day he drew his character running into a tree in a minor accident that transformed that grand automobile into a pile of metal spaghetti.

Mort left a financially lucrative job at Hallmark to come to New York City. After making only one cartoon sale to the Washington Post, he got a job with Dell Publications. At night he drew gag cartoons for other magazines.

HE SKETCHED EIGHT cartoon strip samples based on the character Spider for his gag cartoon sales. It was on his day off, George Washington's birthday. Three weeks later "Beetle Bailey" was approved by King Features.

For two years Beetle's existence was unstable, like "Peanuts" when it first started out. Then Beetle, against syndicated advice, was inducted into the Army.

Stars and Stripes banned the strip, but in the publicity and uproar that followed, Beetle gained 100 new newspapers. Today "Beetle Bailey" appears in more than 1300.

Later Walker produced "Mrs. Fitz's Flats" which Frank Roberge drew for 15 years. It never became as popular as "Hi and Lois."

THEN CAME "SAM'S strip" which Jerry Dumas and Walker co-authored. And recently "Boner's Ark" arrived which is signed "Addison," Walker's first name which most people don't even recognize. Some 55,000 readers have sent in name suggestions for the little bear in "Boner's Ark." Walker's magic goes on.

About the only illustration you won't see in "Backstage at the Strips" is one showing Beetle's eyes. Walker has never drawn any eyes for Beetle.

'Snoopy!!!'

Next on stage after 'Charlie Brown'

by ALICE Z. CUNEO

Cartoonist Charles Schulz says the biggest kick in his 25 years of "Peanuts" was the opening of "Snoopy!!!" the latest theatrical tribute to his multi-million dollar beagle.

"Snoopy!!!" the sequel to 1967's "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," one of the biggest money-making plays in American theater history, features Peanuts characters introduced over the past five years, including a five-foot, 85-pound mute bird "Woodstock," played by Cathy Cahn.

Woodstock, who generally plays Snoopy's "straight man," is a big hit among youngsters — contrary to what Schulz recalls as the first public reaction to the bird in the strip.

He said he got letters from Peanuts fans complaining his "innocent little character" was spoiling the strip because it should just be about kids.

"Nothing has ever given me more of a thrill than finally being able to hear people laugh at lines I wrote years ago," Schulz said at a recent performance in San Francisco's Little Fox Theater.

SCHULZ SAID making Snoopy think was a major turning point in the Peanuts comic strip's history.

"I was intrigued by the way people talk to their dogs and I just imagined how the dog responds," he said.

The artist once owned a beagle named Snoopy, but Schulz said the dog got into fights with another family animal and the arguments became "so violent we had to trade him away."

Schulz now has three dogs, none of which is a beagle.

The man who handles Schulz' business, Warren Lockhart, is author and co-producer of "Snoopy!!!" He decided to open the show on the West Coast because the "East Coast economy wasn't going well and why follow a tradition that you have to open in New Haven," he said.

"We're not 'Chorus Line' but we're fun and we give 'em their money's worth."

Lockhardt, president of Charles M. Schulz Associates, said he believes there's a need in show business for entertainment that leaves people feeling they had a good evening.

"TO ME THAT'S more fun than doing 'Towering Inferno'," he said.

Lockhart said he wants to let the San Francisco public "decide whether we had a hit or not." The response from both the public and the critics has been so positive he thinks the show will run for three years in this city and will play in cities around the country for one to two years.

"After all, it's a series of vignettes and I can cut lines periodically and make it more contemporary."

"Snoopy!!!" opens this spring in Los Angeles, Washington, Philadelphia, and possibly Detroit, and in Boston this fall.

"I'm not going to go trotting into New York — we've had overtures — but we want to be certain New York wants us," said Lockhardt, who was nominated for an Emmy for co-producing the NBC-Hallmark Hall of Fame's "The Borrowers."

The songs in "Snoopy!!!" touch on the trials of life — "Sit up: Lie down: Roll over: Play dead:" the torments of students pleading "Please don't call on me today;" the warmth of home in a tribute to the "Daisy Hill" puppy farm; and includes some childlike love songs — "Poor Sweet Baby" and "Just One Person."

In all, the music is reminiscent of the score of "Charlie Brown."

SOME LINES include a few jabs at Santa Claus — "the fat man with the reindeer" whom Linus notes has had more publicity than his idol, the Great Pumpkin.

The performance ends with a silhouette of Snoopy on his cartoonlike dog house with Charlie Brown noting, "As Lucy always says, he isn't much of a dog but after all who is."

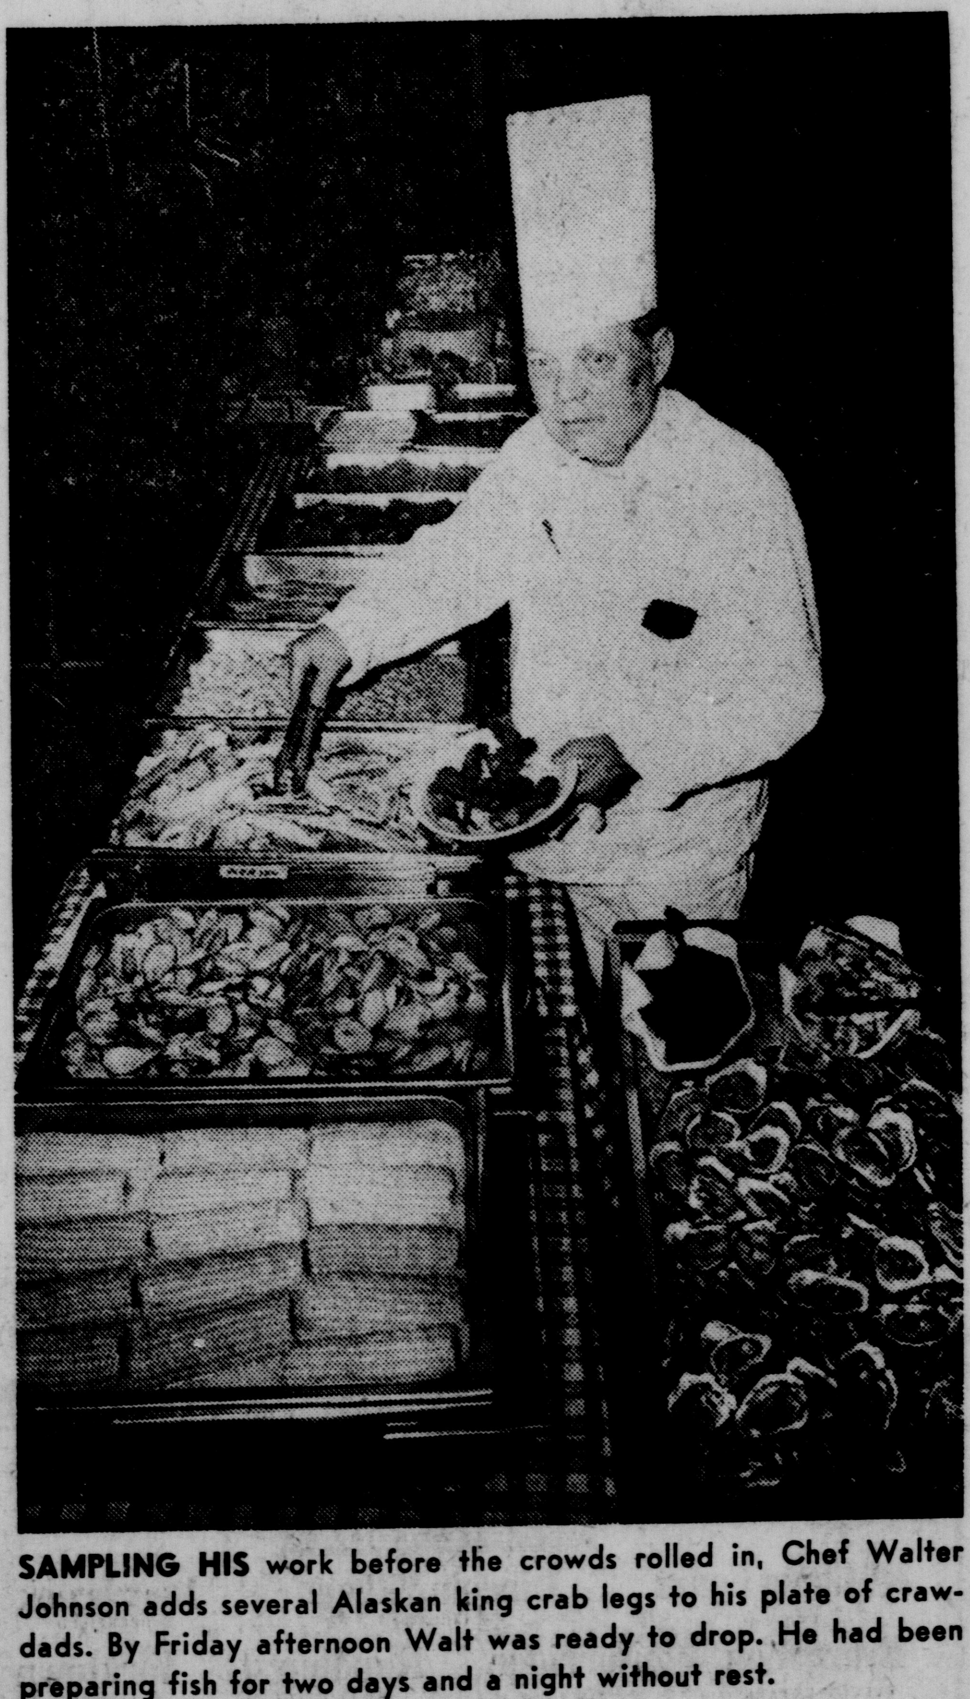
Louisiana Crawfish Boil

A seafood lover's catch

by GENIE CAMPBELL

My breathing was labored and it became increasingly difficult to sit up straight in my chair. It wasn't anything serious however, nothing a nap wouldn't cure. I had simply over-eaten.

Pier 100's annual Louisiana Crawfish Boil was a seafood connoisseur's fantasy come true. Long tables stretching the entire length of the barroom of the Mount Prospect restaurant were piled high with shrimp, steamer clams, blue points on the half shell, barbeque ribs, scallops, Alaskan king crab legs, Louisiana red drum, crawdads and assorted relishes, salads and something I haven't tasted since summer, fresh corn on the cob. Blame me for stuffing myself?



SAMPLING HIS work before the crowds rolled in, Chef Walter Johnson adds several Alaskan king crab legs to his plate of crawdads. By Friday afternoon Walt was ready to drop. He had been preparing fish for two days and a night without rest.

For dessert, if you managed to save room, there was watermelon, and the beer flowed freely in between trips back to the buffet table. All you could eat and drink for $10 per person. And there were hundreds of takers. From 6 p.m. to midnight both Friday and Saturday the food table was seldom visible for all the people crowded around filling their plates just one more time.

MANY LOYAL patrons who had received word by mail, came from Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin. Veterans of other fish boils and clam bakes hosted by the Captain (the owner's preferred title), they weren't about ready to miss this annual feast.

Yet it was a very special occasion too. Pier 100's original chef, Walter Johnson (who received his training on the wharfs of San Francisco, and is able to prepare any kind of fish imaginable), was returning to oversee the kitchen after a year's absence.

Heaping platters and contented, busy eaters added up to all the gratitude Walt needed. The guest of honor remained in the background, sometimes standing behind one side of the bar to watch the continual outpour of food. Walt preferred to remain out of the limelight. He was exhausted after having worked without rest for two days and nights.

Crawdads seldom make the menu in the Midwest, but a long time ago in the old Swedish neighborhoods of Chicago, it was considered a delicacy to serve crawdads, when available, with a schooner of beer.

Louisiana crawdads are currently in season. More than 200 pounds or approximately 3,000 of the little crayfish that resemble miniature lobsters were flown in directly to be the star attraction at Pier 100's special seafood buffet.

THOUGH THE FISH were delivered at the last minute, the actual ordering and menu planning was started six weeks in advance.

"When we plan one of these dinners, we just hope they don't have a bad storm on the Atlantic," said the Captain. "The fishermen can't even get out then."

Yet a bad snow storm in Chicago can also wreak havoc to the best laid fish dinners. The seafood might not even arrive, or if it does, people might cancel reservations.

But it would have taken more than bad weather to keep seafood lovers away this past weekend. It was too good of a bargain to let go by.

Pier 100 orders fish from seven ports of call including Africa. And though noted for their stuffed Idaho Golden Trout, other seafood entrees will vary, according to what is being caught. Some nights you might find Conger Ell, pout or skate wings on the menue.

"Definitely people are becoming more daring," said the Captain. "It's not all perch and white fish anymore."

IS YOUR MOUTH watering? Save your appetite. The response was so good for the Louisiana Crawfish Boil, the Captain is considering following it up with another seafood extravaganza next month in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Irish or not — seafood enthusiasts will be there ready to crack open the shells.

Blame me for stuffing myself?

SAMPLING HIS work before the crowds rolled in, Chef Walter Johnson adds several Alaskan king crab legs to his plate of crawdads. By Friday afternoon Walt was ready to drop. He had been preparing fish for two days and a night without rest.

For dessert, if you managed to save room, there was watermelon, and the beer flowed freely in between trips back to the buffet table. All you could eat and drink for $10 per person. And there were hundreds of takers. From 6 p.m. to midnight both Friday and Saturday the food table was seldom visible for all the people crowded around filling their plates just one more time.

MANY LOYAL patrons who had received word by mail, came from Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin. Veterans of other fish boils and clam bakes hosted by the Captain (the owner's preferred title), they weren't about ready to miss this annual feast.

Yet it was a very special occasion too. Pier 100's original chef, Walter Johnson (who received his training on the wharfs of San Francisco, and is able to prepare any kind of fish imaginable), was returning to oversee the kitchen after a year's absence.

Heaping platters and contented, busy eaters added up to all the gratitude Walt needed. The guest of honor remained in the background, sometimes standing behind one side of the bar to watch the continual outpour of food. Walt preferred to remain out of the limelight. He was exhausted after having worked without rest for two days and nights.

Crawdads seldom make the menu in the Midwest, but a long time ago in the old Swedish neighborhoods of Chicago, it was considered a delicacy to serve crawdads, when available, with a schooner of beer.

Louisiana crawdads are currently in season. More than 200 pounds or approximately 3,000 of the little crayfish that resemble miniature lobsters were flown in directly to be the star attraction at Pier 100's special seafood buffet.

THOUGH THE FISH were delivered at the last minute, the actual ordering and menu planning was started six weeks in advance.

"When we plan one of these dinners, we just hope they don't have a bad storm on the Atlantic," said the Captain. "The fishermen can't even get out then."

Yet a bad snow storm in Chicago can also wreak havoc to the best laid fish dinners. The seafood might not even arrive, or if it does, people might cancel reservations.

But it would have taken more than bad weather to keep seafood lovers away this past weekend. It was too good of a bargain to let go by.

Pier 100 orders fish from seven ports of call including Africa. And though noted for their stuffed Idaho Golden Trout, other seafood entrees will vary, according to what is being caught. Some nights you might find Conger Ell, pout or skate wings on the menue.

"Definitely people are becoming more daring," said the Captain. "It's not all perch and white fish anymore."

IS YOUR MOUTH watering? Save your appetite. The response was so good for the Louisiana Crawfish Boil, the Captain is considering following it up with another seafood extravaganza next month in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Irish or not — seafood enthusiasts will be there ready to crack open the shells.

Hank Williams Jr. has come of age in "Hank Williams Jr. & Friends" (MGM records), his best album, in my opinion.

Williams, in the album comes to grips with the dilemma of being a famous person's child in two ways. He does it directly in the lyrics of "Living Proof," where he says he does not want to be "living proof" of his father's greatness. He hopes that his own son will never take up the guitar and denies any desire to become a legend, like his father, the creator of "I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry" and dozens of other classics.

There also is the break with his father's traditional-style country music as several of the songs belong more in the progressive Southern rock school. The album is the better for this, too, as the change in style makes for a fresher, livelier performance.

TWO SONGS written by Toy Caldwell of the Marshall Tucker Band are highlights. They are "Losin' You" and "Can't You See." The album's other outstanding song is Williams' own "Clovis, New Mexico" with its clever rhymes. His friends, in addition to Caldwell, include Charlie Daniels, Pete Carr, Chuck Leavell (Allman Brothers) and Jerry Wallace.

The album will appeal to both country fans and those who like the Tucker-Allman brand of music. It is good to see an artist make such a successful change of direction.

More new albums in this country roundup:

"200 Years of Country Music" by Sonny James (Columbia), In this unique project, James attempts to cover all the major country music styles that have evolved during the past 200 years by singing 11 songs, each associated with a different performer. In each case, James has assembled as many of the original band members as possible.

ALTHOUGH JAMES changes his phrasing, he does not really try to imitate the originals, who include Roy Acuff, Bill Monroe, Gene Autry, Jimmie Rodgers, Elvis Presley, Hank Williams, Bob Wills and the Carters.

The project works, with the highlights being "Wildwood Flower," "Back In the Saddle Again," "San Antonio Rose" and "Great Speckled Bird" with Bashful Brother Oswald on dobro.

"Lovin' and Learnin' " by Tanya Tucker (MCA). Country's teenage sensation turns in a good effort, although there are weaknesses, such as the pop arrangement of Dave Loggins' "You've Got Me To Hold On To" which is unsatisfying.

Her strong efforts on ballads, like "Leave Him Alone" and "Makin' Love Don't Always Make Love Grow," more than make up for the loose sloppiness of the oldie, "Ain't That a Shame." She also does a good job with the Eagles' "After the Thrill Is Gone."

"WHEN THE TINGLE Becomes a Chill" by Loretta Lynn (MCA), This is her typical, smooth performance. Her own "Red, White and Blue" with its Indian tempo and potentially controversial lyrics (an unwed half-breed mother who wishes she were all Indian) is the best thing on the album.

Otherwise, the only thing that stands out is a sub-par "Rhinestone Cowboy" (the change in narrative viewpoint hurts) and the shortness — under 26½ minutes — of the album. When rock albums routinely give you more than 40 minutes for the same dollars, something has to be done to beef up albums such as this.

"We Be Sailin' " by B.W. Stevenson (Warner Bros.). It's all smooth sailing in this album from Stevenson, the first in some time. Particularly appealing are the jaunty opening songs, "Way Down By the Ocean" and "East India Company."

Soundings:

LORETTA LYNN'S autobiography, "Coal Miner's Daughter," co-written with New York Times correspondent George Vecsey, is scheduled to be published in late March.

Palatine's MARTIN MULL, singer-comedian, is writing a Bicentennial film, "My Country 'Tis of Thee." Also working on the film are musician Steve Martin, Harry Shearer from The Credibility Gap and Peter Elbling of The Times Square Two.

PAUL WILLIAMS will handle music supervision and direction for the long-delayed remake of "A Star Is Born" with Barbra Streisand and Kris Kristofferson. Kenny Asher, long-time Williams collaborator, will also work on the film music . . . ROBERT STIGWOOD (RSO records) and ALLAN CARR plan to turn musical "Grease" into a film.

John Raitt and others will star in Oscar Brand's stage hit, "SING AMERICA SING," on Channel 11 (PBS) the week of March 22.

Albums in the works: "Lifeline" by PABLO CRUISE," song of Joy" by CAPTAIN & TENNILLE, "Fearless" by HOYT AXTON, "Cry Tough" by NILS LOFGREN, a new America due April 1, a solo by MIKE PINDER of the Moody Blues and JUSTIN HAYWARD and JOHN LODGE'S follow-up to "Bluejays."

In the area: LITTLE FEAT Saturday at the Auditorium, Chicago.

"LOOK, MOM, IT'S GROWING"
BY ED FINK
A. B. Morse Company
(Countryside Books),
Barrington, Ill., $2.95

What better person to review a kid's gardening book than a child? So I asked my eighth-grader to read it, and here's the pint-sized view of "Look, Mom, It's Growing:"

> "I learned I could make plants from food — like a hanging carrot! And the book gave me some ideas for cool experiments that seem easy and fun to do. I found out some pests to look out for — like mealy bugs. Many kids will learn about things they don't know — like feeding, fertilizing and watering. Maybe, now, I'll pay more attention to my plant."

Ed Fink's book is geared to an 8 to 12-year-old level, I would guess, and he seems to know that kids don't want sophisticated dope — they want fun with their basics. So he tells about plants that move, eat insects, even plants that wear "boxing gloves."

THE AUTHOR TALKS about growing apples, oranges, grapefruit and avocados from seeds left over after eating the fruits. Now my daugher isn't throwing out the garbage anymore — she's growing it — pineapple tops, beet and parsnip tops too!

"Look, Mom, It's Growing" is complemented by simple, accurate graphics (line drawings of various plants), a glossary of terms and a project record along the lines of 4-H, all very helpful to kids. It covers desert, terrarium, bulb and water gardening, and shows how to raise an outdoor garden. There's info on potting, sprouting, making leaf cuttings — the author covers his ground quite thorougly, almost effortlessly, like Santa with a kid on one knee.

Why do all kids like to grow beans, peanuts and sunflowers? I don't know, but Ed Fink didn't forget.

Now Mchele is strolling around the school yard with three sunflower seeds down the back of her blouse because Ed Fink said in his book that supposedly if a girl does this, the first boy she meets will be the one she marries. And he also told her how to "rig" a daisy to always have the pulled petals turn out "he-loves-me," instead of "he-loves-me-not."

Now if I could only get that girl to do the dishes with the same enthusiasm with which she zipped through "Look, Mom, It's Growing!"

Intrigue and high finance go together like bacon and eggs, or so the fictional chroniclers of the business world would have us believe. This yeasty novel has as many predictable elements as a corporate annual report — including a lovely young woman about to inherit control of a Swiss financial and industrial dynasty (don't ugly young women ever inherit big legacies?), an old lover from the Harvard Graduate School of Business, etc.

Thdy all mesh quite neatly and enjoyably. The author, an old hand at books about business machinations, handles the characters and plot with great skill and smoothness.

Appearing in the play as townspeople are Marge Caperton of Buffalo Grove; Chris and Larry Peterson and Kathy Connelly, all of Des Plaines; Jean Errant of Palatine, and Peter Benitz of Rosemont. The production manager is Hank DeGroh of Arlington Heights and Kay Peet, also of Arlington Heights, is stage manager. Peter Benitz designed the set.

Two matinees, 1:30 and 3:30, will be staged on each production day. Reservations, 259-3200.

Neurotic 'Taxi Driver'

Movie never answers why

by DAVID DUGAS

(A review)

Many admirers of Robert Altman's sprawling movie "Nashville" nevertheless felt unsatisfied by its climactic assassination scene. Nothing was known of the gunman except that he was a young drifter with an overbearing mother — and probably hit the wrong target.

Martin Scorsese's "Taxi Driver" focuses on such an assassin, and he is brilliantly portrayed by Robert De Niro.

But one learns little more about his motivation in two hours than one does about Altman's killer in a few minutes.

As Travis Bickle, De Niro takes a job as a New York taxi driver to while away his sleepless nights. He tries for a romantic relationship with a pretty blonde (Cybill Shepherd) who runs a storefront headquarters for a presidential candidate (Leonard Harris) but is soon rejected.

HE BUYS HALF a dozen guns of assorted sizes, practices marksmanship and goes after the candidate. Missing his chance, he then trains his guns on the pimps exploiting a juvenile hooker (Jody Foster) he wants to rescue. Somehow this earns him a citation for heroism, not to mention a letter of gratitude from the girl's parents. He returns to society as the same engaging psychopath he was to start with.

Director Scorsese, who had his first popular success with "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" last year, is back in the grim territory of his earlier "Mean Streets" this time, and New York has never looked more ominous. Anyone can make pimps, prostitutes and debris-strewn streets look worrisome. Scorsese manages to make even the entrance to the St. Regis hotel look threatening.

Two recent films feature characters variously out of sync with society. Al Pacino plays one in "Dog Day Afternoon." Jack Nicholson is another in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest." Both somehow let the audience in, however slightly, on their special madness.

De Niro no doubt could have done the same if Scorsese had meant to illuminate the character instead of just scaring us with it.

There are a number of fine performances including those by Shepherd, Foster, Harvey Kietel as a pimp and Peter Boyle as a fellow cab driver.

THE SCORE by Bernard Herrmann, who died last Christmas immediately after completing it, features a wonderfully moody saxophone but sometimes turns to orchestral droning that only emphasizes the pretentiousness of this overwrought drama.

"Taxi Driver" is a Columbia picture, rated R for its four-letter dialogue and a particularly graphic shootout near the end.

DPTG to stage 'Sebastians'

"The Great Sebastians," a comedy opening March 12 for three weekends at Guild Playhouse in Des Plaines, derives its title from its leading characters, a pair of vaudeville mindreaders who call themselves The Great Sebastians.

Dealing with their adventures in an Iron Curtain country, the melodrama is laced with a number of demonstrations of their hocus-pocus. Even their final escape from Communist captors is achieved by a special trick.

Don Schroeder of Arlington Heights and Betty Kandlbinder of Palatine play Rudi and Essie Sebastian.

"THEIR HOODWINKING is so complicated," said Hank Vandenboom of Wheeling, who is directing the show, "that sometimes there are several pages of stage directions in the script accompanied only by four lines of dialogue. The whole scene may be acted out on stage in only about 15 action-packed seconds."

Also in the cast are Cathy Pasowicz, John Klein and Lucy Brodzik, all of Chicago; John Schile of Roemont; Joel Cohen and Randy Suits, both of Niles; and Ed Sauer, Jackie Shadinger, Marshall Kievit and Larry Peterson, all of Des Plaines.

Betty Kandlbinder

Also, Sue Louiseau and Toni Higgins, both of Arlington Heights; Dan Santerior of Hoffman Estates; Tim Burke and Jim Groat, both of Elk Grove Village; Jim Beddia of Buffalo Grove; and Mel Sinderman of Franklin Park.

Performers who are also working backstage are Cathy Pasowicz, Jackie Shadinger, Larry Peterson and Marshall Kievit. The producer is Julie Tobias of Des Plaines and Beth Vandenboom of Wheeling is assistant to the director. Other members of the production crew include Bill Shadinger and Arlene Zoellick, both of Des Plaines; Maxine Coehen of Niles; and Erv Busse of Melrose Park.

PERFORMANCES are Friday and Saturday, 8:30 p.m. March 12, 13, 19, 20, 26 and 27. Two Sunday matinees will be performed at 2:30 p.m. March 21 and 28.

"The show written by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse for Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne is good family entertainment. That's why the Sunday matinees were added to the run of the production," said Jim Beddia, DPTG president. For ticket reservations, readers should call 296-1211 between noon and 8 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Russians search for pop fortune

by ROBERT MUSEL

"Our big regret," said the elegant Soviet music executive, "is that our pop music isn't yet recognized abroad."

And with that he introduced a group called Pesniary of such astonishing musicianship they made a folky song titled "The Little Partridge" sound like a candidate for the American charts.

There were eight of them on conventional pop instruments including electronic guitar and organ — except for the two vocalists who played the Byelorussian lyre, a curious instrument which looks as if it were assembled from spare parts of a cello, barrel organ and accordion.

"All this outfit needs," said an American in the enthusiastic audience, in Cannes, France, "is some western-type material and a western record producer and they could make it."

THAT WAS GOOD news for Alexander Lebedev of VAAP, the Soviet copyright agency, which has a newly formed outfit to collect and distribute royalties from performances of music in Russia.

The Russians got a lot of attention at MIDEM, the pop music fair and festival of the world, held annually in Cannes, but only because the $2 billion-a-year music industry feels it is at the end of another cycle of rock rhythms and a fortune awaits the publisher who first identifies and exploits the next trend.

The verdict was that Russian music is not what everyone is looking for.

And after a week of offering their ear drums on the shrine of success the general opinion of the 5,100 participants from 42 countries was that pop is displaying the lack of direction that marked the days immediately before the birth of the Beatles a decade ago.

"It's the same pattern," said Publisher Dick James, who found the Beatles and then Elton John for the most lucrative parlay in pop history.

"NOSTALGIA IS hitting the charts, the music of the Glenn Miller era and the 1950s," he said. "But somethihg new must be in the air just as it was when the Beatles walked into my office. The problem is to sort it out of the diversity of music now available."

Sam Trust, president of ATV music of Los Angeles, said there was no question that the melody was becoming more important than the lyric in current songs.

"They are tired of messages," he said, a statement confirmed that very night when the audience at a festival gala sat on its hands while Joan Baez sang something about freeing political prisoners.

It's more than just a restaurant

One hundred years ago it housed cows. Today it resembles a medieval castle. And though the Barn of Barrington is a restaurant, patrons will miss out on half the experience if they concentrate only on the food. Some of the furnishings, collected from throughout the world, are unusual art treasures.

The rail of the spiraling staircase in the grand hallway was imported from Italy, originally for one of Chicago's Lake Shore Drive mansions. Hung behind the stairwell is a huge, antique French scale once used to weigh meat on the Rue Bonaparte in Paris.

Featuring:
The Barn

THE WOODEN entryway into the Great Hall, the main dining room, was rescued from the Harley Davidson mansion. And no barn I've ever visited contained 18th century wall tapestries and authentic Art Nouveau stained glass.

Still, it's a barn. You can tell. The original 120-year-old beams still support the 40-foot high ceiling of the Great Hall, formerly the hay loft.

And downstairs in the Carvery Restaurant (which features a greater amount of French cuisine in contrast to continental upstairs), one can distinguish the old cow stalls worked into intimate seating arrangements.

THE BARN is operated by August Ditzinger, former executive chef at Chicago's Berghoff Restaurant, and architect Fred Schurecht. It's a very workable partnership. Ditzinger oversees the kitchen and the Schurechts (his wife Grace is an interior decorator), have collected most of the furnishings.

After a stroll through the separate dining rooms and many small alcoves, we settled down to dinner in the Great Hall.

Catching my eye immediately on the menu was clear, turtle soup au Cognac, $2, a delicious, hearty consomme served in a dainty white cup and saucer.

My two dining partners were equally pleased with the soup du jour, lentil.

Bill o' fare

THE PETITE ROLLS on the table are well worth trying. They may look like Swedish rye, but they are actually made from ground nuts.

The observant should also notice the design of the house salad before taking a fork to it. The bib lettuce is arranged in the shape of a tree crown while hearts of palm form the trunk. Extra garnish includes artichoke hearts and peeled tomato slices.

For my main couse I selected Dover Sole Meuniere, $12, light, flaky white fish served with Parisien potatoes and fresh green beans seasoned with a variety of herbs. They were excellent as was the fish, though I felt the entree to be over-priced in comparison to other fine restaurants.

BETTER OPTIONS are Crabmeat Florentine, $8.50 served on leaf spinach (frozen I think but still tasty), consisting of a generous portion of crabmeat smothered in hollandaise sauce and tender tournedo Florentine, $8, also served on leaf spinach and topped with sauteed mushrooms.

Other recommended entrees are the Poulet Saute au Curry, $6.50, boneless chicken in a mild curry sauce that I'm told will even appeal to those who normally find curry too overpowering, and Turbot Veronique, $9.50, a white fish prepared in a white wine sauce and served with grapes.

For after dinner, the barn specializes in coffee liqueurs and flaming desserts.

Eating at the Barn is a luxury. It's wise to take enough time to do it up right. At least visit the Music Room, a lounge by week day and discotheque on Friday and Saturday.

THE DANCE FLOOR is made out of blackboard slate rescued from turn-of-the-century schools and the carved wooden designs over the main bar once adorned old circus wagons. The large copper and glass lighting fixtures are street lamps from Copenhagen, Denmark.

New at the Barn is the street of shops featuring a gift boutique, women's clothing store and a gourmet shop where the Barn's nut rolls may be purchased for 10 cents a piece.

If dinner is beyond your budget, try the brunch on Sunday. The all-you-can-eat buffet features a variety of breakfast and dinner items such as eggs Benedict and pastry shells filled with veal ragout. But save room for the desserts: crepe suzettes, three kinds of cheese cake, Black Forest torte and apple strudel. The price is $6.50, half that much for children under 10. Reservations, even for the brunch, are encouraged.

Good try but 'Nanette' hardly worth staging

by LOIS HENDERLONG
(A review)

It takes more than a will to please and hard work to mount a full scale musical.

The Players of Schaumburg's production of "No, No, Nanette" is proof of that.

To be sure, the cast tries hard. But this musical requires attractive voices, proficient dancers, and bit of razzle-dazzle choreography and at least a minimum of acting ability to hold the thin plot together. And none of those elements were evident in any great supply Saturday night.

The skimply plot is about a sweet young thing, Nanette, who runs away to Atlantic City in search of Adventure, and her Uncle Jimmy's suspicious-looking but oh-so-innocent involvement with three cuddlesome cuties.

BASICALLY, all the goings-on are simply an excuse for some snappy dancing and several all-time favorite tunes. Without strong talent to put it all over, the flimsy piece of theater is hardly worth staging.

Most of the fun in a musical like "Nanette" is its spontaniety and infectious festivity. What's happening on stage should look so easy and merry that the audience would desire to cut loose a little, too. But these dancers — less than half a dozen of them — don't inspire us to kick up our heels; they remind us how uncomfortable and frustrated we'd look if we actually tried a few steps.

The simple movements, choreographed by Cindy Youman, looked like hard work, and it's hard to say who breathed a deeper sigh of relief when all the hoopla was over, the performers or the audience. We're robbed of our fun if we have to worry about whether the not-so-nimble dancers are going to knock over the knick-knack table.

EVEN WITH A corp of experts, the company would have a hard time making the splashy scenes effective, given the peculiar stage layout. Housed in an office complex, the Players are saddled with a long, narrow room with no backstage area — in fact, with no stage either. For this play, they provided a simple platform along one wall, with two rows of chairs set up along the opposite wall and the sides. Only a few feet separated the audience from the actors and though at times the tight quarters make me feel a trampling was imminent, the setup seemed the most logical of the not-very-viable alternatives.

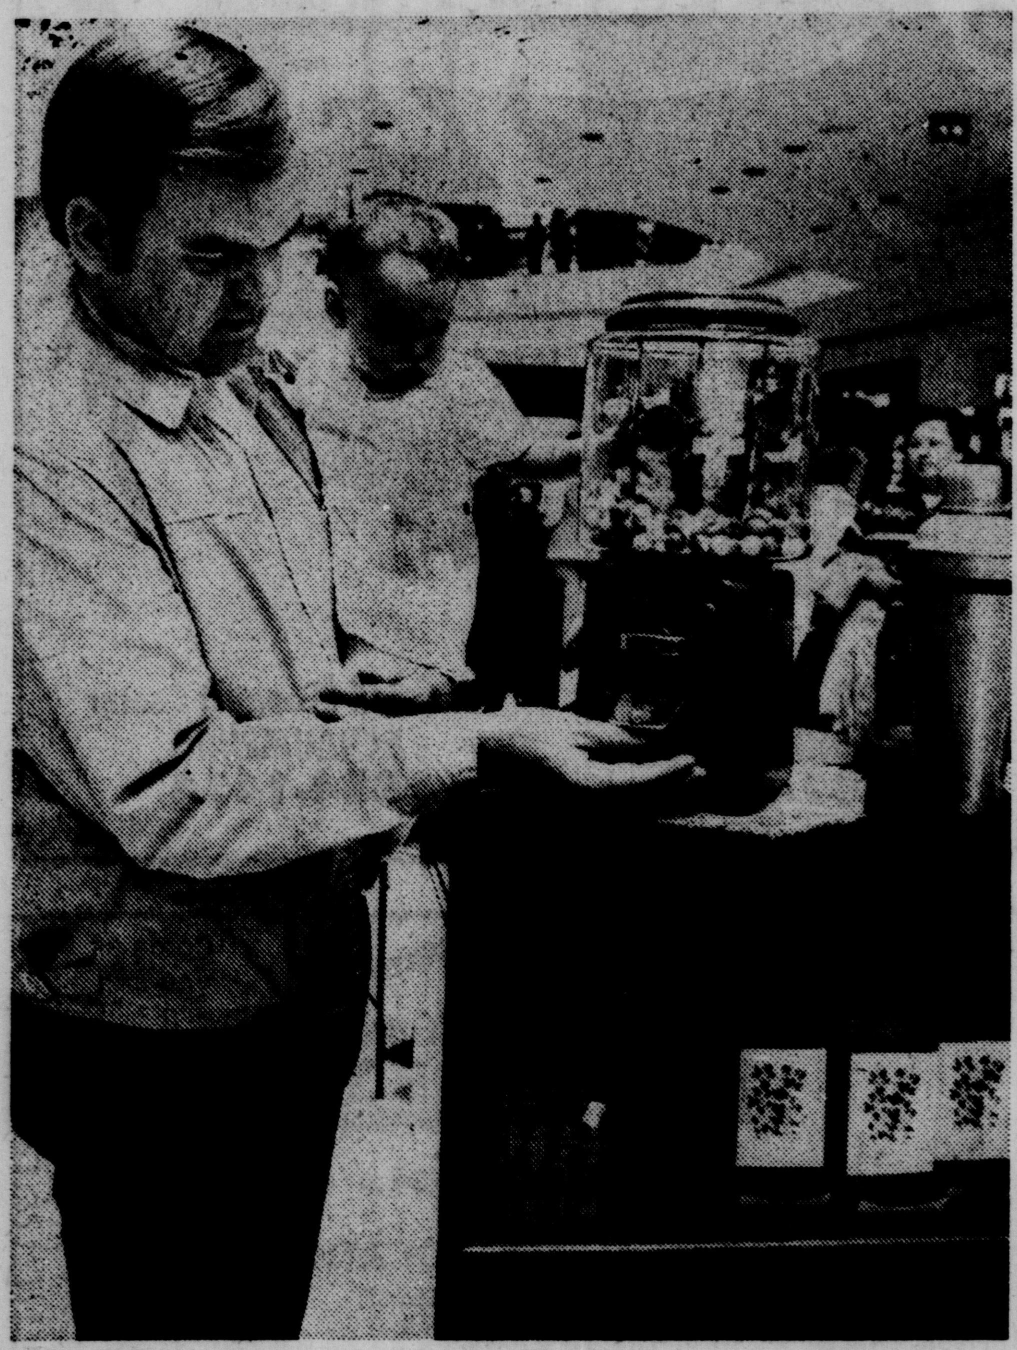
With a few exceptions, the singing and acting are equally disappointing. Ken Freehill, as the beleaguered lawyer who must extricate Uncle Jimmy from his predicament, offers a strong delivery, as well as one of the evening's few creditable dramatic performances.

OPPOSITE HIM, Karen Holbrook gives a gutsy portrayal of the diamond-loving society lady who possesses both stamina and drive beneath her creampuff exterior; her throaty torch song has real impact.

But it's downhill from there. The rest of the singers are endowed with the most modest of vocal resources "Tea for Two" is tepid, and "I Want to Be Happy" didn't make me happy, too. About the only good thing to be said is that everybody could carry a tune, if not belt out a song with some whammy.

Even figuring out what tune was being sung was a chore. The program gives no song listings, so anybody not familiar with the songs won't be any wiser after seeing it either. And though the program said there would be two intermissions, there was no break between Acts II and III. The quibbles may seem minor, but programs are supposed to be designed to help, not confuse, the playgoer.

The Players of Schaumburg are again presenting "No, No, Nanette" tonight and Saturday. See Billboard listing.



THOMAS BISHOP and little daughter Rachel, Schaumburg, admire a penny gumball machine, just one of the antiques available at the Woodfield Antique Show running through Sunday. Back for more fun at Second City

Night out

by Genie Campbell

SECOND CITY is right. Most of the audience is being held over for its 52nd consecutive review which officially opened this week. One would expect it. Satisfied customers always keep coming back.

And though this current rundown of blackouts and short skits doesn't have the sharpness, wit or spontaneity of past material, the revue still registers high on the scale of entertainment.

With elections rapidly approaching, it is natural to pick on politicians, both state and federal, though Second City's elbowing is a bit more tame than usual.

One of the better skits focuses on DON DE POLLO and JIM SHERMAN as presidential contenders George Wallace and Ronald Reagan, who happen to be talk show guests on "Minah's Place." Reagan "never has liked Washington," he admits, and Wallace, if elected, "doesn't think he'll ever go there." Least, that's Second City's version.

Patty Hearst trips across stage blindfolded to a jingle — "Hello Bailey, good-bye SLA," and Squeaky Fromme appears in her "Helter Skelter" world to do a commercial — "Does your deodorant let you down in a crowd?"

Religion always gets hit but to keep pace with the times, Second City offers — "Come in Jesus good buddy, we've got us a convoy."

Also in the cast are ERIC BOARDMAN, MARIAM FLYNN, STEVEN KAMPMANN and GEORGE WENDT. But I'm afraid the two ladies steal most of the show this time.

With all the Bicentennial hoopla going on, it's nice to be reminded of certain days gone by that, indeed, are best laid to rest forever. And if you can laugh at them besides, that's even better.

Barbara Eden

A relatively new playwright from Texas, PRESTON JONES, returns to the early '60s (gee, that's only yesterday) to spotlight a dying breed of brotherhood that is meant to closely resemble a mild offshoot of the Ku Klux Klan. But the years have taken their toll on the "Knights of the White Magnolia" who now number only a handful but still meet to salute one another and pass a flask.

It might be pathetic if it wasn't so very funny with a lineup of redneck characters that makes for great male ensemble acting at Goodman Theatre. Though all extremely talented, three members of the cast stand out: EARL SYDNOR as Ramsey Eyes, the black custodian; GORDON OAS-HEIM, the only one to try to uphold tradition and peace of the brotherhood; and JOHN WARDWELL as retired Col. J. C. Kincaid, who continually lapses into past wars.

"The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia" is not a great piece of theater. But it is extremely well directed by HAROLD STONE, and in times of few commendable theatrical offerings, it constitutes a worthwhile way to spend an evening.

BARBARA EDEN opens for two weeks in the BLUE MAX of the HYATT REGENCY O'HARE. Appearing with her is comedian DANNY KLAYMAN.

THE CAMELOT SINGERS, currently appearing at the TOP OF THE TOWERS of the ARLINGTON PARK HILTON for an indefinite stay, opened a new show this week featuring country and western music.

And just in case your children haven't had an opportunity to see it yet, "THE MAGIC OF YOUNG HOUDINI" has been extended at MILL RUN CHILDREN'S THEATRE. The musical magic show continues for three more Saturdays through March 13.

"ECHOES IN BLUE" choreographed by Milton Myers to Duke Ellington's music will be one of the pieces performed by the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theatre, which opens at the Auditorium Theatre for a six-day stay March 2. It is one of the four new productions that will be presented by the multi-racial troupe during this visit.

Alvin Ailey dancers open a six-day Chicago visit

Three new pieces, all set to Duke Ellington's music, will highlight the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theatre's six-day Chicago visit, which begins Tuesday at the Auditorium Theatre.

The company of 26 multi-racial dancers will bring to Chicago audiences for the fist time Ailey's "Night Creatures," Milton Myers' "Echoes In Blue" and "Liberian Suite'' choreographed by James Truitte and Lester Horton.

The Ailey troupe will also present a new production of "After Eden" choreographed by John Butler and most recently presented in Chicago by Lawrence Rhodes with the Pennsylvania Ballet.

A revival of Ailey's "Reflections in D" to Duke Ellington's music is also on the program. Other ballets to be presented include "Revelations," "Streams," "A Song for You," "The Lark Ascending," "Love Songs,". "Carmina Brana," "Hidden Rites" and "The Road of the Phoebe Snow."

Now 18 years old, the Ailey dancers have grown from a black dance troupe to a multi-racial company that combines jazz, modern and more classical dancing to reflect an American heritage.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday with a 2 p.m. matinee Sunday.

Local actor takes lead in comedy

In Country Players production of "Unhealthy To Be Unpleasant" opening next weekend, Richard Flynn of Hoffman Estates is cast in the major role of J. Francis Amber, an aging actor suspected of abusing his senile mother, played by Frances Bottom of Barrington.

Frank Randall of Lake Zurich will play the part of William Uggims, the man behind the title organization which is dedicated to the elimination of unpleasant people. Norma Randall of Lake Zurich will play the role of Connie Tufford, the maid with the sharp tongue.

Appearing in supporting roles are Sharon McNamara, Laurie Peterson and Eric Berger, all of Barrington; Laura Flynn of Fox River Grove; and Ruth Pranno of Arlington Heights.

Performances are 8 p.m. March 5, 6, 12, 13, 19 and 20 at the Shady Hill Community House in Barrington. Tickets, $4, will be available at the door. Information, 526-5385.

Back for more fun at Second City

by Genie Campbell

SECOND CITY is right. Most of the audience is being held over for its 52nd consecutive review which officially opened this week. One would expect it. Satisfied customers always keep coming back.

And though this current rundown of blackouts and short skits doesn't have the sharpness, wit or spontaneity of past material, the revue still registers high on the scale of entertainment.

With elections rapidly approaching, it is natural to pick on politicians, both state and federal, though Second City's elbowing is a bit more tame than usual.

One of the better skits focuses on DON DE POLLO and JIM SHERMAN as presidential contenders George Wallace and Ronald Reagan, who happen to be talk show guests on "Minah's Place." Reagan "never has liked Washington," he admits, and Wallace, if elected, "doesn't think he'll ever go there." Least, that's Second City's version.

Patty Hearst trips across stage blindfolded to a jingle — "Hello Bailey, good-bye SLA," and Squeaky Fromme appears in her "Helter Skelter" world to do a commercial — "Does your deodorant let you down in a crowd?"

Religion always gets hit but to keep pace with the times, Second City offers — "Come in Jesus good buddy, we've got us a convoy."

Also in the cast are ERIC BOARDMAN, MARIAM FLYNN, STEVEN KAMPMANN and GEORGE WENDT. But I'm afraid the two ladies steal most of the show this time.

With all the Bicentennial hoopla going on, it's nice to be reminded of certain days gone by that, indeed, are best laid to rest forever. And if you can laugh at them besides, that's even better.

Barbara Eden

A relatively new playwright from Texas, PRESTON JONES, returns to the early '60s (gee, that's only yesterday) to spotlight a dying breed of brotherhood that is meant to closely resemble a mild offshoot of the Ku Klux Klan. But the years have taken their toll on the "Knights of the White Magnolia" who now number only a handful but still meet to salute one another and pass a flask.

It might be pathetic if it wasn't so very funny with a lineup of redneck characters that makes for great male ensemble acting at Goodman Theatre. Though all extremely talented, three members of the cast stand out: EARL SYDNOR as Ramsey Eyes, the black custodian; GORDON OAS-HEIM, the only one to try to uphold tradition and peace of the brotherhood; and JOHN WARDWELL as retired Col. J. C. Kincaid, who continually lapses into past wars.

"The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia" is not a great piece of theater. But it is extremely well directed by HAROLD STONE, and in times of few commendable theatrical offerings, it constitutes a worthwhile way to spend an evening.

THE CAMELOT SINGERS, currently appearing at the TOP OF THE TOWERS of the ARLINGTON PARK HILTON for an indefinite stay, opened a new show this week featuring country and western music.

And just in case your children haven't had an opportunity to see it yet, "THE MAGIC OF YOUNG HOUDINI" has been extended at MILL RUN CHILDREN'S THEATRE. The musical magic show continues for three more Saturdays through March 13.

"ECHOES IN BLUE" choreographed by Milton Myers to Duke Ellington's music will be one of the pieces performed by the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theatre, which opens at the Auditorium Theatre for a six-day stay March 2. It is one of the four new productions that will be presented by the multi-racial troupe during this visit.

Alvin Ailey dancers open a six-day Chicago visit

Ask Andy

Dolphin, porpoise faces different

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A PORPOISE AND A DOLPHIN?

Marine shows are enjoyed by just about everybody. And a favorite performer featured is the dolphin. Often mistakenly called the porpoise, the dolphin seems to be a born star. He can make tremendous leaps out of the water; and since he is such an intelligent fellow, he can be trained to perform numerous underwater feats and also aerial acrobatics.

For years people have called toads frogs, bison buffalo and dolphins porpoises — and vice versa. Sometimes it is difficult to know which is which. There are, however, differences between these look alikes, and in many cases just knowing what to look for will help.

Actually, dolphins and porpoises don't look all that much alike. One way to tell them apart is as plain as the nose on your face. Dolphins generally have a rather large beak that is three to six inches long. The purpoise's snout, on the other hand, is rather blunt.

Although often called porpoises, the animals that delight us with their antics at aquarium shows are really bottle-nosed dolphins. As he leaps high out of the water to daintily pluck a tasty morsel from his trainer's hand, you would never believe he weighs as much as 800 pounds. And while most dolphins are smaller, the bottle-nosed dolphin grows as long as 12 feet.

If you were a deep-sea dentist examining the dental equipment of the dolphin and the porpoise, you could spot another difference between the two. The dolphin has pointed teeth, while the porpoise has spade-shape teeth.

Andy's favorite way to distinguish between the two animals is by their expressions. The bottle-nosed dolphin is the fellow with the pleasant smile on his face. He always looks as though he were going to say something nice to you. The porpoise, sad to say, wears a rather somber expression.

Dolphins are naturally playful and enjoy games with turtles, fish and even people. For years, stories have been told about dolphins helping swimmers in trouble. Whether the dolphins were really playing lifeguard is a question, however. Dolphins naturally like to push things they find in the water, and it's likely they were merely playing a game.

Dolphins and porpoises are related to the great whales that swim the oceans. They are all air-breathing mammals whose ancestors gave up their place on the land for a watery existence in the world's seas.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Steve Torres, 11, of Enid, Okla, for his question:

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A COPYRIGHT AND A PATENT?

Let's say you have just written a beautiful song about our country's Bicentennial. You're proud of your efforts and, in order to keep someone else from stealing your tune, you seek a copyright. The copyright laws in the United States protect a composer's works from being copied. These laws also protect written works, as well as dramatic and artistic materials. For example, many photographers copyright pictures they have taken. The copyright office, located in the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., grants a copyright for 28 years and allows the owner to extend it for another 28 years if desired.

Perhaps you have invented a new musical instrument in addition to writing your song. Now you need a patent. A patent will enable you to control the sale and manufacture of your invention. Creative people who invent or discover some new and useful machine, product, substance or method are entitled to a patent. When granted, the owner has the exclusive right to make, use and sell his invention for 17 years.

Do you have a question to ASK ANDY? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to ASK ANDY in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 680, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

Andy's favorite way to distinguish between the two animals is by their expressions. The bottle-nosed dolphin is the fellow with the pleasant smile on his face. He always looks as though he were going to say something nice to you. The porpoise, sad to say, wears a rather somber expression.

Dolphins are naturally playful and enjoy games with turtles, fish and even people. For years, stories have been told about dolphins helping swimmers in trouble. Whether the dolphins were really playing lifeguard is a question, however. Dolphins naturally like to push things they find in the water, and it's likely they were merely playing a game.

Dolphins and porpoises are related to the great whales that swim the oceans. They are all air-breathing mammals whose ancestors gave up their place on the land for a watery existence in the world's seas.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Steve Torres, 11, of Enid, Okla, for his question:

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A COPYRIGHT AND A PATENT?

Let's say you have just written a beautiful song about our country's Bicentennial. You're proud of your efforts and, in order to keep someone else from stealing your tune, you seek a copyright. The copyright laws in the United States protect a composer's works from being copied. These laws also protect written works, as well as dramatic and artistic materials. For example, many photographers copyright pictures they have taken. The copyright office, located in the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., grants a copyright for 28 years and allows the owner to extend it for another 28 years if desired.

Perhaps you have invented a new musical instrument in addition to writing your song. Now you need a patent. A patent will enable you to control the sale and manufacture of your invention. Creative people who invent or discover some new and useful machine, product, substance or method are entitled to a patent. When granted, the owner has the exclusive right to make, use and sell his invention for 17 years.

Do you have a question to ASK ANDY? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to ASK ANDY in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 680, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

ABC capitalizing on youth appeal

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's a well-known sign of advancing middle age when policemen, ball players and soldiers stop looking like men and begin to resemble boys.

But on television these days, you don't have to be graying to feel everyone is getting younger — they really are.

The networks consider the 18-49 age bracket the most desirable audience, and nowadays they seem to be aiming for the younger end of the group, primarily by lowering the age of its actors.

ABC has been particularly successful in going the youth route, with the likes of "Happy Days," "Laverne and Shirley" and "Welcome Back, Kotter."

NETWORKS DON'T drop winning formulas, and one result is a television movie, "Young Pioneers," to be aired on ABC Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. "Young Pioneers" is one of some 45 pilots ABC is looking over for possible series presentation next fall, and it's a natural for the "family hour."

It stars Linda Purl and Roger Kern as newlyweds, 16 and 18 years old, who lie about their age and homestead in the Dakota Territory in the 1870s. In the first episode they survive a blizzard, she has a baby in a sod hut, their crops are eaten by a ravening swarm of grasshoppers, and a few other troubles also visit the couple.

What problems are left over for the series is hard to imagine, unless it's hostile Indians, claim jumpers and Butch Cassidy and his Wild Bunch riding out the Dakota Badlands.

Ed Friendly served as executive producer for the show, which is well done once the audience recovers from the shock of watching the West being tamed by a couple who don't look old enough to get into a PG-rated movie on their own.

Shuffle gone off to Buffalo

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Today's hand is the opposite of a freak. It is produced any time you deal out a new pack without giving it one shuffle. You can cut as often as you like, but this comes after no shuffle at all.

Before the American Contract Bridge League used computers to produce the duplicated hands used in major championships the late George Goff used to deal them all out personally. George was a man of great honesty, but he got old and the last year that he made them up he produced one unshuffled hand for the open pairs.

It was caught early and thrown out, but before this happened, one pair had achieved some real notoriety. North made one of those shaded third-hand bids, South responded with an unsound two notrump and North compounded the felony by going to game.

West opened the five of hearts. Dummy played low and the defense started with four heart tricks. Then West led the three of clubs. East won and led back a low club. South played low and the defense added four club tricks. They still had to get another so South was down five.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ABC capitalizing on youth appeal

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's a well-known sign of advancing middle age when policemen, ball players and soldiers stop looking like men and begin to resemble boys.

But on television these days, you don't have to be graying to feel everyone is getting younger — they really are.

The networks consider the 18-49 age bracket the most desirable audience, and nowadays they seem to be aiming for the younger end of the group, primarily by lowering the age of its actors.

ABC has been particularly successful in going the youth route, with the likes of "Happy Days," "Laverne and Shirley" and "Welcome Back, Kotter."

NETWORKS DON'T drop winning formulas, and one result is a television movie, "Young Pioneers," to be aired on ABC Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. "Young Pioneers" is one of some 45 pilots ABC is looking over for possible series presentation next fall, and it's a natural for the "family hour."

It stars Linda Purl and Roger Kern as newlyweds, 16 and 18 years old, who lie about their age and homestead in the Dakota Territory in the 1870s. In the first episode they survive a blizzard, she has a baby in a sod hut, their crops are eaten by a ravening swarm of grasshoppers, and a few other troubles also visit the couple.

What problems are left over for the series is hard to imagine, unless it's hostile Indians, claim jumpers and Butch Cassidy and his Wild Bunch riding out the Dakota Badlands.

Ed Friendly served as executive producer for the show, which is well done once the audience recovers from the shock of watching the West being tamed by a couple who don't look old enough to get into a PG-rated movie on their own.

Shuffle gone off to Buffalo

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Today's hand is the opposite of a freak. It is produced any time you deal out a new pack without giving it one shuffle. You can cut as often as you like, but this comes after no shuffle at all.

Before the American Contract Bridge League used computers to produce the duplicated hands used in major championships the late George Goff used to deal them all out personally. George was a man of great honesty, but he got old and the last year that he made them up he produced one unshuffled hand for the open pairs.

It was caught early and thrown out, but before this happened, one pair had achieved some real notoriety. North made one of those shaded third-hand bids, South responded with an unsound two notrump and North compounded the felony by going to game.

West opened the five of hearts. Dummy played low and the defense started with four heart tricks. Then West led the three of clubs. East won and led back a low club. South played low and the defense added four club tricks. They still had to get another so South was down five.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Reader concerned over glucose test

I had a complete physical about three months ago when I retired. Everything was fine except the doctor told me that I had an indication of a surgar problem and gave me a five-hour glucose tolerance test. The third-hour sugar reading was 174 and he said it should be 124 or less.

I weigh 180, am 5-feet-9 and 63 years old. The doctor told me only to watch my sweets and maintain a 1500 calorie diet and have my blood checked in a year.

How serious is 174 for the third hour? Since I have now moved to Texas, should I wait a year, or find another doctor now? Also, I asked the doctor if I should check my urine and he said it wouldn't show in urine tests.

It is true that a reading of 174 three hours after ingesting glucose (sugar) is high. The interpretation of the results, though, must be dependent upon all the facts in the case. Were you properly prepared for the test by eating adequate amounts of carbohydrates and sweets for three days before testing? If a person avoids carbohydrates and tris to lose weight because he is going to have a checkup, he may have an abnomal test result that resembles diabetes which is a response to the diet he has been on.

Blood sugar (glucose) values vary a lot depending on the method used for the chemical analysis of the test. Certainly 174 is not in the danger range but it is far from normal.

You might have sugar in your urine because I presume your blood level may be even higher in the first hour after taking the glucose. If the level is round 170 or higher, sugar can spill into the urine. Even normal people who eat a lot of sweets may sometimes have a peak blood sugar level and some sugar in the urine. The test wouldn't tell you anything new though as you already know you have blood sugar level in the range of 174.

I think you should make a real effort to eliminate any obesity that you have your height and weight suggust that you could lose 20 to 25 pounds. Many people with abnormal sugar test results have normal responses after losing excess obesity.

FOR MORE information on the diagnosis of diabetes and the glucose tolerance test send 50 cents for The Health Letter, Number 3-11, Diabetes: Diagnosis, Prevention and Management. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Your high blood sugar level does increase your likelihood of having heart or vascular disease. If you smoke, stop. Eliminating excess fat will decrease your blood pressure, even if it is normal and that will help too. Any elevation of cholesterol or blood fats you might have will usually be benefited by elimination of obesity.

While you could follow a program of your own for a year, I believe everone should have a doctor they can call on if they need him. That means you should find a doctor as soon as you go to a new community and give him a chance to become familiar with you and your medical status. You'll know what to do then if you have an emergency or need a doctor suddenly. When you are already in trouble, it is a poor time to start looking for one.

Rice throwing custom a waste, hazard too

Dear Dorothy: I'd like to know of a method for tinting uncooked rice to throw at a wedding. — Karen Crossen

First, I don't know of any way to tint uncooked rice. Second, let me get a prejudice off my chest. Throwing rice is a custom being abandoned, and rightly in my view. Too many accidents have happened on the slippery stuff. The list is full of slips resulting in broken legs, wrists and worse (one woman broke a hip that never healed properly). More, it strikes me as out of place these days to throw away good food.

Dear Dorothy: My father is on a strict low-sodium diet and he loves vegetables. Without salt, however, they're not too palatable. Can you suggest a seasoning that will help? — Mrs. J. D. Goller.

There are probably many ways to make vegetables more exciting without salt. Maybe others under the same restrictions will be willing to share. One reader reported that cooking green bell peppers, either fresh or freeze-dried, with vegetables gave them a delightful flavor, even without any salt. And lemon juice has long been used by those avoiding salt to flavor vegetables.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any way I can get a scratch off my glass coffee table top? — Mary Smith

If the scratch isn't too deep, jewelers' rouge might do it.

Tip to new homemakers: Although industry has come along with perfect throwaway cloths (that can be laundered), save old towels or castoff underwear for tough cleaning jobs. The roughness of the material does half the work.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Women observe prayer day

World Day of Prayer will be celebrated Friday, March 5 by Church Women United, who will join in a chain of prayer with millions of people in 169 countries. The world-wide service is sponsored by the International Committee for World Day of Prayer which has appointed Church Women United as the official sponsor in the United States.

Locally, Church Women United in Northwest Cook County invite everyone to join this worldwide fellowship at 1 p.m. in Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rohlwing, Palatine, at the Magnus Farm Nursing Home, 801 E. Central Rd., Arlington Heights; or at 2 p.m. in the Plum Grove Nursing Home, 24 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

The service, prepared by women in Latin America, reflects their concern for "Education for All of Life." Concrete situations, common to the lives of some Latin American women form an integral part of the worship.

This is the 90th year of the World Day of Prayer in which Protestant, Catholic and Orthodox women of many races take part. Offerings in the United States go toward the Intercontinental Mission Committee of Church Women United Christian ministry in national parks, scholarships and leadership training. Donations will also go to programs in other countries.

Investments to anxiety new Greenerfields study

Courses from anxiety to investments are being offered during March at Greenerfields Unlimited continuing education center, 318 Happ Rd., Northfield.

In an informal apartment setting Greenerfields offers men and women a one-day "Investment Seminar" devoted to answering questions and problems. The seminar, scheduled March 6, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., will consider stocks, bonds, gold, the short term money market, tax shelters and tax exemptions. The course will be led by Gene Mackevich of E. F. Hutton and Co.

Mackevich is also scheduled to teach an "Investments Course For Women" Thursday mornings for four weeks, beginning March 4. This course will stress approaches to profitable investing and investments which legally avoid, shelter, or defer federal income taxes.

"ANXIETY AND THE Courage To Be" will not concern itself with money, but with free floating unfocused fear. A one-day workshop from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on March 12, the day will be spent distinguishing between normal and neorotic anxiety, exploring positive and destructive attitudes that people use in trying to cope with guilt, depression and despair. Emphasis will be placed on hope and the courage "to be." Course leaders are Ben Richardson, Trenton Pitcher and Gina Rosenstein. Richardson is a philosopher, poet, historian and television personality, Pitcher is a clergyman with a background in drama and psychology and Mrs. Rosenstein is a therapist in private practice. The workshop will be held at Colby's, Northbrook.

Fees range from $20 to $30. Registration information is available by calling Greenerfields 446-0525.

Dominick Days set for March

March 1 — Buffalo Grove Raiders Football Association.

March 2 — Washington Irving PTO, Wheeling; Hoffman Estates High School Distributive Education Program.

Any elevation of cholesterol or blood fats you might have will usually be benefited by elimination of obesity.

While you could follow a program of your own for a year, I believe everone should have a doctor they can call on if they need him. That means you should find a doctor as soon as you go to a new community and give him a chance to become familiar with you and your medical status. You'll know what to do then if you have an emergency or need a doctor suddenly. When you are already in trouble, it is a poor time to start looking for one.

Rice throwing custom a waste, hazard too

Dear Dorothy: I'd like to know of a method for tinting uncooked rice to throw at a wedding. — Karen Crossen

First, I don't know of any way to tint uncooked rice. Second, let me get a prejudice off my chest. Throwing rice is a custom being abandoned, and rightly in my view. Too many accidents have happened on the slippery stuff. The list is full of slips resulting in broken legs, wrists and worse (one woman broke a hip that never healed properly). More, it strikes me as out of place these days to throw away good food.

Dear Dorothy: My father is on a strict low-sodium diet and he loves vegetables. Without salt, however, they're not too palatable. Can you suggest a seasoning that will help? — Mrs. J. D. Goller.

There are probably many ways to make vegetables more exciting without salt. Maybe others under the same restrictions will be willing to share. One reader reported that cooking green bell peppers, either fresh or freeze-dried, with vegetables gave them a delightful flavor, even without any salt. And lemon juice has long been used by those avoiding salt to flavor vegetables.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any way I can get a scratch off my glass coffee table top? — Mary Smith

If the scratch isn't too deep, jewelers' rouge might do it.

Tip to new homemakers: Although industry has come along with perfect throwaway cloths (that can be laundered), save old towels or castoff underwear for tough cleaning jobs. The roughness of the material does half the work.

Women observe prayer day

World Day of Prayer will be celebrated Friday, March 5 by Church Women United, who will join in a chain of prayer with millions of people in 169 countries. The world-wide service is sponsored by the International Committee for World Day of Prayer which has appointed Church Women United as the official sponsor in the United States.

Locally, Church Women United in Northwest Cook County invite everyone to join this worldwide fellowship at 1 p.m. in Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rohlwing, Palatine, at the Magnus Farm Nursing Home, 801 E. Central Rd., Arlington Heights; or at 2 p.m. in the Plum Grove Nursing Home, 24 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

The service, prepared by women in Latin America, reflects their concern for "Education for All of Life." Concrete situations, common to the lives of some Latin American women form an integral part of the worship.

This is the 90th year of the World Day of Prayer in which Protestant, Catholic and Orthodox women of many races take part. Offerings in the United States go toward the Intercontinental Mission Committee of Church Women United Christian ministry in national parks, scholarships and leadership training. Donations will also go to programs in other countries.

Investments to anxiety new Greenerfields study

Courses from anxiety to investments are being offered during March at Greenerfields Unlimited continuing education center, 318 Happ Rd., Northfield.

In an informal apartment setting Greenerfields offers men and women a one-day "Investment Seminar" devoted to answering questions and problems. The seminar, scheduled March 6, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., will consider stocks, bonds, gold, the short term money market, tax shelters and tax exemptions. The course will be led by Gene Mackevich of E. F. Hutton and Co.

Mackevich is also scheduled to teach an "Investments Course For Women" Thursday mornings for four weeks, beginning March 4. This course will stress approaches to profitable investing and investments which legally avoid, shelter, or defer federal income taxes.

"ANXIETY AND THE Courage To Be" will not concern itself with money, but with free floating unfocused fear. A one-day workshop from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on March 12, the day will be spent distinguishing between normal and neorotic anxiety, exploring positive and destructive attitudes that people use in trying to cope with guilt, depression and despair. Emphasis will be placed on hope and the courage "to be." Course leaders are Ben Richardson, Trenton Pitcher and Gina Rosenstein. Richardson is a philosopher, poet, historian and television personality, Pitcher is a clergyman with a background in drama and psychology and Mrs. Rosenstein is a therapist in private practice. The workshop will be held at Colby's, Northbrook.

Fees range from $20 to $30. Registration information is available by calling Greenerfields 446-0525.

State finals begin; swim stars assemble in Darien

WHERE AM I? Chris Tague of Hersey (foreground) checks the scoreboard after winning the 200-yard freestyle in the Arlington District meet while No. 2 finisher Jon Newcomer, of St. Viator, recovers. Both will compete in the event in the state meet, which starts today at Hinsdale South.

by BOB GALLAS
Swimming Editor

For a high school swimmer, up to 11 months of pain, sacrifice and endurance come down to this weekend.

Once again, perennial powerhouse Hinsdale Central will be the odds on favorite as the 45th annual state swimming meet gets underway today at Hinsdale South in Darien.

A large contingent of swimmers representing eight Herald-area schools will compete, starting at 10 a.m. today with diving preliminaries. Swimming prelims will begin at 4 p.m.

The finals in all events will begin Saturday at 1 p.m. at the school, 7401 S. Clarendon Road, Darien. Delayed broadcast television coverage of Saturday's finals will air on WGN-TV, Channel 9, starting at 4 p.m.

Leading the individual performers will be Chris Tague of Hersey. Tague is ranked first, according to district meet times, in the 200-yard freestyle, and is second in the 500-yard freestyle, just a fraction of a second behind Carbondale's Chris Phillips.

Teamwise, the St. Viator Lions have a shot at finishing high in the final standings, but that chance hinges on how well members of the illness plagued Lion squad can perform.

After an entire season of dominating the known field in the 500-yard freestyle, Tague's warning that "swimmers come out of the woodwork" at state meet time has come true.

Tague is faced with stiff competition in the 500, where he had held a five-second cushion, but now must look ahead to Phillips who finished fourth in the state last year in the 500.

In the 200, Tague holds a one second lead over Phillips, who finished third in the event statewide last year, and over Kankakee's Rusty Walker.

Tapering down his workouts for the first time this year, the senior from Hersey is looking for a big time drop in both his events. Joining Tague from Hersey will be diver Bill Cashmore, 10th statewide according to district performances.

The flu and other maladies have been hampering the St. Viator squad. Mark Rohl, who finished sixth in the state last year in the 100-yard freestyle, missed practice early this week with a viral infection, according to coach John Fleck. Rusty Myers, who finished behind Tague in the district meet, also missed practice with the flu.

"We're down a little, because of Mark's (Rohl) poor performance in districts because of sickness and all," Fleck said. "But it's hard to stay down, once you get to the state meet."

"If Rohl can come back after being sick, I think we'll finish towards the top," Fleck said. The Lions have nine swimmers competing in 11 events, including both relays.

Though the Lions have had expected good performers hit with illness, there have been some nice "surprises" for Fleck, like Jon Newcomer, hurt during the season in a car accident, who took second in the Arlington District meet in the 200-yard freestyle and holds down a leg of the team's 400-yard freestyle relay.

Another is Chris Stewart, who won the district title in the 100-yard freestyle. Both, Fleck thinks, can go faster.

In the butterfly, Rolling Meadows' Tom Stahnke and Prospect's Tom Cole are close to two seconds off the pace, set by Hinsdale's Matt Robertson, but could finish in the top six.

Casey Schlachter of Maine West and St. Viator's Rohl and Stewart are contenders for a spot in the top 12.

A total of 338 individual competitors and 54 relay teams qualified for the state meet. Hinsdale Central leads in qualifiers with 17 individuals and both relays. Hinsdale is followed by New Trier East, Evanston and Fenwick

White Sox to take non-roster players to spring training

Maverick Bill Veeck, acknowledging fears of reprisals from other owners, said Thursday his Chicago White Sox will open spring training in Sarasota, Fla., March 1, with 25 non-roster players.

Veeck said he would be "delighted" if the other 23 major league owners made similar decisions to starting playing ball. First indications were none would.

At a hotel room news conference, the flamboyant new owner of the Sox admitted he had been "Intimidated" by what the other owners could do to him if he went ahead with spring training involving regular contract White Sox players.

Instead, Veeck said, he and Manager Paul Richards, because of "commitments to the city of Sarasota and the fans," will begin with 23 minor league players and veterans Cleon Jones, formerly of the New York Mets, and Bob Oliver, a former New York Yankee and Pittsburgh Pirate, who have no contracts.

At a hastily called news conference, Veeck said he was "intimidated" by the other 23 major league owners and therefore would not begin spring training wit the 34 White Sox players who had already signed contracts for this year.

Besides Jones, the former New York Mets slugger, and Oliver, the ex-Pittsburgh outfielder, those invited to Sarasota, Fla., will include five other players who have played in the major leagues and four others who have been on major league rosters.

The other players are all minor leaguers.

Veeck said he had talked to Bobby Bragan, head of the national association of minor leagues, and he agreed there were no obstacles to having the players open up spring training on March 1.

The White Sox will be the only team to do so because the other 23 owners have refused until the touchy question of the reserve clause has been ironed out.

"It isn't the spring training I had envisioned," Veeck said, "It isn't what I had in mind but it is the best I can do."

Veeck has maintained the White Sox need a full spring training because he and Richards are new to the team and need more time to look at their players.

BILL VEECK, White Sox owner, tells newsmen Thursday he will open Spring training on schedule in Florida March 1 with 25 players.

Asked about the reaction of the other 23 owners to his announcement, Veeck said he was certain he was acting on legal grounds and "I don't much care."

The colorful owner said he was complying with "the letter, if not the spirit" of the owners' decisions not to open spring training until their player negotiations have been resolved.

Asked if he thought his stand would amount to a thorn in the side of the other owners, Veeck smiled and said, "I hope it does."

He said he had received a number of calls from the other owners this week asking for unity. He said the only time there was unity was when he joined the other owners, not when he wanted them to join him.

Veeck criticized those who he said hoped the Kansas City ruling making Los Angeles pitcher Andy Messerschmidt a free agent would "go away."

"It won't," he said, "unfortunately for both sides."

Will the string continue?

All of these names have at least two common bonds: Each, for one, represented the Herald area, and each additionally has savored the struggle and satisfaction of rising to the top as a state wrestling champion.

It is now the moment when battle lines have been drawn for a new state championship series and nine area grapplers will attempt to keep their success story alive. The odds for these nine youngsters would appear to be insurmountable. Gathered in Champaign this weekend are almost 200 of the finest mat athletes in Illnois . . . champions and near-champions, all who have survived fierce competition through district and sectional levels just to qualify for this main event.

And now there are 16 finely-tuned, superbly conditioned wrestlers waiting in each of 12 classes to begin the final ascent to the throne. Only one at each weight will win four straight bouts between today at 1:00 and Saturday evening at 7:30 in the Univer-

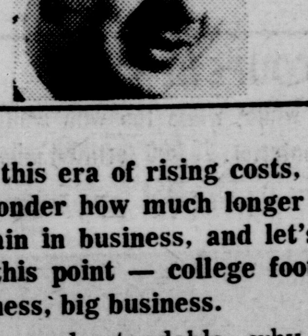
College football rich get richer at signing time



Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

He's out there now in some little dry-bed town where the people are God-fearing, mother-loving, flag-saluting and psychoneurotic about football.

Everybody in town has seen him flick the ball 70 yards on his knees with two linebackers ripping at his jersey.

He's got it all, the colleges say, which is why Woody Hayes and Bo Schembechler and Joe Paterno and Bear Bryant have been trying to sign him since he was in the fourth grade.

He's the blue-chipper.

This is that time of year that drives college football coaches to drink — or into the insurance business. The announcements are coming in regularly these days as the blue-chippers make their college decisions, announcements that send shock waves across the country.

The winners shout and the losers cry as Mr. High School Football Star makes his decision. The winner makes the announcement in a press conference on the battleship Missouri. The loser tattles to the NCAA or CIA or FBI or somebody about recruiting violations.

It's fun time for the press, agony time for the coaches. It's a sick business, recruiting, but a necessary one in the current setup of big-time college sports. It's a war as the 'have-nots' struggle for survival while the 'haves' keep signing blue-chippers.

Everybody has solutions. Somebody came up with an elaborate draft plan of the top high school talent in the country, a draft similar to the current pro football setup.

Of course, it would be all but impossible to set up a common draft of high school players. Couldn't you just hear the yelps from parents? Their kids wouldn't be getting that special treatment and there'd be a rebellion.

"You can't tell me where to send my boy to school," they would say. They'd be correct.

But it's that way when they get out of college, and the players can't do much about it.

The way things are going in college football, the rich keep getting richer and the poor keep getting poorer. If Texas is your school, fine. Or Alabama, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Ohio State, Michigan, Notre Dame or any of the perennial powers.

But what about the others?

In this era of rising costs, you have to wonder how much longer they can remain in business, and let's not forget this point — college football is a business, big business.

It's understandable why the big teams keep getting all the talent. The kids aren't dumb. They want to go to the best schools to put their talents on display.

He knows, too, he will be playing before big crowds and that the conditions will be first class all the way. What's happened is that a self-perpetuating problem has been created.

The stronger these schools become, the better players they attract. And the better players they attract, the stronger they become.

That's fine — to the victors should go the spoils. But what chance do the others have of ever catching up?

I was interested in some comments by a man who has researched this "rich get richer" syndrome. Indiana assistant athletic director Bob Hicks uncovered no happy conclusions.

Hicks reported that approximately half the blue-chip players recruited by the Big 10 schools will attend Ohio State and Michigan. They do every year. A similar situation exists in other conferences across the country where the 'haves' continue to prosper.

Hicks says "it is pure folly for the poor — the Indianas, Kentuckys, Illinoises, Oregons and the rest — to seriously try to turn the whole thing around."

He referred to a research article by Dr. P. E. Allsen of Brigham Young University listing the most significant factors influencing student-athletes' reasons for selecting a college: (1) football tradition, (2) coaching staff, (3) educational opportunities, (4) facilities and (5) location of school.

Interestingly enough, the COACH is the No. 1 attraction for the athlete in basketball . . . not the education or location.

"If tradition is football's No. 1 selling point," Hicks continued, "it is bound to get worse. Ohio State, Michigan and Notre Dame have tremendous momentum in our part of the country. The other schools are fighting a losing battle. They can say all they want about hard recruiting turning things around, but it's a myth. You won't get the blue-chipper.

"In all big businesses where a monopoly can occur, laws and controls are enacted so that all can survive. There is no provision for controlling the monopolies in college athletics, and the results will prove disastrous. Pro football knows how important it is to keep the competition healthy. This is why they 'choose up sides.' To maintain balance."

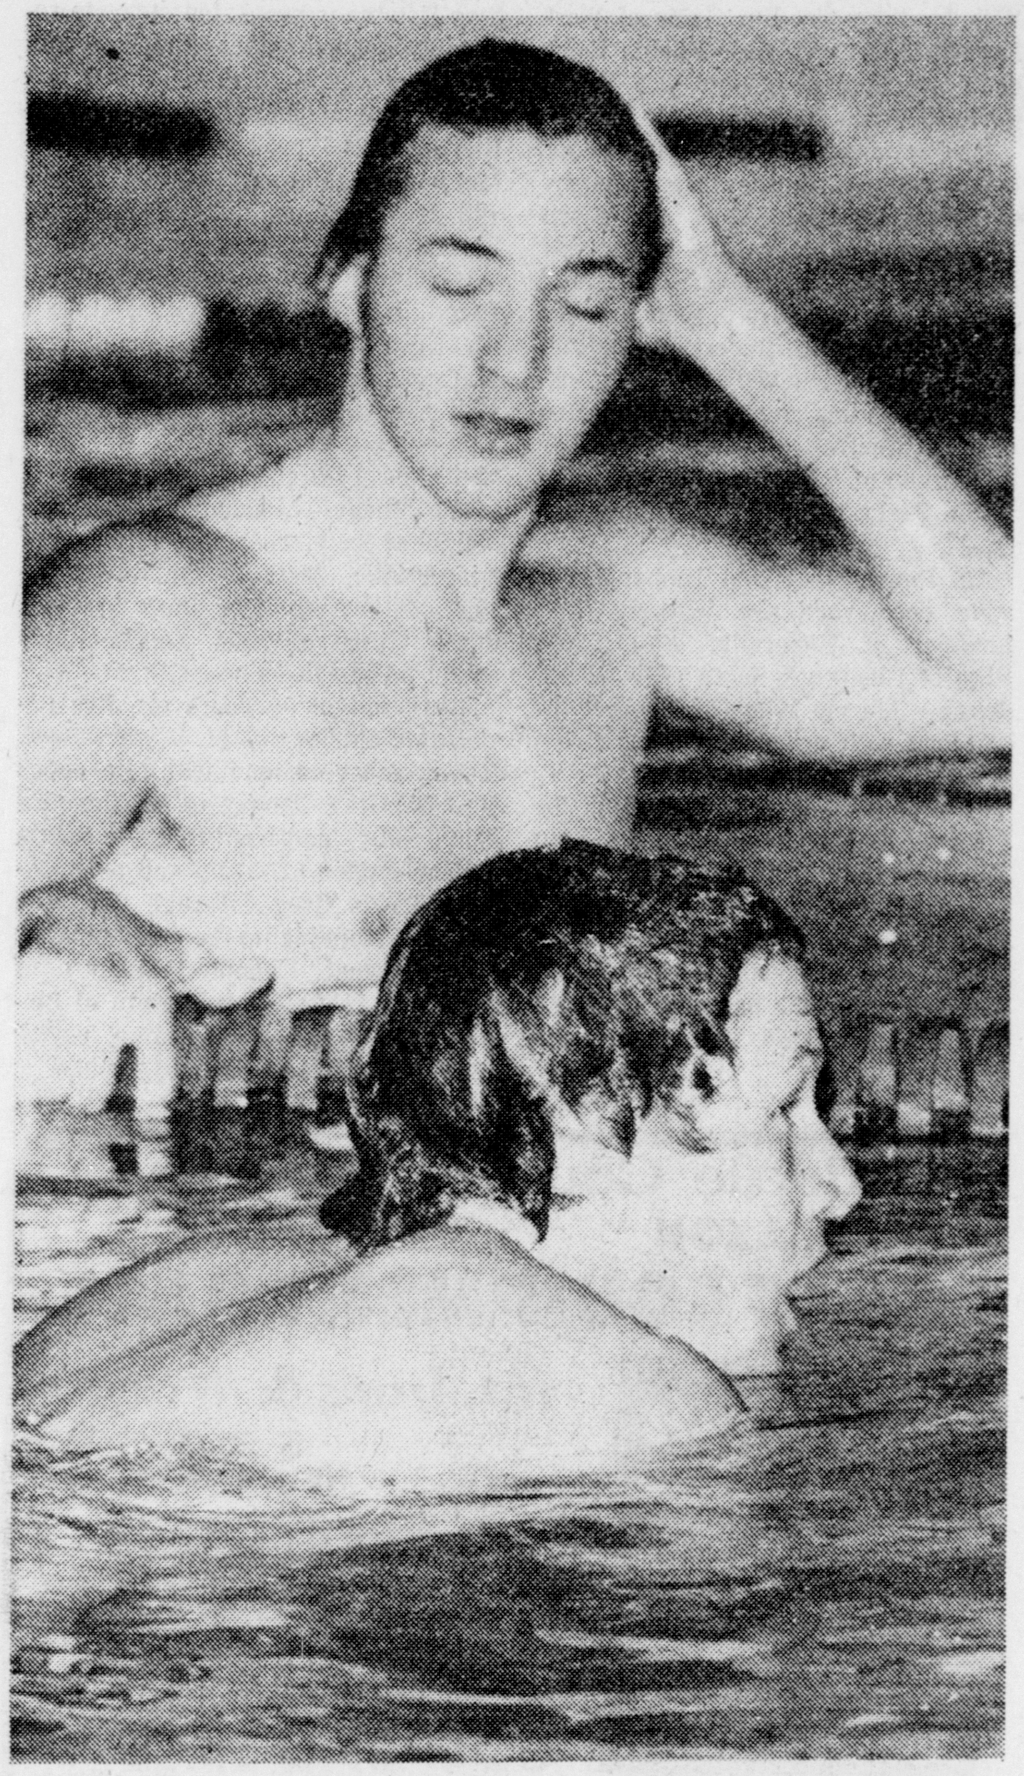
People may have laughed last weekend when a draft of high school players was proposed, but it is an interesting idea.

If they ever did draft on a regional basis, for example, to keep the cost down and keep the whole thing from getting too confusing, could you imagine the yowls emanating from places like Columbus and South Bend and Ann Arbor and Tuscaloosa. Those folks like things the way they are now.

The draft could be called dictatorial, even socialistic — this spreading around of the wealth. But how sweet it would be if the people in, say, Bloomington, Ind., or Champaign, Ill., or Iowa City, Iowa, or Evanston, Ill., would get an occasional chance to see their team on top.

Does anyone honestly see that time coming? I certainly don't.

"The only other way colleges can hope to catch up with the runaway leaders is to cheat," said Hicks in his analysis of the problem. "There's no way cheating can save us all in the end."



WHERE AM I? Chris Tague of Hersey (foreground) checks the scoreboard after winning the 200-yard freestyle in the Arlington District meet while No. 2 finisher Jon Newcomer, of St. Viator, recovers. Both will compete in the event in the state meet, which starts today at Hinsdale South.

He's the blue-chipper.

This is that time of year that drives college football coaches to drink — or into the insurance business. The announcements are coming in regularly these days as the blue-chippers make their college decisions, announcements that send shock waves across the country.

The winners shout and the losers cry as Mr. High School Football Star makes his decision. The winner makes the announcement in a press conference on the battleship Missouri. The loser tattles to the NCAA or CIA or FBI or somebody about recruiting violations.

It's fun time for the press, agony time for the coaches. It's a sick business, recruiting, but a necessary one in the current setup of big-time college sports. It's a war as the 'have-nots' struggle for survival while the 'haves' keep signing blue-chippers.

Everybody has solutions. Somebody came up with an elaborate draft plan of the top high school talent in the country, a draft similar to the current pro football setup.

Of course, it would be all but impossible to set up a common draft of high school players. Couldn't you just hear the yelps from parents? Their kids wouldn't be getting that special treatment and there'd be a rebellion.

"You can't tell me where to send my boy to school," they would say. They'd be correct.

But it's that way when they get out of college, and the players can't do much about it.

The way things are going in college football, the rich keep getting richer and the poor keep getting poorer. If Texas is your school, fine. Or Alabama, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Ohio State, Michigan, Notre Dame or any of the perennial powers.

But what about the others?

In this era of rising costs, you have to wonder how much longer they can remain in business, and let's not forget this point — college football is a business, big business.

It's understandable why the big teams keep getting all the talent. The kids aren't dumb. They want to go to the best schools to put their talents on display.

He knows, too, he will be playing before big crowds and that the conditions will be first class all the way. What's happened is that a self-perpetuating problem has been created.

The stronger these schools become, the better players they attract. And the better players they attract, the stronger they become.

That's fine — to the victors should go the spoils. But what chance do the others have of ever catching up?

I was interested in some comments by a man who has researched this "rich get richer" syndrome. Indiana assistant athletic director Bob Hicks uncovered no happy conclusions.

Hicks reported that approximately half the blue-chip players recruited by the Big 10 schools will attend Ohio State and Michigan. They do every year. A similar situation exists in other conferences across the country where the 'haves' continue to prosper.

Hicks says "it is pure folly for the poor — the Indianas, Kentuckys, Illinoises, Oregons and the rest — to seriously try to turn the whole thing around."

He referred to a research article by Dr. P. E. Allsen of Brigham Young University listing the most significant factors influencing student-athletes' reasons for selecting a college: (1) football tradition, (2) coaching staff, (3) educational opportunities, (4) facilities and (5) location of school.

Interestingly enough, the COACH is the No. 1 attraction for the athlete in basketball . . . not the education or location.

"If tradition is football's No. 1 selling point," Hicks continued, "it is bound to get worse. Ohio State, Michigan and Notre Dame have tremendous momentum in our part of the country. The other schools are fighting a losing battle. They can say all they want about hard recruiting turning things around, but it's a myth. You won't get the blue-chipper.

"In all big businesses where a monopoly can occur, laws and controls are enacted so that all can survive. There is no provision for controlling the monopolies in college athletics, and the results will prove disastrous. Pro football knows how important it is to keep the competition healthy. This is why they 'choose up sides.' To maintain balance."

People may have laughed last weekend when a draft of high school players was proposed, but it is an interesting idea.

If they ever did draft on a regional basis, for example, to keep the cost down and keep the whole thing from getting too confusing, could you imagine the yowls emanating from places like Columbus and South Bend and Ann Arbor and Tuscaloosa. Those folks like things the way they are now.

The draft could be called dictatorial, even socialistic — this spreading around of the wealth. But how sweet it would be if the people in, say, Bloomington, Ind., or Champaign, Ill., or Iowa City, Iowa, or Evanston, Ill., would get an occasional chance to see their team on top.

Does anyone honestly see that time coming? I certainly don't.

"The only other way colleges can hope to catch up with the runaway leaders is to cheat," said Hicks in his analysis of the problem. "There's no way cheating can save us all in the end."

Hoosiers clinch; May scores 41

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Scott May made up for cold shooting by his Indiana teammates with a season high 41 points Thursday night to lead the No. 1 ranked Hoosiers to a 96-67 victory over Wisconsin, clinching the Big Ten basketball championship.

The Hoosiers faltered only in the opening minutes in taking their 35th consecutive Big Ten win and their 55th straight in regular season play.

The Badgers took a 6-0 lead but Indiana came back to move in front at 9-8 with 16 minutes left in the first half, and the Badgers never caught up thereafter. Indiana broke the game open in a five-minute stretch late in the first half by outscoring the Badgers 13-2 to move in front 34-20.

May accounted for six points in that stretch and reserve forward Rich Valavicius contributed four. May drilled 16 field goals and hit on nine of 10 free throws before leaving with one minute to play.

Tom Abernathy was second high scorer for Indiana with only 12 points. Dale Koehler had 17 and Brian Colbert 16 to lead Wisconsin. It was Wisconsin's 14th straight defeat, all in Big Ten competition.

Hawks beat Kings

Second-period goals by Ivan Boldirev and Stan Mikita broke a 2-2 tie for the Chicago Black Hawks in their NHL game late Thursday night against the Kings in Los Angeles.

The Hawks won 6-2.

Boldirev's goal came 11 minutes into the second period on assists by Darcy Rota and J.P. Bordeleau. After Rota was stopped point-blank by L.A. goalie Gary Edwards, Bordeleau dug for the puck behind the net and fed Boldirev out in front for Ivan's 25th goal of the year. Mikita followed two minutes later with his goal.

The Hawks had taken a 2-0 lead on first-period goals by Alain Daigle and Dennis Hull, but the Kings tied it up on power-play scores by Tom Williams and Mike Corrigan.

Seven MSU gridders ineligible

Michigan State University has formally declared seven football players ineligible for their roles in a recruiting scandal that ended in the Big Ten school's placement on three years probation by the NCAA.

College officials said they will seek to have the players reinstated before the football season begins.

In finding MSU guilty of numerous recruiting violations early this year, the NCAA ordered the players declared ineligible for the rest of their college careers. The MSU ineligibility committee has complied with that order.

MSU's case for the athletes soon will be presented to the NCAA.

"What we want to do is put together the best case possible and then present it," he said.

Marti leads; rain tees off Jack

Favored Jack Nicklaus' bid to take the first round lead in the $300,000 Tournament Players Championship was sidetracked Thursday when a long mid-morning rain delay forced suspension of play when Nicklaus had two holes still to play.

Nicklaus was at 5-under-par, one stroke behind pace-setting Fred Marti, an unheralded tour veteran who turned in a 6-under-par 66 Thursday at Lauderhill, Fla., for his best round in several years.

Nicklaus was tied on the leader board with Don January, San Diego winner J.S. Snead and British Open champion Tom Watson, all in with 67s.

Play in the opening round was suspended from 9:15 to 10:30 a.m. because steady rain made the greens unplayable.

Nicklaus, favored to win his second TPC title in three years, did not tee off until after 2 p.m., starting on the back nine. He was at the eighth tee on the front nine when play was suspended for the day at 6:25 p.m. EST because of darkness. Nicklaus will play his final two holes of the first round Friday morning before the second round begins.

About 40 players in the 144-man field were still on the course when play was suspended for the day. All will finish early Friday.

Tests for 'borderline diabetic' Barry

It's no secret Golden State Warriors star Rick Barry has lost some of his playing spark in recent games, and now he says it may be due to the fact that he is a borderline diabetic.

Barry has taken tests for diabetes yearly for a long time but because of his recent lack of energy, team physician Dr. Robert Albo put him through a new series of tests this week, it was revealed Thursday.

"If there is anything of concern, Dr. Albo will let me know," said Barry. "My tests have been such that I have to test all the time, but this time Dr. Albo wanted an extra test just to be sure of my condition."

The 32-year-old star admitted he has lacked energy in recent games.

"It just hasn't been there," he said. "My legs have been a little tired. They say that when you get older that's the first thing to go."

Barry said he will await results of his latest tests before determining what he should do.

"I'm not going to worry about it until I hear from Dr. Albo," he said. "After all, I've been a borderline diabetic for a long time."

sity of Illinois Assembly Hall and take their rightful place at the top of the mountain.

Additionally, a team champion will be honored at the conclusion of the Class AA finals Saturday night. East Leyden is considered the front runner, on the strength of the six entries coach Chuck Farina will take into the fray. But the chances may be even better for a DeKalb, Richards or Joliet (West and Central) boasting only three entries but having some veterans with pre-established credentials among their ranks.

The only area team with any kind of shot at high team laurels is Buffalo Grove. Coach Dennis Riccio's outfit is one of only 24 among the 120-odd schools represented that will have three or more entries.

Individually, there are some reasonable certainties. A grappler who placed high in 1975 and has battled all the way back to the 1976 showdown is unlikely to bomb out.

There are many more uncertainties.

Here's how the finals shape up, by weight:

98 Pounds — The most likely question is who York's Mike Farina (36-0) will face off against in the title bout. Likely candidates are Argo's Andre Powell (28-1), a returnee, or Bloomington sophomore Fred Mariani (33-0-1).

105 Pounds — The favorites are Mundelein's Kevin Kick (25-1) who finished fourth at 98 last year, Keith Whelen of Granite City North (34-1) who was sixth at 98, Tilden sophomore Doy Harrison (20-1) who made it down in '75 as a freshman, and returnee Bernie Harms of Pekin (29-8). Kick's quarterfinal bout with Lee Goldsmith of New Trier West (37-1) could be a crucial one.

112 Pounds — Possible finalists are DeKalb's Joey Williams (25-1-1) who placed fifth last winter and vet Doug Schafer of Sterling (35-0). Schafer opens against Willie Staples of Proviso East (16-2-1) who lost to Gross of Forest View in the 105 championship match in '75.

119 Pounds — Jim Carlstrom of Rolling Meadows opens against a toughie, Dave Palmeno of Rockford East (34-1), who was sixth last year. Also in this rugged weight class are the returning 112-pound champ, Romeoville's Fred Ferrin (32-4), Tom Best of Naperville (23-4) who was third last year and vet Dale Evans of Joliet Central (29-1).

126 Pounds — There are three undefeated grapplers, including Bison Rich Wilhelm, and all are entered in the lower bracket. The others are returnees Jeff Gerdes of Oak Forest (29-0) and Keith Puebla (31-0) of Moline. Fremd's Doug McCarthy is in the opposite bracket opening against Bill Kaiser of Peoria Richwoods (27-4-1). Wilhelm takes on Jim Galas of West Leyden (29-6) and after Puebla there could be another goodie . . . Ralph Cortez of Addison Trail (36-1).

132 Pounds — Hersey's Dan Lococo opens against returnee Dan Murphy of Belleville East (33-3) and Bison Greg Thomson is on the same side against Greg Podgorny of Rock Island Alleman (26-5-1). Also in their bracket is undefeated Ed Rogers of DeKalb (24-0) but in a tougher opposite bracket are defending champ Scott Trizzino of Joliet Central (31-0), and vets Willie Warner of Rich Central (30-1) and Willie Perry of Springfield Lamphier (28-3).

145 Pounds — The King is back for a fourth time and Bolingbrook's King Mueller (31-0) is a heavy favorite to retain his crown. Doug Browning of Buffalo Grove opens on the opposite side against Rock Island's Tony Scott (33-3). Mueller will battle Mark Smith of Waukegan (32-0), no doubt in a great semifinal.

155 Pounds — Jim Thomas of Hoffman Estates is bracketed opposite returning second place finisher Jim Morris of Glenbard South (35-0) and third place finisher Greg Moore of Richards (24-5) as well as vet Gilden McClom of Parker (34-0). Thomas will open versus Rory Fullmer of Rock Falls (27-2).

167 Pounds — A seemingly well-balanced field has Ted Tyk of Rolling Meadows taking on Barrington's Eric Moll (29-3). On the other side returnee Phil Gulsvig of Libertyville (33-2), who has beaten Moll twice, starts off with Gehrig Dergo of Morris (34-0).

185 Pounds — Perhaps the weakest weight of the tourney. Greg Gulsvig of Libertyville (33-0) appears to be the best bet in a stronger upper bracket. Dave Miller of East Peoria (31-0) might be best down below.

Heavyweight — There are five undefeated entries that St. Viator's Scott Zettek must contend with. He opens against Greg Thompson of Glenbard South (31-4) and has vet Steve Solaja of Washington (27-0) as well as Rockford East's Greg Gilbaugh (35-0) on his side. Heading up the other bracket are returnee Chandler Mackey of Thornton (28-0), Dave Klemm of Lincoln (32-0) and Pekin's Bob Taylor (34-0) who finished sixth a year ago.

Oak Brook teams lead tennis play

Heading into the home stretch, Oak Brook Park District is a strong favorite to grab both "A" and "B" championships in the nine-club Ladies' Suburban Indoor Tennis League.

Led by Judy Giannelli, Chicago District 35-and-over doubles titlist, and Kay Holzinger, Oak Brook sports a 26-3-1 record in defense of its "A" crown. Meanwhile its "B" team, runner-up last year to River Trails of Mt. Prospect, stands at 29-4, compared with 24-6 for River Trails and 24-9 for Elk Grove.

Oak Park, three matches back at 26-6-1, is Oak Brook's only real nemesis in the "A."

The Oak Brook vs. River Trails "B" match Saturday, March 6, at Oak Brook will be crucial. A sweep by the hosts would all but clinch, but a sweep or 2 to 1 victory by the visitors would create a new ball game.

Judy Graves and Marianna Boyd, the Mount Prospect duo playing No. 1 "B" for River Trails, are unbeaten this season.

155 Pounds — Jim Thomas of Hoffman Estates is bracketed opposite returning second place finisher Jim Morris of Glenbard South (35-0) and third place finisher Greg Moore of Richards (24-5) as well as vet Gilden McClom of Parker (34-0). Thomas will open versus Rory Fullmer of Rock Falls (27-2).

167 Pounds — A seemingly well-balanced field has Ted Tyk of Rolling Meadows taking on Barrington's Eric Moll (29-3). On the other side returnee Phil Gulsvig of Libertyville (33-2), who has beaten Moll twice, starts off with Gehrig Dergo of Morris (34-0).

185 Pounds — Perhaps the weakest weight of the tourney. Greg Gulsvig of Libertyville (33-0) appears to be the best bet in a stronger upper bracket. Dave Miller of East Peoria (31-0) might be best down below.

Heavyweight — There are five undefeated entries that St. Viator's Scott Zettek must contend with. He opens against Greg Thompson of Glenbard South (31-4) and has vet Steve Solaja of Washington (27-0) as well as Rockford East's Greg Gilbaugh (35-0) on his side. Heading up the other bracket are returnee Chandler Mackey of Thornton (28-0), Dave Klemm of Lincoln (32-0) and Pekin's Bob Taylor (34-0) who finished sixth a year ago.

Oak Brook teams lead tennis play

Heading into the home stretch, Oak Brook Park District is a strong favorite to grab both "A" and "B" championships in the nine-club Ladies' Suburban Indoor Tennis League.

Led by Judy Giannelli, Chicago District 35-and-over doubles titlist, and Kay Holzinger, Oak Brook sports a 26-3-1 record in defense of its "A" crown. Meanwhile its "B" team, runner-up last year to River Trails of Mt. Prospect, stands at 29-4, compared with 24-6 for River Trails and 24-9 for Elk Grove.

Oak Park, three matches back at 26-6-1, is Oak Brook's only real nemesis in the "A."

The Oak Brook vs. River Trails "B" match Saturday, March 6, at Oak Brook will be crucial. A sweep by the hosts would all but clinch, but a sweep or 2 to 1 victory by the visitors would create a new ball game.

Judy Graves and Marianna Boyd, the Mount Prospect duo playing No. 1 "B" for River Trails, are unbeaten this season.

Believe it or not, this Ripley is world's finest

Jim Murray

In a way, this is a Believe It Or Not by Ripley.

The story goes back to a year ago, when the track meet promoter, Al Franken, was putting together his Sunkist Indoor Invitational.

One thing a meet promoter has to watch for is honeyed words from coaches who have track and field phenomenons who have just equaled or broken world records "in practice." The pitch is high and hard. "The kid cleared the bar by a good two feet, I tell you! Would have gone through the ceiling with abetter pole plant! What? Where? Oh, this was in his garage down in Downey. Uh, could you send us two round-trip tickets L.A.-to-New York? We'll be in New York that week."

Franken makes a practice of keeping posted with Track and Field News and ear-to-the-ground track filberts like Dick Bank, or coaches like Jim Bush. In the world of track, you see, if a Siberian monk breaks a world record in secret at night out on the tundra, everyone knows it as soon as he hits the ground or the watch stops.

So, when San Jose State coach Ernie Bullard phoned a year ago to say he had a kid who was "clearing 17-6 in the pole vault in practice," Franken did a little fast checking. "What'd you say the kid's name was?" he asked Bullard. "Ripley," said Bullard. "That's what I thought it would be," said Franken. "And, if I get to believe it or not, I choose not."

Dan Ripley, he found out, was a vaulter who had cleared a modest 14-6 in high school, and his all-time best was a bare 16 feet. He was a backyard pole vaulter, a kid who had taught himself by using bamboo carpet rollers, and vaulting over clotheslines. Franken wanted performers who could top 18 feet, not the wet wash.

Within a week, Ripley had a believer, though, when word came down from Saskatoon that a youngster from San Jose State named Ripley had just broken the collegiate indoor pole vault record with a 17-8 leap, after his coach had begged meet officials to let him enter because his practices had been "sensational."

Two weeks later, reinstated by Franken, Ripley posted a world indoor record of 18-1 at the L. A. Sports Arena. Later that year, he tied for the UCAA outdoors with an 18-1 clearing, but was placed second for most misses at that height. Last weekend, in New York, he set a world indoor mark of 18-3¾.

How can a youngster, uncoached and uncoachable, struggling on inferior equipment and almost total lack of competition, build himself into a world-class pole vaulter and a possible Olympic gold medal winner when some countries throw almost the whole national athletic resources into the pot to produce such a talent? How do you go from jumping hedges to jumping records — from a personal high of 16-3 to an indoor mark of 18-1 almost overnight?

Any sports fan who has ever bet a daily double knows you can't get ready for the Kentucky Derby on works, that horses who run a hole in the wind in the morning frequently turn into frightened failures in the afternoon when the flags are flying and the crowds are cheering.

But this was one time when the "closet champion" was even better when he had an audience of something besides a line of lingerie. I asked Dan Ripley how he could do it.

He laughed. "It's like a golf swing. You have to get something that will work for you repeatedly under pressure. Each vaulter has to get his individual technique: where to hold the pole, how many steps, how to plant, the speed which makes for the widest catapult. I hold the pole at 15 feet 2 inches, use a 16-6 pole, take 16 steps in a 113-foot run. You do that over and over, and get so you could do it in your sleep, and you'll find you'll do it in a meet."

But didn't he worry about being "psyched" out by the ploys of older, more experienced vaulters with 50 to 100 meets under their belts and not just practice-field vaults? Ripley laughed. "The biggest 'psych-out' in the world is jumping higher. I don't know of any trick that can overcome that. Besides, rather than trying to distract other vaulters, you would be better spending the time and energy working on your own jump. That's what I do."

Now that he's soared two feet over the credibility gap, Dan Ripley no longer has to spend time and energy begging his way into meets. Which is a good thing. Because, even if you are making 20 feet in practice, there's no way to get on the phone and implore your way into the Olympics. Moonlight marks won't count for Montreal. A letter from mom or a call from the coach won't do for the Big O. You got to do 18 feet right out there in front of God and Roone Arledge and Channel 7 and Lord Killanin or it's back to the clothesline and hedges of home for you forever.

Lions to close home schedule

The St. Viator Lions will try to end their regular basketball season schedule on a winning note when they host St. Joseph High School tonight at 8 p.m.

Whatever the outcome of the final conference game of the year, the Lions are locked into fourth place in the East Suburban Catholic Conference, presently owning a 7-6 record, two games behind second place St. Patrick (9-4).

The Lions suffered a heartbreaking setback last weekend to struggling de Sales, 62-60, ending all hopes for a third place tie.

The first time these two teams met this season, Viator came away with a 51-41 victory at Westchester.

St. Viator will be looking to improve its 8-15 over-all record for first-year Lions coach, Ron Creigier.

The Chargers come into St. Viator with a 4-9 conference mark, tied with Notre Dame for fifth place in the ESCC.

West travels to Niles East

The Maine West Warriors close out their regular season of Central Suburban League play tonight as they travel to Niles East for an eight o'clock contest.

The Warriors have a chance for a second place tie in the league's south division with Maine South if West comes up with a win while South loses to league leader Niles West.

The Warriors bring a 9-4 conference record into tonight's game, compared to Niles East's 3-10 mark.

The first time the two clubs met this season, the Warriors crushed the Trojans, 85-45, led by Bob Zuccarini's 26 points.

The Maine West over-all record stands at 15-9, with the regionals starting next Tuesday on the Warrior home floor. West goes up against Rolling Meadows in the opening game Tuesday night.

Rolling Meadows

SANDBURG JUNIOR HIGH

Carl Sandburg Junior High's basketball team, representing Dist. 15 Palatine-Rolling Meadows, concluded its season by capturing the third place trophy in the annual Dist. 54 Invitational Tournament. Sandburg defeated Frost Junior High of Schaumburg 50-39 for the consolation trophy In the first round Sandburg defeated another Schaumburg team, Keller Junior High, 63-38, and had the distinction of being the only non-Dist. 54 school to advance to the second round. Sandburg lost to the eventual tournament champ, Eisenhower of Hoffman Estates, 49-39. Sandburg's over-all season record was 11-7. The team was coached by Ken Sutula. It also finished third in the Dist. 15 Invitational Tournament and tied for second in their Dist. 15 Conference.

Rolling Meadows

SANDBURG JUNIOR HIGH

Carl Sandburg Junior High's basketball team, representing Dist. 15 Palatine-Rolling Meadows, concluded its season by capturing the third place trophy in the annual Dist. 54 Invitational Tournament. Sandburg defeated Frost Junior High of Schaumburg 50-39 for the consolation trophy In the first round Sandburg defeated another Schaumburg team, Keller Junior High, 63-38, and had the distinction of being the only non-Dist. 54 school to advance to the second round. Sandburg lost to the eventual tournament champ, Eisenhower of Hoffman Estates, 49-39. Sandburg's over-all season record was 11-7. The team was coached by Ken Sutula. It also finished third in the Dist. 15 Invitational Tournament and tied for second in their Dist. 15 Conference.

Table hockey open set

The Third Annual United States Open Table Hockey Tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday, March 27-28 at the Chicago Holiday Inn, One South Halsted Street.

Entrants in singles and doubles competition will be battling for $2,500 in prize money. Over 150 table hockey players from Canada and the United States are expected to attend.

Singles competition is scheduled for March 27 and doubles for March 28 with $500 going to the first place winners in singles and doubles.

The entry fee for the event will be $25 and daily ticket prices will be $3.00 a day or $5.00 for a two-day pass.

For further information contact Rick Sorci at either 358-1222 or 359-3642.

Monroe to Sox camp

Larry Monroe, the former Forest View High School pitching ace, has been invited to the Chicago White Sox' spring training camp as a non-roster player. Monroe twirled a no-hitter for Appleton (Wis.) in the Midwest League last season.

Palatine's Popp nominated

Palatine senior running back Jim Popp has been nominated to the Prep All-American Football Program yearbook for 1975-76 The Herald learned from Coach & Athlete Magazine.

Nominations to the yearbook are made each year by high school coaches, sportswriters and college recruiters across the country.

Popp had an explosive senior season for the 7-2 Pirates as he rushed for 18 touchdowns and 1,214 yards, an area single season record.

Hoffman soccer signup

The Soccer Club of the Hoffman Estates Park District will be holding a formal registration for the 1976 Spring and Fall soccer program on Saturday, Feb. 28 at the Vogelei Barn.

The Barn, located at 650 West Higgins Rd. in Hoffman, will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. for registration. For complete details call 885-1194.

Oakton advances

Oakton Community College advanced to the Region IV Sectionals finals of the NJCAA today by pasting Wright, 84-78. Oakton (20-8) was paced in scoring by Tom Florentine's 23 points and 20 more from Jerry Jones, both Maine South High School products, and have a date with Mayfair at 3:30 at Triton.

If Oakton gets past Mayfair, it will qualify for the state tournament March 4-5-6 in Danville. Oakton has beaten Mayfair twice during the regular season, but only by margins of one and three points.

Zikes takes 54th

From campuses nationwide

—Area football stars were busy signing letters of intent to play college football in the past weeks.

The Schaumburg Saxons, champions of the Mid-Suburban League's South Division, sent all-state linebacker Scott Scholz to the University of Illinois. Other Saxons who signed letters were quarterback Russ Zonca (Eastern Illinois), running back Scott Mielke (Western Illinois) and receiver Brad Crawford (Drake).

Northern Illinois landed a pair of area products. Palatine quarterback Mark McCostlin will be playing for the Huskies next year as will Harper College kicker Dave Patterson.

—Mark Mara, a graduate of Palatine, had his best night as a collegian recently when he fired in 36 points and hauled down 13 rebounds to lead Kankakee Community College to a 104-90 win over Danville.

Wheeling's Ed Kruk got 15 points for KCC in that game.

—John Sloan, from Rolling Meadows, has the sixth best shot put in the Big-10 this season. The University of Illinois sophomore, who was a state champion in high school, has tossed the shot 52' 9½". The league's best is 56' 6½".

Another Rolling Meadows product, who is also attending the U of I, is Mark Harris. Harris' 15-6 pole vault is among the Big-10's best.

—Bob Kelly of Wheeling, a sophomore linebacker at North Park College, has been named to the Illinois Sports Information Directors Academic All-State team.

—Freshman Rick Morris, from Fremd High School, contributed 16.2 points to the Northern Michigan University gymnastics team when he scored 7.8 on floor ex and 8.4 in vaulting during a recent meet.

Midget hockey team 2nd in world meet

The midget team from the Flames Hockey Club, based in Arlington Heights, finished second in the World Hockey Tournament at Detroit recently.

The local team, which plays out of the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, qualified for the tourney by competing against seven other midget (15 and 16 year olds) teams.

Then the Flames' team took part in the round robin tourney that last nine days. They went against teams from Canada, Finland and Sweden.

A team from Canada beat out the Flames for first place. Still, finishing second for this first-year team was quite an accomplishment. They compiled a 4-1 record at the tourney.

Signup at Hersey for Little League

A second signup for the Prospect Heights Little League baseball program will be held tonight from 7-10:00 at the Hersey High School fieldhouse.

All boys between the ages of 8 and 14 who live within the new proposed boundaries are eligible.

The boundaries are Hintz Road on the north, Kensington Road on the south, Windsor Drive on the east and Arlington Heights Road on the west.

Registration will be held during major league tryouts. Boys between the ages of 10 and 14 should bring gloves and tennis shoes.

But can he still shift?

Jules Goux, a driver for Peugeot in the third Indianapolis 500 run in 1913, spoke no English and had to communicate with his American coach through an interpreter.

It was the bilinguist who called attention to a vital piece of Goux's racing equipment missing from the driver's cockpit: the bottle of chilled wine the Frenchman demanded when he drove.

During his first pitstop Goux had himself refueled and had no trouble winning the race.

Table hockey open set

The Third Annual United States Open Table Hockey Tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday, March 27-28 at the Chicago Holiday Inn, One South Halsted Street.

Entrants in singles and doubles competition will be battling for $2,500 in prize money. Over 150 table hockey players from Canada and the United States are expected to attend.

Singles competition is scheduled for March 27 and doubles for March 28 with $500 going to the first place winners in singles and doubles.

The entry fee for the event will be $25 and daily ticket prices will be $3.00 a day or $5.00 for a two-day pass.

For further information contact Rick Sorci at either 358-1222 or 359-3642.

Monroe to Sox camp

Larry Monroe, the former Forest View High School pitching ace, has been invited to the Chicago White Sox' spring training camp as a non-roster player. Monroe twirled a no-hitter for Appleton (Wis.) in the Midwest League last season.

Palatine's Popp nominated

Palatine senior running back Jim Popp has been nominated to the Prep All-American Football Program yearbook for 1975-76 The Herald learned from Coach & Athlete Magazine.

Nominations to the yearbook are made each year by high school coaches, sportswriters and college recruiters across the country.

Popp had an explosive senior season for the 7-2 Pirates as he rushed for 18 touchdowns and 1,214 yards, an area single season record.

Hoffman soccer signup

The Soccer Club of the Hoffman Estates Park District will be holding a formal registration for the 1976 Spring and Fall soccer program on Saturday, Feb. 28 at the Vogelei Barn.

The Barn, located at 650 West Higgins Rd. in Hoffman, will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. for registration. For complete details call 885-1194.

Oakton advances

Oakton Community College advanced to the Region IV Sectionals finals of the NJCAA today by pasting Wright, 84-78. Oakton (20-8) was paced in scoring by Tom Florentine's 23 points and 20 more from Jerry Jones, both Maine South High School products, and have a date with Mayfair at 3:30 at Triton.

If Oakton gets past Mayfair, it will qualify for the state tournament March 4-5-6 in Danville. Oakton has beaten Mayfair twice during the regular season, but only by margins of one and three points.

Zikes takes 54th

From campuses nationwide

—Area football stars were busy signing letters of intent to play college football in the past weeks.

The Schaumburg Saxons, champions of the Mid-Suburban League's South Division, sent all-state linebacker Scott Scholz to the University of Illinois. Other Saxons who signed letters were quarterback Russ Zonca (Eastern Illinois), running back Scott Mielke (Western Illinois) and receiver Brad Crawford (Drake).

Northern Illinois landed a pair of area products. Palatine quarterback Mark McCostlin will be playing for the Huskies next year as will Harper College kicker Dave Patterson.

—Mark Mara, a graduate of Palatine, had his best night as a collegian recently when he fired in 36 points and hauled down 13 rebounds to lead Kankakee Community College to a 104-90 win over Danville.

Wheeling's Ed Kruk got 15 points for KCC in that game.

—John Sloan, from Rolling Meadows, has the sixth best shot put in the Big-10 this season. The University of Illinois sophomore, who was a state champion in high school, has tossed the shot 52' 9½''. The league's best is 56' 6½''.

Another Rolling Meadows product, who is also attending the U of I, is Mark Harris. Harris' 15-6 pole vault is among the Big-10's best.

—Bob Kelly of Wheeling, a sophomore linebacker at North Park College, has been named to the Illinois Sports Information Directors Academic All-State team.

—Freshman Rick Morris, from Fremd High School, contributed 16.2 points to the Northern Michigan University gymnastics team when he scored 7.8 on floor ex and 8.4 in vaulting during a recent meet.

Midget hockey team 2nd in world meet

The midget team from the Flames Hockey Club, based in Arlington Heights, finished second in the World Hockey Tournament at Detroit recently.

The local team, which plays out of the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, qualified for the tourney by competing against seven other midget (15 and 16 year olds) teams.

Then the Flames' team took part in the round robin tourney that last nine days. They went against teams from Canada, Finland and Sweden.

A team from Canada beat out the Flames for first place. Still, finishing second for this first-year team was quite an accomplishment. They compiled a 4-1 record at the tourney.

Signup at Hersey for Little League

A second signup for the Prospect Heights Little League baseball program will be held tonight from 7-10:00 at the Hersey High School fieldhouse.

All boys between the ages of 8 and 14 who live within the new proposed boundaries are eligible.

The boundaries are Hintz Road on the north, Kensington Road on the south, Windsor Drive on the east and Arlington Heights Road on the west.

Registration will be held during major league tryouts. Boys between the ages of 10 and 14 should bring gloves and tennis shoes.

But can he still shift?

Jules Goux, a driver for Peugeot in the third Indianapolis 500 run in 1913, spoke no English and had to communicate with his American coach through an interpreter.

It was the bilinguist who called attention to a vital piece of Goux's racing equipment missing from the driver's cockpit: the bottle of chilled wine the Frenchman demanded when he drove.

During his first pitstop Goux had himself refueled and had no trouble winning the race.

Meadows holds slight lead in sectional

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Gymnastics Editor

Rolling Meadows and Hersey reached the halfway point in the Rolling Meadows Sectional Thursday night in a virtual dead heat for the team championship.

The host Mustangs, cruising on a superlative high bar showing, held a slim .30 lead over the Huskies after the completion of free ex, side horse and high bar.

Trampoline, P-Bars and still rings will be completed tonight beginning at 7:00 p.m.

Keith Liszewski

Hersey, runnerup in the Mid-Suburban League and champions of their own district tournament last week, jumped into the lead after the free ex event as Danny Muenz (8.50) and Bob Barut (8.30) finished 1-2 in the medal race.

Meadows was close behind Hersey's 24.45 score on the event with a total of 23.55 as Mike Illingworth (8.20) copped the third place medal and Glenn Dahl had a strong supporting 7.75.

The Prospect Knights, who sit third after the first night of competition, used a fourth place medal by Doug Zahour (8.05) to a 22.85 tital on free ex.

Buffalo Grove's Fred Bista took fifth place with an 8.00.

Prospect's Dave Scheible turned in the best performance of the evening for the Knights as he won the side horse event with an 8.45 judging.

The Knights' balance on the event staked them to a slim lead over Hersey after the second event.

Hersey's Muenz, who has virtually clinched the all-around title and will give the Huskies a distinct edge if the last three events are as close as the first three, took a third on side horse with a 7.55.

Fremd's Doug Smidl was second at 7.60, Prospect's Jeff Christian fourth with 7.45 and Deerfield's Steve Moran fifth with 7.40.

The Mustangs thrilled the partisan crowd on the high bar as their final three performers took turns outdoing themselves.

Guy Owsiany, the 12th performer to work the bar, took a short-lived lead with an 8.20 only to lose it to teammate Mark Waclawski with an 8.35.

Waclawski held the lead just long enough to turn the bar over to Keith Liszewski.

The Mustang senior threw his best routine of the year and was marked by the four judges at 9.0, 9.0, 9.0 and 8.7 for a 9.0 average.

The medal winning performance drew the only standing ovation of the night.

Waclawski's score tied for third place with Prospect's Doug Zahour while Owsiany's effort grabbed the fourth place medal. Muenz was second at 8.45.

Hersey's Rich Stange tied for fifth with Mundelein's Jeff Martin with an 8.05.

Women's softball signup scheduled

The Des Plaines Park District invites all women interested in playing 12-inch softball this summer to an organizational meeting Monday at the park district office at 748 Pearson St. at 7 p.m.

League rules, fees and tentative schedules will be discussed. There will be a residency requirement for two-thirds of a team's players to enter the league.

'Vet' Sacred Heart team tops Maine West, 53-35

by PAUL LOGAN

Sacred Heart of Mary's varsity basketball team demonstrated just how important experience means Thursday night.

The Maine West Warriors, a team that had played just two previous games, hosted Sacred Heart, a group of girls who had six games under their belts, and lost 53-35.

Coach Joan Wojtko's Sacred Heart grils controlled the rebounds at both ends of the court all night, allowing the Warriors few second shots while taking second and third tries themselves.

Sue Skarzynski, Sacred Heart's strong center, and Beth Kastner took care of most of the rebounds. Skarzynski, who carried a team-leading 17.5 average going into the contest, paced her team again with 13 points. She probably would have reached her average but the substitutes played the final quarter.

Sacred Heart only trailed once when Karen Gafrick, Maine's top scorer, hit a jumper midway in the first quarter to put her team on top 9-8. Baskets by Kastner, Skarzynski and team captain Karen Loicano put the winners back into the lead at the end of the first period, 14-9.

Sacred Heart built its advantage to 26-15 at halftime with Loicano according for six second-quarter points.

The visitors put the contest out of reach with a 16-point third period. Guard Margaret McNamara, who failed to score in the first half, played a superb all-around game in the second half. McNamara had four steals, including two straight that led to five of her nine points. Her dramatics boosted the score from 33-21 to 38-21.

"She's more of a dribbler," said Wojtko of McNamara. "Scoring-wise, she did pretty well. She had a good game."

Wojtko was pretty pleased by her whole team's play, especially seasonlong consistent performances of Skarzynski and Loicano. Loicano just missed tying Skarzynski in the point department with 12 — all in the first half. Besides McNamara's nine, Peggy Campano had eight.

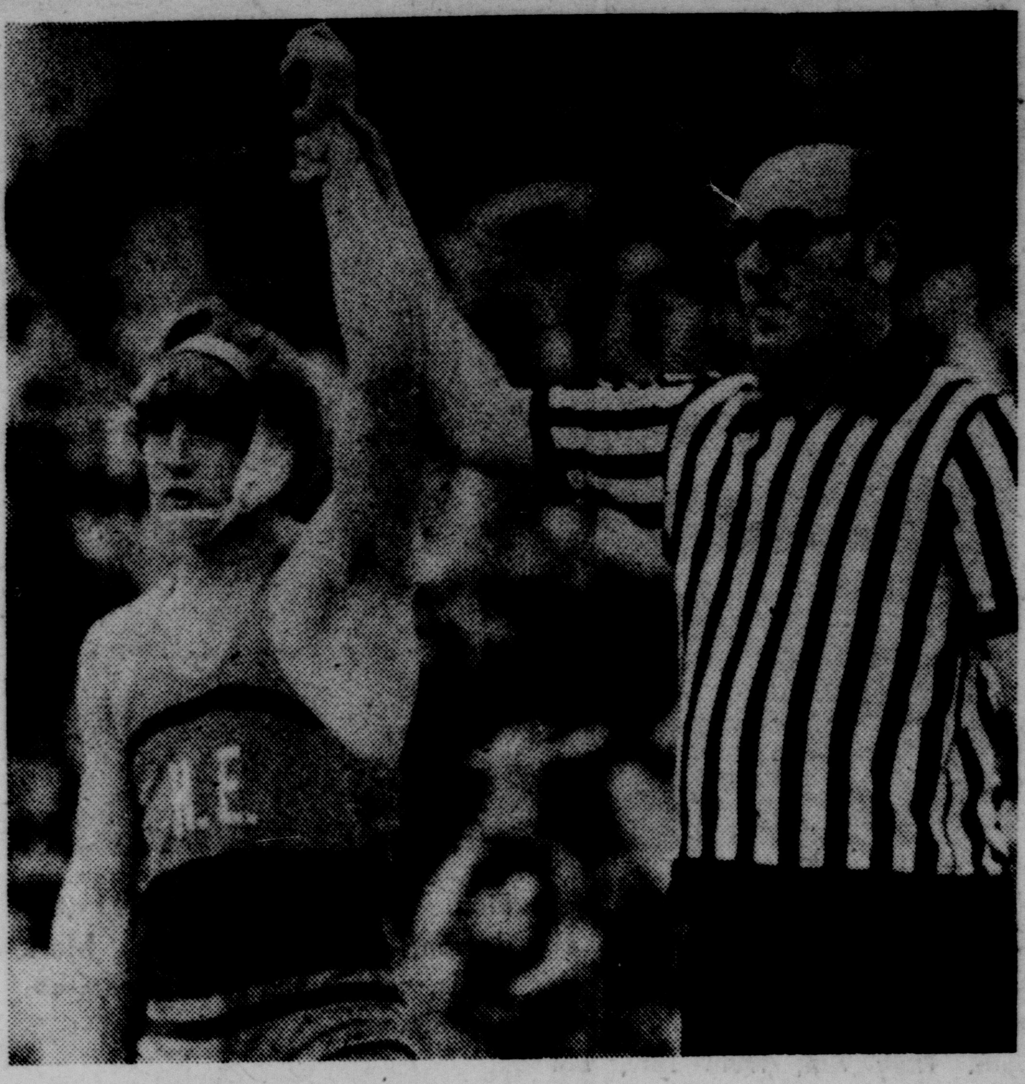
Gafrick led all scorers with 22 — exactly her average in three games. "If she doesn't score half of our points, we're in trouble," said West coach Connie Bauman.This is only Gafrick's first year of school competition

"I finally got her to come out," said Bauman. Gafrick, a junior, is a star swimmer for Maine. The 5-foot-2 guard has "a natural touch."

"We have a very young team. Out of the 24 who are out, 21 are first or second-year players. If they learn a lot and come back next year, they'll be strong."

Karen Stocco's four points was the next closest scorer to Gafrick. Maine's record is now 1-2.

Sacred Heart moved over the .500 mark at 4-3. Wojtko's team will wind up its season this weekend at Conant's two-day invitational tournament.



HAWK HOPE. Jim Thomas of Hoffman Estates High School hopes this victory scene will be repeated in Champaign at the state wrestling tournament.

Des Plaines National wins five, holds lead

Des Plaines National Bank took five points from Wauconda Bowl to hold their lead over Hoffman Lanes in the Paddock Junior Classic League.

The Bankers hold a commanding 16 point lead over Hoffman while Fairlanes in Rolling Meadows is in third place.

S. Fleming led the Bankers with a 572 series. He was helped by J. Saffold with 508 and R. Wilson with 508. Saffold had a 202 game.

Wauconda won the second game to avoid a shutout as Thorsen threw a 518 series.

Hoffman Lanes edged Fairlanes 906-903 in the deciding third game after the two teams split the openers.

Bill Geiersbach paced Hoffman with a 542 series while Mark McPherson knocked down 540 pins. Geiersbach's 189 was the high individual effort for Hoffman.

Pete Scalzitti had a 210 en route to a 513 series and the high series of Fairlanes went to Pat Fiddick with 549.

Jan Higgins fired a 568 series for Ten Pin Bowl as they shook off a loss in the first game to take five points from Beverly Lanes.

Higgins' 221 was the high game thrown in the league and he finished with the second highest series of the night.

Carl Heldmaier had a 533 series to lead Beverly.

Readers praise Olympics, blast owners in baseball

Fan's forum

Dear Bob Frisk:

You said it all in your column (Friday, Feb. 20) today when you stated "considering the garbage on TV these days I can't believe that extensive Olympic coverage once every four years is so difficult to accept."

Let me just add to that statement, that my whole family loved every minute of the Games they were able to watch. What a pleasant change from all the "cops and robbers" shows that are usually offered on TV. Besides, it gave my children a chance to become more familiar with their father's homeland.

Wish we had all been there! The splendid TV coverage was the next best thing to it.

Fans Forum:

Bob Frisk's column about the television coverage of the Winter Olympic Games briefly touched on the aspect that makes it so enjoyable to watch. And that is that for a 10-day period Americans could take part in a great spectacle of amateur sports — the best young athletic talent in the world. Absent is the professional taint that spoils most TV sports. Absent is the jaded outlook of most pro athletes.

Compared to the usual offering of TV, the Olympics coverage was a respite, no doubt. But compared to the rest of sports coverage, the Games on TV was the most refreshing course in amateur athletics ever presented.

STRIKE THREE!

Dear Fans Forum:

The baseball owners have gotten away with their little game for the last time. The spring training lockout is the most flagrant violation of good faith I've ever seen. For I don't know how many times the owners have tried to make us fans think the players were at fault, especially in the 1972 strike, which lasted all of three or four days. Now that an arbitrator has given the players their rights, the owners are trying to "bargain" those rights away from them.

This time, though, they won't succeed because the public, I feel, has finally tilted in favor of the players. People are realizing that the players have indeed been exploited for many years and only now are they beginning to exert their rights.

The owners think that if there is no baseball season, the fans will blame the players. No more. They will blame the owners.

VILLAGE OF INVERNESS ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Village of Inverness will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, March 16, 1976, at the hour of 7:30 p.m., at the Inverness Village Hall, at the north end of Highland Avenue, Village of Inverness, to consider the petition of Robert A. Friese that he be allowed to add a 2-car garage to his existing resisdential building located at 2118 Freeman Road, Inverness. Said garage, unless permitted by a variation granted by the Board of Trustees, would violate the sideyard requirements of the Village of Inverness Zoning Ordinance. The property is legally described as

Lot 1 in Dilks' Subdivision, being a Subdivision of part of the Northwest quarter of Section 20, Township 42 North, Range 10 East of the Third Principal Meridian, Cook County, Illinois, per Plat recorded as Document No. 17498070-D.

All interested persons will be given an opportunity to be heard at said hearing.

Legal Notice
VILLAGE OF INVERNESS ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Village of Inverness will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, March 16, 1976, at the hour of 7:30 p.m., at the Inverness Village Hall, at the north end of Highland Avenue, Village of Inverness, to consider the petition of Robert A. Friese that he be allowed to add a 2-car garage to his existing resisdential building located at 2118 Freeman Road, Inverness. Said garage, unless permitted by a variation granted by the Board of Trustees, would violate the sideyard requirements of the Village of Inverness Zoning Ordinance. The property is legally described as

Lot 1 in Dilks' Subdivision, being a Subdivision of part of the Northwest quarter of Section 20, Township 42 North, Range 10 East of the Third Principal Meridian, Cook County, Illinois, per Plat recorded as Document No. 17498070-D.

All interested persons will be given an opportunity to be heard at said hearing.

FRED W. CHANNER
Chairman Zoning Board of Appeals
Village of Inverness

Public Notice

The Federal Insurance Administrator, in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (P. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 P.L. 90-448), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 24 CFR Part 1917 (Section 1917.4 (a)) hereby gives notice of his proposed determinations of flood elevations for the Village of Mt. Prospect, Cook County, Illinois.

Under these Acts, the Administrator, to whom the Secretary has delegated the statutory authority, must develop criteria for flood plain management in identified flood hazard areas. In order to participate in the National Flood Insurance Program, the village must adopt flood plain management measures that are consistent with the flood elevations determined by the Secretary.

Proposed flood elevations (100-year flood) are listed below for selected locations. Maps and other information showing the detailed outlines of the flood-prone areas and the proposed flood elevations are available for review at the Village Clerk's office, 112 East Northwest Highway, Mt. Prospect,, Illinois.

Any person having knowledge, information, or wishing to make a comment on these determinations should immediately notify Robert D. Teichert, Mayor, 112 East Northwest Highway, Mt. Prospect 60056. The period for comment will be ninety days following the second publication of this notice in a newspaper of local circulation in the above-named community or ninety days from publication of this notice in the Federal Register, whichever is the later.

The proposed 100-year Flood Elevations are:

How Army pulled 'the sting' on Johnson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The troops were howling mad and the generals felt faint the day the Army conned President Johnson, but, as the Armed Forces Journal recalls it now, the con worked perfectly.

Johnson, the Journal says in its February edition, stood hand over heart and teary-eyed at the Pope Air Force Base, N.C., on Feb. 17, 1968, watching what he thought was a planeloand of gung-ho paratroopers take off for a destination he thought was Vietnam.

Inside the plane, the Journal says, the stunned and furious troops — a group just back from Vietnam — were screaming things like, "you double-crossing . . .!"

AT A NEARBY picnic ground, unknown to Johnson, the real Vietnam-bound bunch was getting drunk at a farewell beer bust.

Johnson, the Journal says, bade farewell to the wrong troops — a disgruntled battle-weary contingent hastily substituted for the partying unit by generals who wanted to keep both Johnson and the departing GIs happy.

After the President departed, the plane brought the angry soldiers back to base. The designated group left quietly the next day for Vietnam, where the savage Communist Tet offensive was raging.

In a report titled "The Day the President Got Conned," the Journal, a private, unofficial monthly publication on military affairs, says Johnson decided spur-of-the-moment he would personally bid farewell to the Vietnam bound 82nd Airborne Division soldiers from Ft. Bragg, N.C.

WORD OF HIS visit reached Ft. Bragg only hours before he did. A mad scramble ensued.

"The next battalion to leave for Vietnam was having its own farewell beer bust and barbecue," the Journal said. "By noon every man in it would already have had a snootful of hootch."

Yet when Johnson took the podium, ranks of troopers stood before him.

"Most of the men standing before him had just returned from Vietnam," the Journal said. "They had been called out hastily and not everyone had gotten the word on the charade about to take place. The men had been through some screwy experiences, but Lyndon Johnson's five-minute speech took the cake. The President was telling them goodbye!"

The Journal said Brig. Gen. Donald Blackburn, assistant commander of the 82nd Airborne, "thought he was going to have a heart attack" and the division commander, Major Gen. Richard Seitz, "turned pale" when Johnson decided to mingle with the GIS.

But the worst moment, the Journal says, came when Johnson insisted on watching the men actually take off. The Journal said Blackburn told the men to keep quiet for fear the troops would break out of the plane and start rioting.

As for Johnson, the Journal said, he was close to tears.

This story, the Journal said, remained secret until about a year ago, Col. Hugh Robinson, Johnson's military aide, met Blackburn and told him how touched the President had been by the occasion.

"Hugh, Blackburn interruped, let me buy you a drink," the Journal quoted Blackburn as saying. "I think I ought to tell you something."

The article was written by Benjamin F. Schemmer, Armed Forces Journal's publisher and co-editor. In an explanatory box on the story, he said:

"This is the story of how he (Johnson) said 'goodbye' to the wrong troops — and got conned by resourceful soldiers determined not to let their President down. The story is true — embellished with a little editorial license where eight years of time have dimmed the details." Apparently, the story was hushed up at the time so as not to embarrass the President.

Some odd remedies for all your flu bugs

You hardly ever read anything nice about having the flu. It's always presented in such an icky light, as if the flu might be something you want to avoid.

Well now, I've had the flu all this week. It hasn't been all that bad. Sure, I might have enjoyed walking around in those fine spring temperatures. But what's so neat about that when you can stay home and sweat in bed?

This, of course, is flu season. I've been hearing all about it this week on the radio. There's been lots of time for listening to various ideas regarding the flu.

Since newspapers also are public servants, I thought this would be a fine opportunity to discuss the flu. We should touch on where it comes from, how you'll recognize flu, its various treatments and how you'll know when you're getting better.

Back in the old days, it was thought little children got the flu because they kissed the cow on Grandpa's farm. Bigger boys got the flu because they saw older women.

AND OLDER WOMEN got the flu from bigger boys who were still kissing the cow on Grandpa's farm.

Most of these explanations are no longer any good.

It's now thought flu sneaks underneath your bedroom door late at night or hides in your toothpaste until morning. Some have said that flu also can be found in old holiday fruit baskets.

There are many key symptoms to flu.

In the morning, you will remain listless in bed, almost as though you were hit over the head with a bottle of pure grain alcohol. Of course, you will not feel like going to work and will mumble incoherently.

Other recognizable flu symptoms include a stuffed-up head and chest, sore muscles, a headache, slight fever and the feeling you have been mugged in a dark alley.

The best thing to do now is just lie there and act shocked, like you really can't believe it.

FOR THE FIRST couple of

L. W. Calderwood

Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood Thursday ended speculation that he plans to retire by saying he definitely "will retire this calendar year."

Although no specific date has been set, Calderwood told The Herald, "I'm going to be retiring this calendar year, you'd better believe it."

The 72-year-72-year-old Calderwood received a unanimous vote of confidence from the village board at a special session Tuesday called to hear charges of mismanagement brought against him by former police Capt. Jack W. Aldrich.

AFTER ALDRICH made the allegations two weeks ago, Trustee Frank Palmatier said Calderwood was retiring on July 31, the anniversary of his becoming a policeman.

Before Thursday, Calderwood steadfastly had refused to comment on either Aldrich's charges or the retirement date reported by Palmatier.

During the hearing before the trustees, repeated references were made to Calderwood's impending departure. However, at no time did Village Manager L. A. Hanson or any of the trustees say specifically that Calderwood would be leaving this year.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan said, "It does not come as any surprise that there would be a retirement this year."

Ryan said "it is a little premature" to discuss Calderwood's successor, but added that there would be a "wide open search" for a new chief from within and outside the department.

TO FIND A NEW police chief, Ryan said, "Certainly I would want to involve the (village) fire and police commission with the possibility of some additional expertise."

At Tuesday's special meeting, Trustee Frank Palmatier called for

A TAXICAB and an emergency-bound Arlington Heights police car collided early Thursday at an entrance to the Northpoint Shopping Center, Rand and Palatine roads, slightly injuring a policeman and the cab driver. Police said the cab, driven by Ralph O. Glocker, of Arlington City Cab Co., turned in front of the squad car. Glocker, who was ticketed for not yielding for an emergency vehicle, wes treated and released from Northwest Community Hospital. He was not carrying any passengers. Patrolman William Mols was injured slightly but not hospitalized. Driver of the squad, Patrolman Robert Suchomski, was not hurt.

U.S. probing details of lease for state offices

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner has begun an investigation into the details of an $18 million lease of office space for the Illinois Bureau of Employment Securities, The Herald has learned.

Federal investigators have obtained records from the U.S. Manpower Administration containing the details of a lease agreement for office space at 910 S. Michigan Ave.

The action came after disclosures the state will spend $1.3 million more over the next 10 years for the offices than it currently spends.

THE STATE'S unemployment offices were located at 160 N. Canal St., but moved to the old Standard Oil Building early last year.

An official of the U.S. Dept. of Labor in Chicago refused Thursday to confirm that Skinner's investigators had entered the case.

"I can't say, but I did just ship a lot of records out of here," the official said.

Skinner's investigation appears to be the first of several probes into the lease agreement. State Rep. Ted F. Leverenz, D-Maywood, announced plans also to have the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission look into the matter.

AIDES TO Gov. Daniel Walker have labeled the questions raised by the lease agreement "political charges." The Walker administration negotiated the lease for the property.

An examination of state and Walker campaign contribution records indicates Gary Spain, the head of a Chi-

Arlington cop chief says he'll step down

Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood will end 48 years of law enforcement and retire "this calendar year." The 72-year-old Calderwood received a unanimous vote of confidence from the village board earlier this week after charges of mismanagement were leveled against him by former police Capt. Jack W. Aldrich. Trustee Frank Palmatier two weeks ago said Calderwood was retiring July 31, but the chief refused to confirm he was planning to retire or comment on Aldrich's charges. Calderwood said he has not set a specific date for his retirement.

Doctors face big insurance hike

About 8,000 Illinois doctors are facing a possible 267 per cent across-the-board increase in malpractice insurance premiums starting July 1, raising the cost of coverage from $9,800 to $36,200 a year. Dr. Joseph L. Bordenave, chairman of the Illinois State Medical Society's board of trustees, said if a demand for the increase by the Hartford Insurance Co. is met, it may lead to a doctors' strike similar to the one in California earlier this year.

Two library votes Saturday

Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows residents will be asked to approve library referendums in their communities Saturday. Arlington Heights voters will be asked to approve a $2.2 million bond referendum to finance an expansion of the village library, and if approved, will cost owners of homes with an assessed valuation of $10,000 approximately $8 annually during the next 20 years. In Rolling Meadows, voters will be asked to approve increasing library taxes from 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation to a maximum 29 cents. Library officials say additional funds are needed to continue operations at their current levels and have pledged to increase taxes by only a few cents initially and not impose the maximum tax.

Dist. 21 mulls 50-teacher cut

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education members Thursday discussed cutting 50 teachers from the district's teaching staff of 420 in order to help offset an anticipated $1 million deficit next year. In executive session, the board discussed specific teachers' positions that will be cut for the 1976-77 school year. The cutbacks in teachers would pare nearly $500,000 from the budget, administration officials have said. The administration also has proposed cuts of $350,000 in administration costs and $280,000 in materials and supplies.

U.S. probing details of lease for state offices

cago consulting firm which recommended the lease, gave $1,000 to a March 1975 fund-raising dinner for the governor.

Leverenz told The Herald he raised questions about the lease after looking at the two buildings involved in the situation and after several persons questioned him about the details of the lease agreement.

Leverenez said the new lease agreement will cost the state $1.3 million more in the next 10 years. He also said the Canal Street offices were served by more mass transit lines than the current facilities.

THE U.S. MANPOWER Administration, which funnels federal funds into the state's unemployment compensation program, reviewed the lease agreement. Sources close to the federal investigation indicate the agency may begin a review aimed at withdrawing approval of the agreement.

Federal officials voiced concern about the lease agreement earlier this month. They cited the fact Illinois passed up an estimated $10 million which could have been used for construction of offices for the Illinois Dept. of Labor and the Bureau of Employment Security.

Questions also have been raised over a report produced by Spain's Comprehensive Planning Corp. The CPC report cost $106,000 and was funded by the owners of the two buildings.

The Walker administration appointed Chicago attorney Gary D. Friedman to hold the funds for the study. State officials said Friedman named CPC to perform the report for the state. Friedman is an assistant secretary of CPC. He also is a member of the same law firm, Arvey Hodes, Costello and Burman, which employs Daniel Walker Jr., the governor's son.

Several observers predicted that either Skinner or the U.S. Dept. of Labor could issue a report on the lease investigation before the March 16 primary.

The federal government also has the authority to delay payments of funds used to pay the lease, which could serve to worsen the state's already shakey cash flow situation.

Ford proposes import lid on natural gas

PRESIDENT FORD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Thursday proposed strict limits on U. S. imports of liquefied natural gas and asked Congress for power to make key decisions himself on development of Alaska's natural gas riches.

Ford proposed an import lid of 1 trillion cubic feet of liquefied natural gas a year by 1985 — less than the total that would be supplied by projects already on the drawing board to bring LNG from Algeria and Nigeria.

Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb said the lid would keep Americans from growing dependent on another insecure foreign fuel besides oil.

Ford's Alaskan gas proposal would take from the Federal Power Commission and give to the President the power, subject to congressional approval, to choose between two competing routes for moving natural gas from the North Slope of Alaska to the lower 48 states.

One route would be a pipeline across Canada, the other a land-sea system bypassing Canada. Zarb said the choice could be made in about a year, after negotiations with Canada, and Congress would have 60 to 90 days to approve or disapprove.

The President's new energy message also said the United States will give $5 million in the next five years to strengthen international safeguards against nuclear theft and terrorism and proposed a new billion dollar aid program for areas impacted by development of federally owned energy resources.

"Thus far the Congress has completed action on only one major piece of energy legislation . . . " Ford said. "Eighteen other major legislative proposals still await final action by the Congress."

Ford said the "most critical" area is natural gas. He urged speedy action on existing proposals to remove federal controls from natural gas production, and on the new proposal for Alaskan gas.

A White House fact sheet said the Alaskan gas measure, to be submitted soon to Congress, would force federal agencies to finish studies of the two route proposals by Feb. 1, 1977.

It said the President would then pick one of the routes, subject to congressional approval, and "judicial review thereafter would be limited."

Ford said the quick development of Alaska's rich natural gas fields, estimated to hold reserves of 24 trillion cubic feet of gas, could provide U. S. consumers with more than 1 trillion cubic feet of gas a year by the early 1980s.

Ford called for reform of nuclear power plant licensing rules to shorten the time required for bringing new plants into operation.

"I have also decided," he said, "the United States should make a special contribution of up to $5 million in the next five years to strengthen the safeguards program of the International Atomic Energy Agency" against theft of nuclear material.

Ford's $1 billion energy development impact assistance proposal would provide loans, loan guarantees and planning grants to impacted areas — particularly Western regions rich in coal and oil shale — during the next 15 years.

The President said such aid "is the only approach which assures that communities that need assistance will get it where it is needed, when it is needed."

Ford's message also called for:

- Gas price degregulation, which Ford said, would boost production 25 per cent by 1980.
- Rejection of proposals to tighten clean air standards and instead passage of measures removing some existing restrictions on the burning of coal.
- Creation of a new Energy Independence Authority to help private companies obtain financing for new energy facilities.

Psychiatrist: Patty was playing role for kidnapers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Patricia Hearst trial Thursday got down to whether she is lying about what happened during her captivity, with a psychiatrist saying she is not "simulating" and a prosecutor suggesting she is not telling the whole truth.

Dr. Martin Orne, a key defense witness, told the jury Miss Hearst was playing a role for her kidnapers and that she reached the point of no return after the bank robbery when they convinced her she was a "common criminal."

Asst. U.S. Atty. David Bancroft, in a hammering cross examination, intimated that the defendant was playing a role for Orne when he examined her in jail and that he swallowed her story of being terrorized until she broke mentally.

Citing Miss Hearst's defiance when she was arrested, her refusal to discuss the last year of her underground life and her shootup of a store, Bancroft asked whether there was not "another reasonable hypothesis" other than that she was brainwashed.

"I reject the hypothesis that she was playing games with me," Orne snapped.

"Isn't it possible?

"If it were not possible, we wouldn't be here and I wouldn't have examined her," the doctor said.

The trial was marked Thursday by the receipt of a document by the FBI signed by the "SLA eastern region" threatening the lives of U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter, U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr., chief defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey and two previous defense witnesses.

Orne, a professor at the University of Pennsylvania who also has a private practice, was the second psychiatrist called by the defense to testify that the 22-year-old heiress suffered a "traumatic neurosis."

He was followed late in the day by a third defense expert, Dr. Robert J. Lifton, a research psychiatrist at Yale. He testified only briefly before court was recessed.

The government had two of its own experts waiting to go on the stand to testify in what was expected to be a far different manner, providing the jury the spectacle of the "battle of the psychiatrists."

Orne said tat there were nine persons in the Symbionese Liberation Army and that she was given the number 9.

"She was the only private in an army of generals," he said.

"If she had really gone over to them, she would have insisted on a promotion. It doesn't make sense for her to remain a private. It doesn't make sense for the SLA. It doesn't make sense for her."

In the tapes she made for the terrorist group, he said, it would have been "far more compelling if she could have identified herself at least as Colonel Hearst."

The leader of the SLA band called himself "Field Marshal General Cinque" and the others were generals.

Orne said that in joining the bank robbery Miss Hearst "had to betray herself — she was forced to commit a crime that she knew was a crime."

"She had reached a point in time when there was no way back, she was stuck with that role. And there was no one she could tell that she was just playing the role."

The psychiatrist gave an example of a man who tries to butter up his boss in every way he can and then comes home and tells his wife what he really thinks of the employer.

"But if there is no one to tell how you really feel, then the role becomes more and more real."

Orne said Miss Hearst became firmly convinced she was an outlaw when then U.S. Attorney William Saxbe called her a "common criminal."

A portion of Friday's session was expected to be taken up, with arguments outside the presence of the jury, about admitting a lie detector test given Miss Hearst some weeks ago.

Orne said that one reason he believed the defendant was telling him the truth when he examined her in jail was that she passed up opportunities to give "self serving" answers that would have put her in a favorable light.

Panel threatens to subpoena bank records

A House subcommittee Thursday threatened to subpoena federal records of all U.S. banks with more than $1 billion in assets unless the comptroller of the currency makes them available within a week. The House Government Operations subcommittee voted to issue a letter rejecting Comptroller James E. Smith's compromise offer to make certain information available but to keep the names of the banks and certain other records confidential. The commerce subcommittee wants to see the records of all U.S. banks with assets of more than $1 billion — an aide estimated there are 125 — to determine for itself whether they have made questionable loans.

Charges dismissed against Attica convicts

A New York Supreme Court justice Thursday reluctantly dismissed all charges against 10 convicts accused of kidnaping guards during the 1971 Attica prison riot — America's bloodiest. The chief prosecutor in the case leveled a sweeping blast at "flagrant" deficiencies in the state investigation of the riot and asked Justice Frank R. Bayger to drop all but one of the charges against both the convicts who rioted and the law officers who suppressed the uprising. Forty-three persons died during the uprising.

Flights of the Concorde to begin April 10

British Airways and Air France, seeking to quickly get out from under a court challenge, said Thursday they plan to start daily flights of the Concorde supersonic airliner to New York and Washington on April 10. The specific date was included in documents filed in the U.S. Court of Appeals here, where the Environmental Defense Fund is seeking to block Transportation Secretary William Coleman's clearance for 16 months of SST flights into Washington's Dulles International Airport and New York's John F. Kennedy.

Will CIA leak have effect on free press?

A group of 13 Democrats, defending CBS newsman Daniel Schorr for making "an act of conscience" in leaking a secret report on the CIA, Thursday warned that House reaction may have "a chilling effect . . . on freedom of the press." The House Ethics committee is looking into procedures for investigating who leaked the report to Schorr and whether the veteran newsman may be found in contempt of Congress. Schorr has been suspended by CBS pending the outcome of the probe.

FORMER PRESIDENT Richard Nixon arrived in scenic Kweilin, China Thursday, and was met in the rain by Chiao Hsiao-kuang, vice chairman of the Kwangsi Revolutionary committee.

Nixon ignores criticism of visit to China

KWEILIN, China (UPI) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, ignoring stinging criticism of his visit to China, Thursday said "without qualification" that Kweilin was the most beautiful city in the world.

Nixon stared blankly at American reporters who met him at the airport and ignored their questions about the criticism as though he had not heard them. He brusquely brushed past the newsmen.

Retired Marine Lt. Col. John Brennan, an aide traveling with Nixon, said Nixon would not have any comment on the charges by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that he was breaking the law on his visit to China. "It would be stupid if he said anything," Brennan said.

At a banquet given in his honor later, Nixon said Sino-American friendship would "last for generations to come" and recalled his daughter Julie's visit to Kweilin and how she loved the city.

Nixon said in his toast that he had seen many cities in his visits to more than 80 countries and added, "I can say without qualification that of all cities, large or small in the world, there is not one more beautiful than Kweilin."

FTC opens probe of Blue Shield

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission Thursday announced an investigation of the Blue Shield medical insurance program to look for what FTC sources described as possible conflicts of interest by doctors involved with its operation.

The FTC announcement said the inquiry was started as part of an overall look into the health insurance industry.

It will involve all of the 71 separate Blue Shield plans across the country as well as the parent national organization, which provide reimbursement of doctor bills to subscribers.

A spokesman for the national Blue Shield said the organization "will respond to and participate in the investigation."

According to commission sources, the main thrust of the investigation will be into the extent to which doctors control Blue Shield plans and have a say in how much the program will provide for fees.

"Blue Shield literally pays physicians," said an FTC source. "They may be paid according to a fee schedule or according to a formula and we are concerned with how those are set up. There is a potential for conflict of interest."

Doctors have varying degrees of control over Blue Shield in different areas. In Ohio Blue Shield is an outright subsidiary of the state medical society, FTC sources said, while elsewhere doctors may make up only 25 per cent of the board of directors or simply maintain contact through liaison committees.

The national Blue Shield spokesman said about 72 million Americans participate in the program. Payments are estimated at $3 billion each year.

FTC sources said the inquiry could prove to be a lengthy one because much of the necessary information may not be available at the national level and jurisdictional disputes may arise that could require court action.

The Blue Shield spokesman said that participation of doctors was "of significant value to the public" because the program "has the support and commitment of most of the physicians practicing in an area."

Court asked to end death penalty as now imposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court was urged Thursday to abolish the death penalty as impossible to administer fairly and an affront to the principle of Human Worth.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund, representing the 230-plus persons now on death row, said in a brief filed with the court that matters have not basically changed since the court in 1972 struck down capital punishment as then administered. The justices said the sentence was meted out capriciously with no objective standard for determining who lived or died.

"The perpetuation of arbitrariness . . . is not mere happenstance," the LDF said in connection with Georgia and Florida cases the court has agreed to hear, along with appeals from North Carolina, Louisiana and Texas, on March 30.

"The death penalty is too cruelly intolerable for our society to apply it regularly and even-handedly; and it is inherently too purposeless and irrational to be applied selectively on any reasoned, non-individual basis."

The brief said discretion is explicitly present in the post 1972 laws of both Georgia and Florida. It cited recognition of "aggravating circumstances" as well as plea bargaining, jury discretion and executive clemency.

Touching on the same legal points, attorneys for Troy Leon Gregg, the defendant in the Georgia case, described the death penalty as "an ancient exercise in savagery that has run its course."

Amnesty International, a private humanitarian organization, filed views as a "friend of the court" in all five cases. Its brief described the death penalty as "an act of cold blood beneath the dignity of a modern state."

Acknowledging that the legal issue is "devoid of specific constitutional direction," the organization urged the justices to set an example for the nations which still use capital punishment. It said 22 countries have abolished it for ordinary crimes (exclusive of treason, state assassination and the like) in the last century.

"If the death penalty were abolished in the United States, other nations would be greatly influenced to follow in the same course," said the Amnesty International brief.

Thursday was the deadline for briefs by appealing parties in the five cases, and the states have until March 25 to file replies.

Yellow Kid dies in Chicago at 100

People

- The Yellow Kid, perhaps the greatest con man the nation has produced, died Thursday at the age of 100. Joseph Weill, known to crime connoisseurs the world over as the Yellow Kid, slipped away from a lifetime of flimflam at the Lake Front Convalescent Center in Chicago. He spent his last years savoring a career based on the theory that you can't cheat an honest man. He figured that during his illustrious career he conned his way into $8 million, mainly by fleecing wealthy businessmen who wanted something for nothing. He lost most of it, he said, but he had enough left to spend his last years in the dignity befitting a man who proved that crime pays enough to live the good life.
- Motorcycle stuntman Evel Knievel has been charged in Oakland Park, Fla. with injuring a barroom patron. Acting police chief Ed Turner said a warrant was sworn out by William Kretschmar, 31 of Fort Lauderdale. Turner said Knievel was being harassed by Kretschmar, who wanted the motorcyclist to buy him a drink. When Kretschmar persisted, the chief said, Knievel pushed him, and he hit his head on a table.
- Alexander Solzhenitsyn, in Paris, said Thursday in his latest book that only force can make the Soviet Union give up or soften its Communist system, the most "bloody," "cruel," and "crafty" in history. He derided Western intellectuals who, each "sitting at his warm table surrounded by comfort," say arming oneself with weapons makes one "as brutal as the oppressor." He said. "It is not by clemency that wickedness will be eliminated."
- The Federal Election Commission Thursday certified Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, as the 14th person eligible to run for the presidency with government money. Church won't announce his candidacy until next month after his Senate CIA investigation committee makes its final report.
- It used to be goldfish swallowing, then telephone booth stuffing and a couple of years ago, streaking. Now, the latest campus fad seems to be mattress stacking. On Saturday, the University of Cincinnati is staging a "Grand Stackoff" to challenge the campus record of 46 students piled atop a standard-sized double bed mattress within 60 seconds. Jerry Summerville, the school's assistant athletic director said "It's a minute of madness."
- FBI Director Clarence Kelly, denying a congressional charge, said the FBI conducts domestic intelligence operations to prevent violence and does not investigate operations to prevent voilence and does not investigate groups or individuals solely because of political views.
- Yosef Tekoah, former Israeli ambassador to the United Nations, said in Chicago there will be no peace as long as the Palestinian Liberation Organization is on Lebanese soil.

Daley backers rap snub of Howlett

Regular Dems attack Mugalian

State Rep. Richard Mugalian, D-Palatine, has told his chief political enemies in Palatine Township that "I wear no man's collar" and found himself attacked as not being a "real Democrat."

Mugalian spoke to the Palatine Township Democratic Club, the organization loyal to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley which was formed in 1974 after Mugalian, who was then township committeeman, broke with Daley.

During the confrontation, which lasted less than an hour, Mugalian fielded several hostile questions from club members about his failure to support Daley-backed gubernatorial candidate Michael Howlett. Mugalian also was put down for his stand on patronage.

HE TOLD THE GROUP legislators should be judged on openness, ability, willingness to work and "guts" and cited his ratings from the AFL-CIO and the Independent Voters of Illinois as evidence of his legislative record.

Richard Mugalian

"What good is a legislator if he wears somebody else's collar?" Mugalian said. "What good is he if he listens to some political boss instead of the people?" He said, "The worst kind of corruption is log-rolling political bondage."

Members of the audience of about 40, which was split between Mugalian supporters and club members, groaned when Mugalian said his views on the primary campaign between Howlett and Gov. Daniel Walker were "irrelevent."

He said, "If the judgement of a legislator whose record is clear depends on whether he endorses one politician or another in a primary, that judgement is not the soundest," he said.

WHEN PRESSED BY repeated questions, Mugalian said he is "leaning toward Walker" in the primary fight. He said, "I have voted against some of his bills, I have disagreed with many of his actions, but the choice is between two men, not between the governor and perfection."

Mugalian also said that as committeeman he sponsored persons for political patronage jobs. He said, however, "Making a guy who has a government job work for a politician or lose his job stinks." He said that kind of patronage "is an insult to the dignity of the person in the job."

Last fall, several members of the Palatine club who also are patronage workers for the county complained that Mugalian's successor as committeeman was threatening to have reprisals taken against them in their jobs unless they joined the regular township organization instead of the club.

Mugalian said when he was committeeman he sponsored persons for county job's "but I said they were free not to support me and as far a I know they worked against me."

Following Mugalian's appearance, William Sarto, a an employe of Sec. of State Michael Howlett, who will be Mugalian's Democratic rival in the 2nd Legislative District this fall, told the group, "I'm proud to say I'm a Democrat and I'm supporting Mike Howlett for governor."

Because of the cumulative voting system, which virtually guarantees two Republicans and one Democrat will be elected to the state house in the predominately Republican 2nd District, it is expected Sarto and Mugalian will in effect be running against each other for the one Democratic seat in the legislature.

Court funds returned to suburbs

Elk Grove Village and Arlington Heights led the Northwest suburbs in 1971 in the amount of revenue returned from the Cook County Circuit Courts, the Circuit Court clerk has reported.

Elk Grove Village received $120,714 from the courts last year, a five per cent increase over 1974. Arlington Heights took in $116,500.

Altogether 125 Cook County suburbs received $4,023,108 from the court system, most of it in traffic fines levied through tickets written by local police, the clerk reported.

The totals for Elk Grove Village and Arlington Heights put those two suburbs second and third in the amount of revenue received. Evanston was first on the list with $133,886.

Among the Northwest suburbs receiving money, Buffalo Grove was lowest, ranking 65 out of 125 with $24,676. Inverness did rank lower, receiving no money, but that village contracts with Palatine for police service. Palatine, ranked number 17, received $59,593.

Other Northwest suburbs, their rankings and amounts collected are: Mount Prospect, 10th, $80,045; Des Plaines, 11th, $73,987; Schaumburg, 20th, $57,048; Hoffman Estates, 23rd, $51,338; Rolling Meadows, 28th, $44,355; and Wheeling, 33rd, $40,116.

Vote machine OK delayed

The Cook County Board Thursday once again delayed action on approving the purchase of new voting machines for the November general election.

The county board delayed action for two weeks in order to wait for more financial data on the cost of converting the county from the present lever-type voting machines to some other voting machine system.

County Clerk Stanley Kusper has told the board it will cost $1.6 million to upgrade the present lever-type machines for use in November. Converting to a different system, such as one which would use punch cards for ballots, would cost between $6 and $8 million, Kusper has said.

March 1 land tax deadline

March 1 is the final date for Cook County taxpayers to pay the first installment of their property taxes without a penalty.

Penalties for late payment are one per cent a month, according to County Treasurer Edward J. Rosewell. Rosewell said the county already has collected $76 million from the first installment.

Any property owner who has not received a tax bill or who has questions about the bill may call Rosewell's office in Room 112 of the county building, 443-7930.

Cops support parole end

The president of the Combined Counties Police Assn. has announced support for Gov. Daniel Walker's proposals to eliminate parole for criminals.

John Flood said the organization supports Walker's plan which provides for fixed sentences and voluntary participation in rehabilitation programs. The rehabilitation programs would have no effect on the length of a prisoner's sentence. Flood called the proposal "tough, fair and realistic."

He gets unexpected ride

The blue goose on the tail of North Central Airlines flight 570 was flush red when the DC-9 arrived from Madison, Wis.

A member of the Madison baggage crew was locked in the jet's baggage compartment. It was an accident, airline officials say.

The employe, whom officials refused to identify, was inside the compartment looking for a suitcase shortly before the jet's departure from the Dane County Regional Airport.

The door was slammed shut, and no one knew he was inside until the rest of the crew discovered someone was missing.

An ambulance crew was waiting at O'Hare Field, but the employe wasn't injured.

"When we opened the door, he was just sitting there smiling," said an official in Chicago.

The employe was put on the next North Central flight back to Madison. A seat up front, of course.

Boy beaten to death

Hector Cruz, 14, of Chicago, told his parents he was going to "shoot baskets" at the schoolyard two blocks away.

Twenty minutes later, he was found dead.

Police found the body only about 100 feet from the door of his parents' basement apartment. A night attendant at the lighted schoolyard told police Hector never arrived.

Police said Thursday the eighth grader may have been beaten to death with a baseball bat. They had no suspects.

Hector's father, Santos Cruz, 32, said his son was "a good boy" who had never been involved in gang activities. Police said the boy had not been robbed or sexually molested.

Police Sgt. Rocco Rinaldo said: "It looks like the body may have been dragged to where it was found, or the boy was trying to crawl home."

Schools hit for segregation

The state Board of Education Thursday cited Chicago, Cahokia and Argo-Summit school districts for failing to desegregate their classrooms or to file a plan indicating they would do so in the future.

The districts were among 11 which state School Superintendent Joseph Cronin had told the board were not in compliance with state desegregation guidelines. The other districts, which are expected to be cited later today, are in Madison, Harvey, Maywood, Rockford, Springfield, Waukegan, Chicago Heights and Hazelcrest.

A citation by the board is the first step in a 14-month time table leading to a possible cutoff of federal funds for districts which don't cooperate.

Under state regulations, all school districts must have the same percentage of minority students in each school as the percentage in the entire district, give or take 15 per cent.

Symphony schedules kids' concert

The Harper Community Orchestra, under the direction of George Makas, will present a children's concert at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, March 7.

Featured performers at the concert will be students from the Suzuki Academy of Performing Arts in Arlington Heights. These students range in age from 6 to 16 and have performed throughout the Midwest at various universities, on television and in films.

Director Betty Haag, a student of Mischa Mischakoff, introduced the Suzuki method of violin instruction to the public schools of Arlington Heights.

Featured pianists will be two Harper faculty members, Fred Kern and Beverly McGahey. The performance of Sergei Prokofieff's "Peter and the Wolf" will be a highlight of the concert. Jean Makas, narrator, is currently reading specialist at Glenbrook High School. She will also narrate "Carnival of the Animals" by Saint-Saens.

Open to the community free of charge, the concert will be held in the college center lounge, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

Ex-Grant workers may claim pay

Former W. T. Grant employes can contact the Illinois Dept. of Labor if they want to file claims for severance pay or other benefits, said Donald Johnson, department director.

"Our wage claim division has been in touch with W. T. Grant and has taken responsibility for forwarding all claims to the attention of the bankruptcy court in New York," Johnson said. "W. T. Grant recently closed its Illinois stores, affecting 1,500 employes.

The company's bankruptcy is the largest in U.S. history. It is "extremely unlikely" former employes will receive all the money they claim, Johnson said. Claims should be sent to: Wage Claim Division, Room 1808, 910 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, 60605.

INTRODUCING...

Depilatron, totally effective, totally safe, totally painless hair removal.

Now there is a revolutionary, new way to remove unwanted hair from any part of your body. It's called the DEPILATRON Method...and it's as safe and painless as it is effective.

With the patented Depilatron Method, no needles are used, so no scabs can develop. A special tweezer touches only the hair, not the skin, and in seconds, as if by magic, the hair is removed. And the Depilatron Method is fast. Normally, a lip or chin hair problem can be taken care of in an hour or so. Without pain, without swelling or irritation. In fact, make up can be applied immediately after treatment.

Schools

Scholarships

The Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will award 36 Golden Jubilee Scholarships for the 1976-77 school year, one in each PTA district. Applications are available at high school guidance offices and must be submitted by March 15. The purpose of the award is to recruit teachers, librarians or instructional media specialists, school nurses, social workers, school psychologists, and teachers of vocational subjects, for Illinois public schools.

Applicants must graduate in the upper 20 per cent of their class and are judged on love of children, desire to teach, scholastic standing, leadership, character, and mental and physical health. The winner may attend the college of his choice.

The scholarship in each district is $1,000, with $250 being awarded each year. Applications for renewal must be made each of the last three years the student is in college. All recipients are obligated to teach one semester in an Illinois public school for each $250 received, or to repay the money awarded. A five-year period is allotted for the teaching or cash repayment.

Four area students will be awarded Eugenia S. Chapman Legislative scholarships. State Rep. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, will award the scholarships to students attending state-supported universities. These tuition scholarships are offered to any high school or community college student in the third legislative district.

In addition to four winners, four alternates will be selected. Each scholarship is for two years. Deadline for applying is March 26. Applications may be obtained from counseling offices of area high schools and Harper College or by writing Rep. Chapman, 16 S. Princeton Ct., Arlington Heights, 60006.

Contests

The Phillip Carpenter AMVETS Post 66 is holding its annual Americanism essay and poster contest for sixth graders. "What the Spirit of '76 Means to Me" is the theme of this years' contest. Awards will be presented for first, second and third place winners. Rules and information have been distributed to area schools or can be obtained by writing Mrs. Marge Rannie, Americansim chairman, AMVETS Auxiliary 66, 3200 Salk Rd., Arlington Heights, 60004.

Deadline for entires is March 29.

Special Education

PATHS, a group of parents and teachers of handicapped students, will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at Kirk Center, 52 S. Old Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

Guest Connee Meschini will talk on respite care, a competent and sympathetic care for the disabled family member while parents are away.

The election of officers will also be conducted at this meeting.

For $2.2 million

Library bond vote Saturday

Twelve polling places in Arlington Heights will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. for Saturday's library bond referendum.

The polling places are: 1st precinct, Rand Junior High School, 2550 N. Arlington Heights Rd.; 2nd precinct, Camelot Park, 1005 E. Suffield Dr.; 3rd precinct, Hasbrook Park, 333 W. Maude Ave.; 4th precinct, Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.; 5th precinct, Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St.; 6th precinct, First Methodist Church, 1903 E. Euclid Ave.; 7th precinct, Wheeling Township Hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy.;

Eighth precinct, Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave.; 9th precinct, South Junior High School, 301 W. South St.; 10th precinct, Faith Evangelical Lutheran Church, 431 S. Arlington Heights Rd.; 11th precinct, Lutheran Church of the Cross, 2025 Goebbert Rd.; and 12th precinct, Heritage Park, 506 W. Victoria Ln.

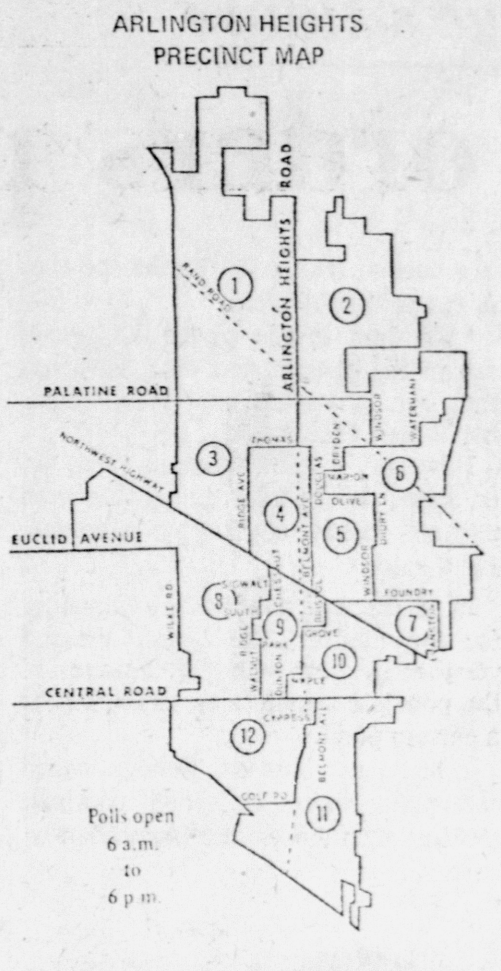
IF APPROVED, the $2.2 million in bonds would be used to expand the library, improve parking facilities and purchase new equipment. The proposed $1.6 million building expansion would extend the present building across Fremont Street onto land now used as a commuter parking lot.

A $50,000 remodeling of the existing facilities, $55,000 improved parking lot and $265,000 in new equipment also are part of the planned expenditures.

The referendum would cost homeowners with a house with an assessed valuation of $10,000 approximately $8 annually for the next 20 years.

Library officials have said the expansion program will meet the community's needs for the next 5 to 10 years.

Last year, voters approved $720,000 in bonds for the purchase of new books for the library. However, the library cannot purchase the books under law unless the additional space, to be financed with Saturday's referendum, is provided for them.



PRECINCT MAP for the $2.25 million Arlington Heights Memorial Library expansion referendum set Saturday. Polling places will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Shopping, business area survey slated by village

Arlington Heights residents will be surveyed on their shopping habits and their attitudes on the central business district in the village's March newsletter.

The survey is being conducted by the village board's special committee on central business district improvements.

The committee, headed by Trustee August Bettman, is expected to recommend next month that a parking garage and pedestrian mall be built to revitalize the business district. The survey data will be used to assist in planning the projects.

THE SURVEY asks residents their opinions of the physical, parking and traffic conditions in the central business district, as well as their thoughts on prices, advertising and service at the downtown businesses.

It also asks what improvements shoppers would like to see made downtown and whether they would shop there more often if changes were made.

Village Planner Joseph Kesler said he is optimistic that surveys will be returned by at least 8,000 of the 22,000 households in the village.

Village officials are hopeful that such improvements as a parking garage and shopping mall will bring new businesses to the downtown area and encourage residents to shop in Arlington Heights, rather than the large shopping centers in the area.

VILLAGE PRES. James T. Ryan, in a preamble to the newsletter survey, said the improvements are needed to increase the village's tax revenue.

"In communities with viable downtown areas, their percentage of contributions to the over-all tax base can range from 10 to 20 per cent. In Arlington Heights, the downtown represents only 1.3 per cent of this figure," Ryan said.

"The assessed valuation also reflects a decline in growth. While the total assessed valuation of our village has increased 153 per cent in the past 10 years, the downtown's contribution to that total was only 2.4 per cent," his letter said.

Dist. 21 mulls cutting 50 teaching positions

Cutting about 50 teaching positions in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 was discussed Thursday by the board of education as one way to help offset an anticipated $1 million deficit next year.

The board, in executive session, discussed specific teaching positions that might be cut for the 1976-77 school year. The administration presented possible budget reductions that would cut about $500,000 from teacher salary expenditures, $350,000 in administration costs and $280,000 in materials and supplies.

The district has about 420 teachers this year. The proposed cuts would reduce the staff to about 366 teachers. The district had planned to cut 11 teachers because of declining enrollment.

THE BOARD HAD not made any decision on budget cuts by 11 p.m. Thursday.

The administration projects an income of about $8.9 million in the education fund next year, an increase of about $13,000 from this year. A surplus of about $560,000 also is expected at the end of the 1975-76 school year, making a total of $9.5 million in revenue available for the 1976-77 school year.

The district spent about $10.6 million during the 1975-76 school year. The district will face a deficit of about $1 million by July 1977 if expenditures are maintained at this level next year. To prevent this deficit, the administration proposed budget cuts totalling about $1 million, which would reduce expenditures to about $9.6 million last year.

Ed Searing, Dist. 21 teachers' union president, said the teachers also were meeting Thursday to discuss the administration's proposed budget cuts, particularly that reducing the teaching staff by about 50. He said the union might present a statement today.

IN THE TEACHERS' newsletter, "Hotline," the teachers stated the district is "not overstaffed but underfunded" and should look into ways to increase its income.

The teachers suggested that the district check into the possibility of reassessing underassessed property in the area, lobby for more state aid, approach the voters with a tax rate referendum and work to elect a governor who would give schools full state aid.

The newsletter also stated the "proposed 15 per cent reduction in the teaching staff and the resulting increase in class size will result in a drastic and totally unnecessary decline in the quality of education received by the children of Dist. 21."

To plan for college's future

Harper orders population study

The Harper College Board of Trustees agreed Thursday to commission a new study of population trends in the district to aid in future planning for the college.

"We need to plan based on the new developers in our area, the population within these geographic areas, and the new age categories we deal with," said Guerin Fischer, vice president for academic affairs.

The board currently is working with data from a 1973 demographic study and it will request an update of that study from Real Estate Research Corp., Chicago.

WITH THE NEW information the board plans to evaluate what facilities are needed and to determine the type of curriculum to offer.

"We want to see where the people are in the district and then see what they are interested in," board member Robert Moats said.

However, these buildings are not equipped to handle the traffic and parking needs of Harper students, Lahti said.

In a discussion of future planning for the district, the board debated whether to grow with the demands of the population or to stop expansion at a certain point.

Shirley Munson, college board chairman, said, "We should continue meeting demands of the population as long as it is fiscally possible."

THE BOARD ASKED the administration to set up a deliberation schedule to determine what information it will need before continuing its expansion plans.

Spring semester enrollments at Harper are 31 per cent ahead of enrollments at this time last year, according to early registration figures. College administrators expect enrollments to continue climbing in the next few years.

Meeting as a committee-of-the-whole Thursday, the board considered establishing an extension center as a temporary solution to overcrowding at the main campus in Palatine. The board has not reached a final decision on whether to build a second campus. Extension centers would be off-campus buildings housing classes.

A $12 million bond issue was approved by voters in September to provide funds for construction of a second campus at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads, Arlington Heights.

"When the update of the demographic study comes in and if it appears we are still growing at a fast pace, we will assess the enrollment, look at campus utilization and consider using extension centers on an interim basis," College Pres Robert Lahti said.

Expanded store to open

A new, expanded Jewel Food Store will open in the Arlington Market Shopping Center Saturday.

Two earn Eagle Scout awards

Two Arlington Heights Boy Scouts tonight will receive Eagle Scout awards at a court of honor ceremony.

The Scouts, Kevin G. Kurtz and Thomas P. Schumacher, will be inducted at 7 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall by Richard Kozakiewicz, Troop 166 committee chairman.

Kurtz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Kurtz, is an eighth-grade student at St. James Junior High School. Schumacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth V. Schumacher, is a junior at Arlington High School.

Village fiscal unit OKs youth unit funds request

Budget requests from the Arlington Heights Youth Council totaling $67,800 have been approved by the village board's finance committee.

Final approval must now be received from the full board when the final budget is presented in April.

Unless reductions are made then, the youth council will receive $29,000 for Omni-House, $19,000 for the counselor-in-the-park program, $15,000 for Uplift, a peer group counseling service, $4,500 for the Ecology Corps program, $200 for a quarterly newsletter and $100 for general operating expenses.

A decision on the youth council's request for funds to stage a "Youth Fair" was delayed until the committee's final budget hearing March 3.

The approval of $29,000 for the Omni-House program, a youth service bureau that also receives funds from Wheeling Township and other municipalities in the township, was $9,000 more than recommended in the budget proposed by the village administration. The program received $20,000 last year.

THE JUMP IN funding to $29,000 surprised Trustee Alfred Barboro, who served as chairman of the youth council until last month when he was named to the village board.

"During deliberations with the youth council, I myself felt we should only ask for $25,000. I'm not sure the jump from $20,000 to $29,000 was totally justified in one year. I guess it shows they have confidence in the youth council," Barboro said.

The approval of $19,000 for the counselor-in-the-park program was $1,000 more than was appropriated last year. The village administration had also recommended that that level not be increased.

New liquor license for Giraffe?

The creation of a new liquor liciense for the Giraffe discotheque will be recommended by the public health and safety committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The issuance of the new license would resolve a five-month-long controversy over liquor restrictions at the discotheque adajcent to the Brass Rail restaurant, 2121 S. Arington Heights Rd.

The new license is in addition to the Class AA liquor license issued to the Brass Rail. It allows the Giraffe to serve liquor without the requirement that food also be offered.

The proposed fee for the adjunct license is $2,000.

Village officials and the discotheque operators have disagreed since September whether the Giraffe can legally operate under the liquor license issued to the Brass Rail.

The restaurant pays $2,000 for its Class AA license and $500 for a cabaret license, which allows live entertainment.

To comply with the Class AA license requirements, the Giraffe has been offering food to its customers. The discotheque has been operating under a grace period from the village board, while the public health and safety committee studied the matter.

Scouts' honors dinner

The Sauk Woods District of the Northwest Suburban Council of Boy Scouts will conduct its annual recognition dinner March 6 at the Brass Rail Restaurant, 2121 S. Arlington Heights Rd, Arlington Heights.

Admission is $10 per person. Reservations should be made by calling 392-0373 or 394-4227.

The meeting will begin with a fellowship hour at 6 p.m.

Police chief says he'll retire this year

an outside management consultant study of the department's operations but no action was taken.

Ryan said Thursday it was likewise "premature" to consider hiring outside consultants before a retirement date for Calderwood is announced.

Palmatier said, "As I indicated Tuesday night, I would still favor such a study." He suggested it coincide with the selection of Calderwood's successor.

"We should defer it until the new chief is on board or at least on hand to have input. I still think the study should be conducted," he said.

LIKE RYAN, Palmatier said there should be a "wide open search . . . nationwide . . . to get the best man available."

He said, "The village manager has the right to appoint the chief and all other department heads," under the manager-council form of government, but that the fire and police commission or a special committee should make recommendations to Hanson.

Burglars rob office, apartment complex

Burglars broke into two apartments of a complex in Arlington Heights late Tuesday, stealing a $300 television set owned by Curtis D. Donges, 2206 Goebbert Rd., police said.

The burglary of Donges' apartment was discovered while police were investigating another break-in at the residence of Mary L. Brooks. Nothing was reported stolen from that apartment, but the woman returned home about 10 p.m. and noticed the break-in.

The burglars entered both apartments through windows.

Burglars also broke into John Lewis Beauty School, 320 Northwest Hy., and stole between $38 and $50 in cash Early Wednesday, police said.

Police said the money was in an office cash box. The burglars broke a rear window to enter the building, then forced open the office door, police said.

Parade plans announced

Daley and suburbs — what gives?

by STEVE BROWN

Herald Political Writer

Richard J. Daley in the suburbs. The mayor and his entourage, much like Dorothy and her gang tripping into Oz, discovered last week that there is something somewhere over the rainbow — votes.

Hizzoner, as some like to refer to one of the most powerful figures in the Democratic Party, broke a decade of abstinence when he visited suburban Kenilworth last weekend.

Replacing the familiar term "Chicaguh" with "Nort Shore," Daley told a group of loyal transplants there is no wall between the suburbs and the city.

ALMOST LIKE THE critics of Christopher Columbus who feared the navigator would fall off the earth, Daley stepped gingerly from his limousine last week, apparently not sure how firm the ground was beneath him.

Welcome Mayor. The suburbs are for real, as you probably noticed. Daley's proclamation about no wall is a little shallow.

If there is no wall, why did he try to promote a congressional redistricting plan that was aimed at increasing the number of Chicagoans elected to Congress from Illinois?

If there is no wall, why did he push for a closed primary plan that would have limited the power of the suburban voter in countywide elections?

IF THERE IS no wall, why does he prohibit city police and firefighters from living in the suburbs? The time has passed when police and firefighters had to live nearby so they could rush to the scene of an emergency.

If there is no wall, why are bonafide Democratic township committeemen, like Lynn Williams of New Trier Township, barred from some of the party's key decisions? Granted, Williams is a rable rouser in the eyes of the party leaders, but he was elected by the "pee-pul."

If there is no wall, why does he need to send Jane Byrne to the suburbs to organize "clubs?" Why not just work with the current party organizations?

It appears Daley speaks with either a forked-tongue or a fogged mind. In fairness, it does seem the mayor believes there is no wall when it comes to exacting taxes for the continuing bailout of the Chicago Transit Authority under the guise of the RTA.

THERE ALSO appears to be no wall for the placement of workers in the county forest prserves or highway departments.

It appears the mayor has finally decided Cook County does not end at the Chicago city limits and that there may be some votes to gain in the suburbs.

The mayor should be warned that he may need to change his style. Suburban voters classically do not seem to be motivated by jobs — patronage jobs that is. They seem to vote more on issues.

The situation might have changed. Daley does not seem to think so. At this point he seems to be willing to let the Byrne barnstormers race through selected areas establising beachheads.

Whether this tactic works remains in question. The emergence of Daley in the suburbs might just guarantee the mavericks more success. If the mayor or Mrs. Byrne push too hard on some of the regular organization people, however, the city hall brain trust may just find the welcome mat pulled in and a few bricklayers at work.

Dow Jones drops 15.74 points

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market suffered its worst loss in nearly three months Thursday in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange when the Dow Jones industrial average failed for the third day to crack the 1,000 barrier.

The Dow plunged 15.74, points to 978.83, the worst setback since it dropped 17.71 points on Dec. 3. As in the previous two sessions, the closely watched average had reached the 996 area but failed to go higher.

"You might say it's a case of three strikes and you're out," said Newton Zinder, vice president of E. F. Hutton & Co. He was not surprised at the setback. A number of analysts noted the Dow did much the same thing in 1965 when it made its first assault ever on the barrier.

THE LAST TIME it closed above 1,000 was on Jan. 26, 1973, when it finished at 1,003.54. It reached an all-time high of 1,051.70 on Jan. 11 of that year. It gained 1.02 points Wednesday to reach a three-year high.

A number of traders, sensing there would be a sell-off if the Dow went through 1,000, placed sell orders in the 995 range, analysts said, and that blunted a further advance.

"This is a classic example of the contrary investor adage that when everybody thinks the market is going to do something, it does the opposite," said Monte Gordon, vice president of Dreyfus Corp.

Volume totaled 34,320,000 shares, indicating the sell-off was widespread. Turnover Wednesday totaled 34,680,000 shares. Volume so far this year has been the heaviest in the 184-year history of the NYSE, while prices have registered one of the strongest short-term advances ever.

Further demonstrating the breadth of the slide, Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 1.58 to 100.11. The NYSE common stock index dropped 0.84 to 53.62, and the average price of an NYSE common share by 53 cents.

DECLINES ROUTED advances, 1,219 to 388, among the 1,893 issues crossing the tape.

Profit taking hit the blue-chips and glamors hardest, which were the leaders in the unprecedented new year rally. IBM fell 4 to 256, Getty Oil 4 to 159½, Phillips Petroleum 3-7/8 to 49-5/8, Eastman Kodak 3-1/8 to 107¾, MCA Inc. 3 to 69-3/8 and DuPont 3 to 153¾.

American Motors led the Big Board actives, falling 3/8 to 6-7/8 on 561,800 shares, including an opening block of 222,000 shares at 7¼. Chrysler was third, off 3/8 to 18-1/8 on 455,600 shares, including a block of 105,000 shares at 18-7/8. General Motors and Ford lost fractions...

Litton Industries was the second most active Big Board issue, off 3/8 to 12-1/8 on 473,100 shares. The company, which Wednesday won a $200 million Navy ship contract, reported second quarter earnings of 24 cents a share, compared with 21 cents a year ago.

Prices closed lower in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by 13 cents. Volume totaled 5,800,000 shares, compared with 5,720,000 traded Wednesday.

The way we see it

Ford, Congress must curb CIA

Some past activities of the Central Intelligence Agency are badly out of harmony with the spirit of our free and democratic society.

Finding a method of reining in CIA abuses, while still maintaining an effective system for gathering foreign intelligence, is not a simple task.

A problem inherent in governing the CIA is that the agency has two masters: Congress, which allocates money, and the President, who makes foreign policy. Each has considerable influence over the CIA and must bear considerable responsibility for insuring its proper operation.

President Ford has moved first to correct abuses identified through congressional hearings, newspaper investigations and Administration probing. Last week, Ford proposed a three-part plan to establish better control over the intelligence system.

Ford's first proposal includes creation of a three-member "independent oversight" board to monitor intelligence activities.

The plan has several defects. We would prefer a fixed term for the board members to protect them from political interference; we also would have preferred to see Ford nominate some members who had no previous ties to the intelligence community.

The chief need of any corrective plan is to control the activities of our Presidents, who have been the worst abusers of the CIA. We are not certain the Ford plan offers an adequate check against presidential abuse.

Congress, like the White House, must share responsibility for abuses that have occurred. Lethargic congressional oversight committees too often have worked hand-in-hand with the CIA, allowing the kinds of abuses we've been reading about in recent months.

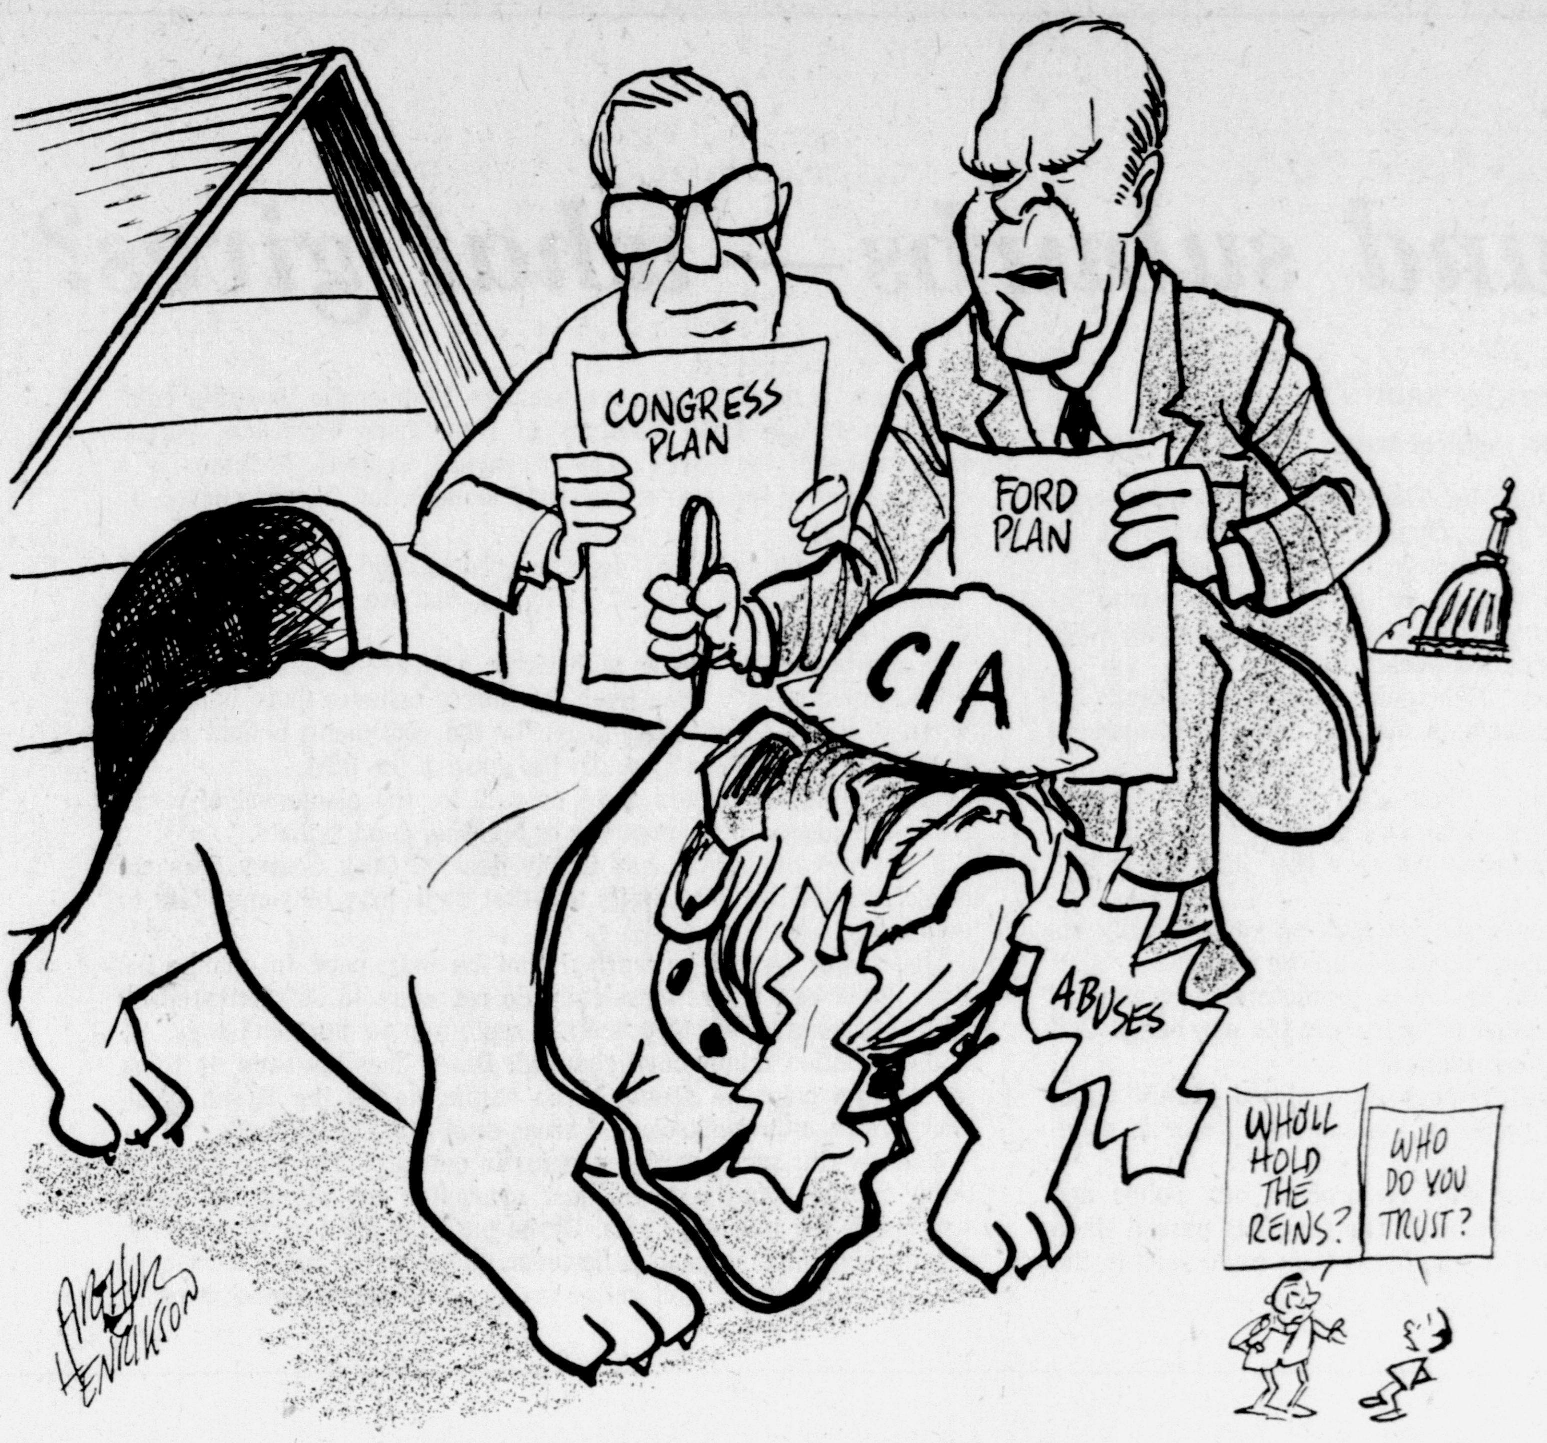
Ford proposed a joint Congressional committee on intelligence; it is predicted that each house of Congress will form its own intelligence committee and disband the six existing committees. Either way, Congress bears a growing obligation for sternly controlling CIA spending and scrutinizing overseas paramilitary activities.

Ford has ordered a sweeping ban on CIA domestic activities as well as a secrets act to stop the leaking of government documents to the press.

The domestic activities proposal, which restricts such activities as burglaries and eavesdropping, should not have been necessary in our democracy. But it is a needed reform, which should be accompanied by a plan to curb Federal Bureau of Investigation domestic abuses.

The secrets plan, however, is a repressive and unneeded proposal. Our government has not been seriously jeopardized by leaks; rather, the public has been alerted to government's failures by the Pentagon Papers and the Watergate-era disclosures. If a law is needed, it is one to loosen up the oppressive secrecy which engulfs our federal government.

We cannot judge today the likely success of Ford's plan; all we can do is measure some of the CIA's abuses. What is suggested by these abuses is a need for White House and congressional action to protect both our freedoms and our real security needs from future abuse.



He needs to be controlled better!

Today is Friday, Feb. 27, the 58th day of 1976 with 308 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Venus.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

American poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was born on Feb. 27, 1807.

On this day in history:

- In 1939, so-called "sit-down" strikes were outlawed by the U.S. Supreme Court.
- In 1942, opening salvos were fired in the battle of the Java Sea, a Pacific naval engagement in the early days of World War II, in which the Japanese sank 13 American warships while losing only two.
- In 1963, Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees signed a contract for $100,000, highest in baseball at that time.
- In 1975, the House of Representatives passed a $21.2 billion anti-recession tax cut bill, including repeal of the oil depletion allowance.

Backs 'yes' library vote

On Feb. 28 the voters of Rolling Meadows have a unique opportunity to do something for themselves and their community. On that date they can vote "yes" in the referendum to benefit the Rolling Meadows Library.

The library, which serves as an important intellectual center for our community, will use the increased revenue from a tax rate increase to maintain present services, materials and hours. Unfortunately, the library finances are now at a point where hours and services will have to be cut back without an increase. Much-needed library materials cannot be purchased. Improvements in services and in the library collection cannot even be considered.

We have much to be proud of in Rolling Meadows. It would be a shame if our library could not be one of those things.

Vote "yes" on February 28.

She hits Walker community college view

I'd like to protest the philosophy of Gov. Daniel Walker on Illinois community colleges. According to his interview with The Herald, published Feb. 20, the Governor said that community colleges should be confined to two functions — vocational education and educating students who cannot get into a college anywhere else.

Harper College in Palatine has done a spectacularly successful job in reaching the mature student — the student who may be hesitant about college courses, or who can take only one or two courses at a time because of the pressure of job, family or finances.

For many of these students, including me, enrollment at a "regular" college somewhere else (as defined by Walker) would be impossible. Many of my classmates at Harper in the physiology course I'm taking this semester are homemakers — mothers of young children. In no way would we be able to enroll at schools like Northwestern or University of Chicago, which is apparently what the Governor is suggesting we do. But we can advance our education, slowly but realistically, through attending classes at Harper.

Far from being the haven for rejected students the Governor seems to think it should be, Harper teaches excellent courses, with high standards of faculty instruction and course content. I speak from experience. Even though I have a bachelor's degree from long ago, I have nearly 40 hours of Harper credits taken in the past five years in a number of areas, as a way of continuing my learning.

Why are we going to have to get community colleges to cut back on courses, as Walker suggests, merely because we have projected enrollment drops in 1980 in four-year schools? Community colleges have seen a need and have been meeting it.

Educationally, too, the Governor's philosophy doesn't make sense. Why should a community college deliberately turn itself into only a school for students who can't get in anywhere else, as Walker recommends? If the goal of education is to offer opportunity and training, why penalize eager-to-learn students by telling them they're "too qualified" to be admitted?

The average age of the Harper student is 27 — because so many adults are enrolled part-time. Harper, and other community colleges throughout the state, have done an excellent job in making it possible for thousands of us to continue our education, presumably making us more productive to the state, and certainly making us more knowledgeable and aware citizens.

Cheers for Harper! Boos for Governor Walker! And cheers also for the thousands of mature students who have the guts, determination, and enthusiasm to go back to school.

'Wake up, Arlington, and support your race track'

I was enormously disturbed by the recent decision of the village board to disallow Arlington Park Race Track to celebrate our Bicentennial by having races on the Fourth of July which occurs on Sunday.

What better way is there to celebrate our 200th birthday? Horse racing is as much a part of our heritage as the Liberty Bell! This Fourth of July celebration would mean much for our community — additional revenue and nation-wide television coverage of an event that is so fitting for 1976.

How can our village board deny us this privilege? Are they trying to shape our morals? Please a handful of people on Wilke Road? Or impress us with their power?

I have been a resident of Arlington Heights for 20 years and I care about my village; therefore, I sincerely believe the village board should reconsider the issue and allow racing on July 4. Wake up, Arlington Heights, and support your race track! Your race track supports you in numerous ways — contributions amounting to over a half million dollars were made to Northwest Community Hospital; approximately $4,000 a year in contributions to Maryville Academy; not to mention the publicity our city receives.

Let's show our spirit and back the "Stars and Stripes Handicap!"

He objects to dog on bike trail

I am writing this letter to lodge a strong complaint about dogs littering on and around the bicycle trail. On the small section where I live, I have counted 10 to 12 people who walk their dogs along the trail making no attempt to clean up after their animals have defecated. Some are leashed and some are not. I have even seen people drive up in their autos and allow their dogs to use the bike trail area as a toilet. I consider this littering at its worst and a possible health hazard.

I have lived here for 10 years and maintain that part of the trail area that abuts my property. I try to keep it clean and neat as a play area for the children in the neighborhood, but I will not clean up dog excrement. Therefore, I appeal to you for action that will stop or decrease this illegal use of the bike trail. Won't you please help?

"WHEW! Another day — another leak!"

She rips 'illogical' school budget cuts

Once again our district is in trouble. The Maine Dist. 63 School Board, in an effort to align the budget for the 1976-77 school year, has acted "illogically," a phrase used by a board member. They have lost sight of their Number One criteria and cut the heart out of quality education. One board member went so far as to say that they are in the business of administering, not educating. Your child is entitled to an education, not administration.

The board acted upon recommendations by the superintendent, and his list of cuts did not include many repeated options presented by some of the interest groups who were asked for input. The board passed upon recommended cuts that will affect every program and child in the district. There will be an added burden placed upon remaining staff and principals by the loss of classroom teachers, instructional coordinators, all but one nurse, custodians, secretaries, resource teachers, library aids and instrumental music teachers, and by administering the reduction and dissemination of physical education, vocal music, art, and speech teachers and social workers. The reduction of these services will hurt children directly and drastically! Will the children be safe in case of emergency without a qualified nurse in attendance? How can an intramural program survive with a minimum amount of time allotted each child per week?

Some school board members had intelligent suggestions for gaining additional revenue and learning to live with a deficit for next year; cutting programs only when necessary and not at all if the cut would affect the quality education that Dist. 63 is noted for. It would appear that the superintendent's recommendations have placed the dollar sign before the interest of your children's education.

The board has reversed decisions in the past and this time we feel a reversal would be a popular decision. They are elected to represent you, the parents and taxpayers, and to see that your children are afforded the best educational opportunities available. Call board members! Go to board meetings! Make your voices and opinions heard!

MOORE'S CREEK, N.C., Feb. 27 — The armed forces of loyalist Highlanders made a dawn charge trying to cross Moore's Creek in the face of American opposition. The attack was repulsed in three minutes and the Highlanders routed. Subsequent capture of the loyalist leaders and 850 men netted 1,500 rifles, 150 broadswords and dirks, two medicine chests and about $75,000 in gold.

Views swim time

It is unfortunate that our high schools do not have pools and must make arrangements with park districts for use of their pools. This is not, however, the fault of the park district and in most instances they try to cooperate as much as possible.

I feel it is a little unrealistic for a high school to ask for "prime time" hours for practice at the cost of young children's swimming instruction and park district swim team practice. Also does Prospect High share the expenses of Kopp pool as you pointed out that all other area high schools do with their park districts?

Young children cannot have classes very early in the morning or late at night. Don't most high school athletics (football, track, basketball) require extra hours of practice, not always at convenient times or places? Isn't that all part of it? I don't think it is asking too much of high school age youngsters to start realizing many things in life are not arranged for their specific convenience; in this case, a whole park district swim program would have to be sacrificed. Without it, where would your high school swim teams come from?

Mayo shifting draws CBE ire

by LEA TONKIN

The news of Francis T. Mayo's replacement effective April 1 as U.S. Environmental Protection Agency chief in Chicago has drawn criticism from the Citizens for a Better Environment.

"We're going to put more resources into monitoring the EPA. If they back off in enforcement, we'll go to court," said CBE's Research Director Barry Greever.

Mayor's strong enforcement program against the steel industry and other polluters may have prompted the appointment of former insurance executive George Alexander as regional director, Greever said.

"You always become suspicious when someone with a proven track record is replaced by someone unknown," he said. Mayo will direct an EPA research center after he leaves his current post.

THE U.S. ARMY CORPS of Engineers plan to deepen the Upper Mississippi River channel, increase the size of locks on the river and extend the navigation season will require an investment of more than $3 billion, said officials of the Des Plaines Valley chapter of the Sierra Club. The group urges citizens to contact federal legislators to prevent the massive construction program.

The first step in the construction program is replacement of Alton Lock and Dam 26 at Alton, Ill. The planned construction program would change the Mississippi River waterway to a "Mississippi canal, with all the scenic charm, recreational potential and biological interest of a storm drain," the local organization said. The Sierrans also charged that the planned increase in commercial barge traffic on the river woud cause pollution and loss of wildlife.

THE ILLINOIS Pollution Control Board has slated three hearings on hexane solubles regulations. The sessions will be held 9:30 a.m. March 8 at the Metropolitan Sanitary District office, Chicago; April 16 at the new State Office Building in Springfield; and April 26 at the MSD Chicago office.

Walker campaign chief accused of illegal flights

Victor DeGrazia, Gov. Daniel Walker's campaign manager, has flown in state airplanes 13 times in the past 10 weeks even though he is not officially on the state payroll, the Quad-City Times and the Rockford Morning Star said in their Thursday editions.

The newspapers also said it appears attempts have been made to obliterate DeGrazia's name from official documents authorizing the travel.

The flights cost the state thousands of dollars. Since billings have not been made final, however, it is still possible for the Walker for Governor campaign to pay for the flights.

Walker press aide Mark Clark said he feels DeGrazia's use of state aircraft is justified because he has continued to do official business on special assignment from the governor even though he no longer is on the payroll.

The apparent alterations were made on the "cover sheets" of the Division of Aeronautics' flight request forms. On four of those sheets, DeGrazia's name was covered by "Snowpaque," a white fluid normally used by typists to obliterate errors. DeGrazia's name, however, could be read by holding the paper to a light, the newspapers said.

Illinois briefs

Stackler raps Crosstown

Ronald Stackler, a candidate for the Democratic attorney general nomination, Thursday called the proposed Chicago Crosstown Expressway an "environmental monster" and said Attorney General William Scott ignored Illinois law in saying the highway can be built.

Stackler, in Springfield, said the proposed highway will destroy 3,500 homes, "chase 18,000 jobs out of the city and add 5 million pounds of dangerous pollutants to the air we breathe."

He also said the $2.7 billion bill for the construction will use all of Illinois' federal highway money for the next 10 years. The money could be better spent, he said, improving mass transit systems and roads in Chicago.

Blackbirds stymie state

An Illinois Dept. of Agriculture official Thursday said the state has scrapped plans to use cannon fire to scare off millions of blackbirds plaguing residents of Massac County because county officials didn't like the idea.

"We brought up the possibility of using cannons (to scare the birds away) with officials and residents of the county," Neil Gunkel, assistant to the director of the Department of Agriculture, said. "But they didn't agree with this.

"I don't know what they're going to do," Gunkel said. "That's about all the state has to do right now."

Gunkel said there are about 5 million blackbirds roosting in Massac County near Metropolis in Southern Illinois. He said the glut of birds began arriving about three weeks ago, and state and federal officials are virtually helpless to do anything until the presence of the birds is declared a health hazard.

Nude massage ban legal

A Carbondale city ordinance licensing massage parlors is constitutional, Judge Peyton Kunce ruled Thursday in Jackson County Circuit Court.

The ordinance was passed last July by the Carbondale City Council and prohibits nude massages and any sexual stimulation in the performance of massages.

It was challenged by the Deja Vu massage parlor in Carbondale.

In his decision, Kunce said he took judicial notice of an advisory referendum in Carbondale in which voters by a narrow margin said they were against nude massages and sexual stimulation in massage parlors.

But will you survive the 'cure'?

This'll do your flu some good!

Today

days, you won't even care. You'll just move from bedroom-to-couch-to-bathroom and back in total misery.

It's long been said the best cure for flu is aspirin, plenty of rest and lots of fluids, such as water and fruit juices.

You'll soon discover that all those fruit juices are causing many washroom visits. Since every step is sheer agony, I would suggest drinking no fruit juices.

But mostly, having the flu is just time spent sweating, chilling and being miserable. One of the biggest miseries doesn't even come from the flu. It's your sore back from resting on the bed and couch.

There are two ways to correct this. The first is to get dressed and go to work. But that isn't practical.

The second involves sitting on the floor with your legs spread wide apart. Now bend over until your head touches the floor, arms fully outstretched.

Here is the important part. Now wiggle your toes.

If you have wiggled your toes fiercely, you soon will have forgotten about the soreness in your back because there will be cramps in your calves and feet.

Another problem common to flu sufferers is the much-dreaded "Green Tongue."

THIS USUALLY DOES not pass until the flu is cured. However, there are a couple treatments.

The first treatment is a solid brushing of your tongue and teeth with either toothpaste or kitchen cleanser. Both work equally well.

If you want a more permanent cure, then follow this procedure.

Approach the bathroom mirror with your tongue stuck way out. This might look silly. If you think it does, then try crossing your eyes, too. That's even more ridiculous.

How that your eyes are uncrossed, take a good look at your green tongue and answer this very important question: Am I ready to pay the price?

If you answer yes, then take a very sharp scissors, stick it way back into your mouth and snip off your tongue. This will forever remedy the much dreaded "Green Tongue."

You might want to brush your teeth afterwards, but that is strictly optional.

There are many ways to know when you are beginning to feel better. The first clue is when you want to wash your hair again. If you have the energy to warm some soup, that is another clue.

BUT THE BEST WAY to know that you are recovering is when you develop a terrible sore throat. This means two things.

First, the congestion has moved out of your lungs and into your nasal passages. Second, your nasal passages are draining the stuff back toward your lungs.

So that you do not recontaminate yourself, it becomes very important to begin blowing your nose hard and often.

Eventually, your nose will become red and raw. When that happens, begin blowing your right ear. (If you are lefthanded, then blow your left ear.)

Throughout all of this, there will be the problem of keeping yourself busy. It won't be very tough the first couple days. You'll just sleep.

Long about the third day, you should begin moaning. This is a sign for everyone around that you are still alive and might be wanting something for dinner.

Even though you have awakened, it is recommended that you lie on your back, your right hand over your heart. This is because you are not yet out of danger.

If you notice that your heart has stopped beating, get up and go to your telephone. Now call the doctor.

WHEN THE NURSE answers, ask for the nurse. This will confuse her because nobody ever asks for the nurse. She will immediately get the doctor.

Advise him that your heart stopped beating a couple minutes ago. He'll probably tell you to get some rest, take a couple aspirin and call back in three days.

Make sure you say thank you. Then go and write him a $10 check in anticipation of a bill for "phone consultation."

Now that you are resting again, perhaps you suddenly feel lonely and unloved. There is a way to cure this, too.

Take some peace beads between your fingers and couple your hands across your chest. Now lie very straight and quiet. Next, you should imagine there are lots of people in the room who are talking very quietly.

This will make you feel like somebody cares.

Congressional wrapup

Dunes expansion splits Mikva, Crane

From the Roll Call Report

Here is how the Illinois delegation in the U.S. House and the state's two U.S. Senators voted on major issues recently.

House

INDIANA DUNES: The House passed, 272-118, a bill to greatly enlarge the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore. The bill authorizes the spending of $3.5 million to add more than 4,000 acres to the 8,300-acre national park.

Supporters of the bill said the move allows for the preservation of additional property that may not be available later.

Opponents contended the "hodgepodge" of parcels slated for acquisition had no national significance.

YES: Mikva, Murphy, Russo, Derwinski, Fary, Hyde, Collins, Yates, Annunzio, McClory, Erlenborn, Hall, Anderson, O'Brien, Railsback, Findley, Shipley, Price, and Simon.

NO: Crane, Michel and Madigan.

Metcalfe and Rostenkowski did not vote.

CONRAIL: The House passed, 298-95, a bill appropriating $2 billion to implement the reorganization of seven bankrupt railroads in the Northeast and Midwest.

The bill provides capital and operating funds for the system. Supporters said without approval of the funds the nation's freight rail service could completely break down. Opponents said federal regulations drove the railroads into bankruptcy and unless the government reduces the restrictions continued subsidies will be required.

YES: Murphy, Russo, Derwinski, Fary, Hyde, Collins. Annunzio, McClory, Hall, O'Brien, Railsback, Madigan, Shipley, Price and Simon.

NO: Crane, Mikva, Erlenborn, Anderson and Findley. Metcalfe, Rostenkowski and Michel did not vote.

Senate

Official Secrets: the Senate rejected, 36-44, an amendment to allow a president to continue the practice of classifying some of the material contained in his annual report to the Congress on military aid for foreign countries. The amendment was attached to a $3 billion foreign military aid appropriations bill.

Percy voted yes. Stevenson did not vote.

ANGOLA AID: The Senate defeated, 70-21, an amendment to delete the ban on the government giving covert military aid to Angola. The amendment was offered for the same appropriations bill that the secrecy amendment was attached.

Percy voted no. Stevenson did not vote.

CHILEAN AID: The Senate also approved an amendment, 48-39, to prohibit military aid to Chile.

Percy voted no. Stevenson did not vote.

Blood supply drops; center needs donors

The North Suburban Blood Center is asking for donors to replenish supplies of fresh blood depleted by illness and increased useage by area hospitals.

Donors should be between the ages of 17 and 65 and in good health. Persons will not be eligible to donate if there is flu in the household, according to center spokesmen.

Persons wishing to donte should call the North Suburban Blood Center at 498-9840, Alexian brothers Medical Center, 437-5500; Holy Family Hospital, 297-1800, ext. 1900; or Northwest Community Hospital, 259-1000, ext. 366, for more information.

Fun factory cranks out the comics

by ART HENRIKSON
(Herald cartoonist)

Did you know that Lois of "Hi and Lois" is Beetle Bailey's sister?

Did you know you might have sent or received one of the thousands of greeting cards that Mort Walker created while he was head designer for Hallmark?

If you are one of the more than 150 million Americans who regularly read the comics, you probably are curious as to how the strips are created.

Mort Walker, head proprietor of "Beetle Bailey" and "King Features East," tells all in a big, 300-page profusely illustrated volume, "Backstage at the Strips," published by Mason/Charter, $12.50.

"THE TROUBLE with creative people," writes Mort Walker, "is that they keep creating things, especially on gray days in February."

Walker is the Norman Lear of the comics field.

"THE TROUBLE WITH creative people," said Walker, "is that they keep creating things, especially on gray days in February."

The fun factory which Walker has assembled, includes Dik Browne, Jerry Dumas, Bob Gustafson, Frank Johnson, Bud Jones and himself, all talented cartoonists.

Every Monday morning each writer brings 15 to 20 gags to Mort's barn. This is "King Features East" located in easy commuting distance from Walker's Connecticut home — exactly 73 steps.

Readers of "Beetle Bailey," "Hi and Lois" and "Boner's Ark" expect to be entertained daily. Cartoonists can't wait for the muse to strike once, let alone 21 times. So this team produces the ideas. Walker pencils in "Beetle" and "Boner's Ark." Frank Johnson inks in all the dailies. Bob Gustafson does the comic books. Dik Browne pencils in "Hi and Lois."

SEX AND RELATED subjects cause the most flack for both the creators of the strips and the syndicate that releases them nationwide. The chief concern always: not to offend the reader.

For instance, Walker had a running battle with the syndicate over "Belly Buttons." Every time he put a girl in a bathing suit, he'd put in a navel. The syndicate took it out.

"I heard the editor started collecting my navels. With a razor blade he'd cut them out and put them in a small container labeled "Beetle Bailey's Belly Button Box,' " writes Walker.

"I decided to help him out and put on two belly buttons."

One day Walker hit them with everything he had. He drew Cookie receiving a shipment of navel oranges.

"THEY NEVER TOOK out a navel again!"

Products are shown from time to time in the strips. Gillette sent a new razor to Walker when he showed Lois shaving her legs. Other cartoonists will receive cartons of products after they have shown up in strips.

One famous cartoonist drew his leading character driving a Cadillac and then wrote General Motors to demand a free car for the plug.

When they refused he wrote back: "Watch strip on Aug. 17."

On that day he drew his character running into a tree in a minor accident that transformed that grand automobile into a pile of metal spaghetti.

Mort left a financially lucrative job at Hallmark to come to New York City. After making only one cartoon sale to the Washington Post, he got a job with Dell Publications. At night he drew gag cartoons for other magazines.

HE SKETCHED EIGHT cartoon strip samples based on the character Spider for his gag cartoon sales. It was on his day off, George Washington's birthday. Three weeks later "Beetle Bailey" was approved by King Features.

For two years Beetle's existence was unstable, like "Peanuts" when it first started out. Then Beetle, against syndicated advice, was inducted into the Army.

Stars and Stripes banned the strip, but in the publicity and uproar that followed, Beetle gained 100 new newspapers. Today "Beetle Bailey" appears in more than 1300.

Later Walker produced "Mrs. Fitz's Flats" which Frank Roberge drew for 15 years. It never became as popular as "Hi and Lois."

THEN CAME "SAM'S strip" which Jerry Dumas and Walker co-authored. And recently "Boner's Ark" arrived which is signed "Addison," Walker's first name which most people don't even recognize. Some 55,000 readers have sent in name suggestions for the little bear in "Boner's Ark." Walker's magic goes on.

About the only illustration you won't see in "Backstage at the Strips" is one showing Beetle's eyes. Walker has never drawn any eyes for Beetle.

'Snoopy!!!'

Next on stage after 'Charlie Brown'

by ALICE Z. CUNEO

Cartoonist Charles Schulz says the biggest kick in his 25 years of "Peanuts" was the opening of "Snoopy!!!" the latest theatrical tribute to his multi-million dollar beagle.

"Snoopy!!!" the sequel to 1967's "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," one of the biggest money-making plays in American theater history, features Peanuts characters introduced over the past five years, including a five-foot, 85-pound mute bird "Woodstock," played by Cathy Cahn.

Woodstock, who generally plays Snoopy's "straight man," is a big hit among youngsters — contrary to what Schulz recalls as the first public reaction to the bird in the strip.

He said he got letters from Peanuts fans complaining his "innocent little character" was spoiling the strip because it should just be about kids.

"Nothing has ever given me more of a thrill than finally being able to hear people laugh at lines I wrote years ago," Schulz said at a recent performance in San Francisco's Little Fox Theater.

SCHULZ SAID making Snoopy think was a major turning point in the Peanuts comic strip's history.

"I was intrigued by the way people talk to their dogs and I just imagined how the dog responds," he said.

The artist once owned a beagle named Snoopy, but Schulz said the dog got into fights with another family animal and the arguments became "so violent we had to trade him away."

Schulz now has three dogs, none of which is a beagle.

The man who handles Schulz' business, Warren Lockhart, is author and co-producer of "Snoopy!!!" He decided to open the show on the West Coast because the "East Coast economy wasn't going well and why follow a tradition that you have to open in New Haven," he said.

"We're not 'Chorus Line' but we're fun and we give 'em their money's worth."

Lockhardt, president of Charles M. Schulz Associates, said he believes there's a need in show business for entertainment that leaves people feeling they had a good evening.

"TO ME THAT'S more fun than doing 'Towering Inferno'," he said.

Lockhart said he wants to let the San Francisco public "decide whether we had a hit or not." The response from both the public and the critics has been so positive he thinks the show will run for three years in this city and will play in cities around the country for one to two years.

"After all, it's a series of vignettes and I can cut lines periodically and make it more contemporary."

"Snoopy!!!" opens this spring in Los Angeles, Washington, Philadelphia, and possibly Detroit, and in Boston this fall.

"I'm not going to go trotting into New York — we've had overtures — but we want to be certain New York wants us," said Lockhardt, who was nominated for an Emmy for co-producing the NBC-Hallmark Hall of Fame's "The Borrowers."

The songs in "Snoopy!!!" touch on the trials of life — "Sit up: Lie down: Roll over: Play dead:" the torments of students pleading "Please don't call on me today;" the warmth of home in a tribute to the "Daisy Hill" puppy farm; and includes some childlike love songs — "Poor Sweet Baby" and "Just One Person."

In all, the music is reminiscent of the score of "Charlie Brown."

SOME LINES include a few jabs at Santa Claus — "the fat man with the reindeer" whom Linus notes has had more publicity than his idol, the Great Pumpkin.

The performance ends with a silhouette of Snoopy on his cartoon-like dog house with Charlie Brown noting, "As Lucy always says, he isn't much of a dog but after all who is."

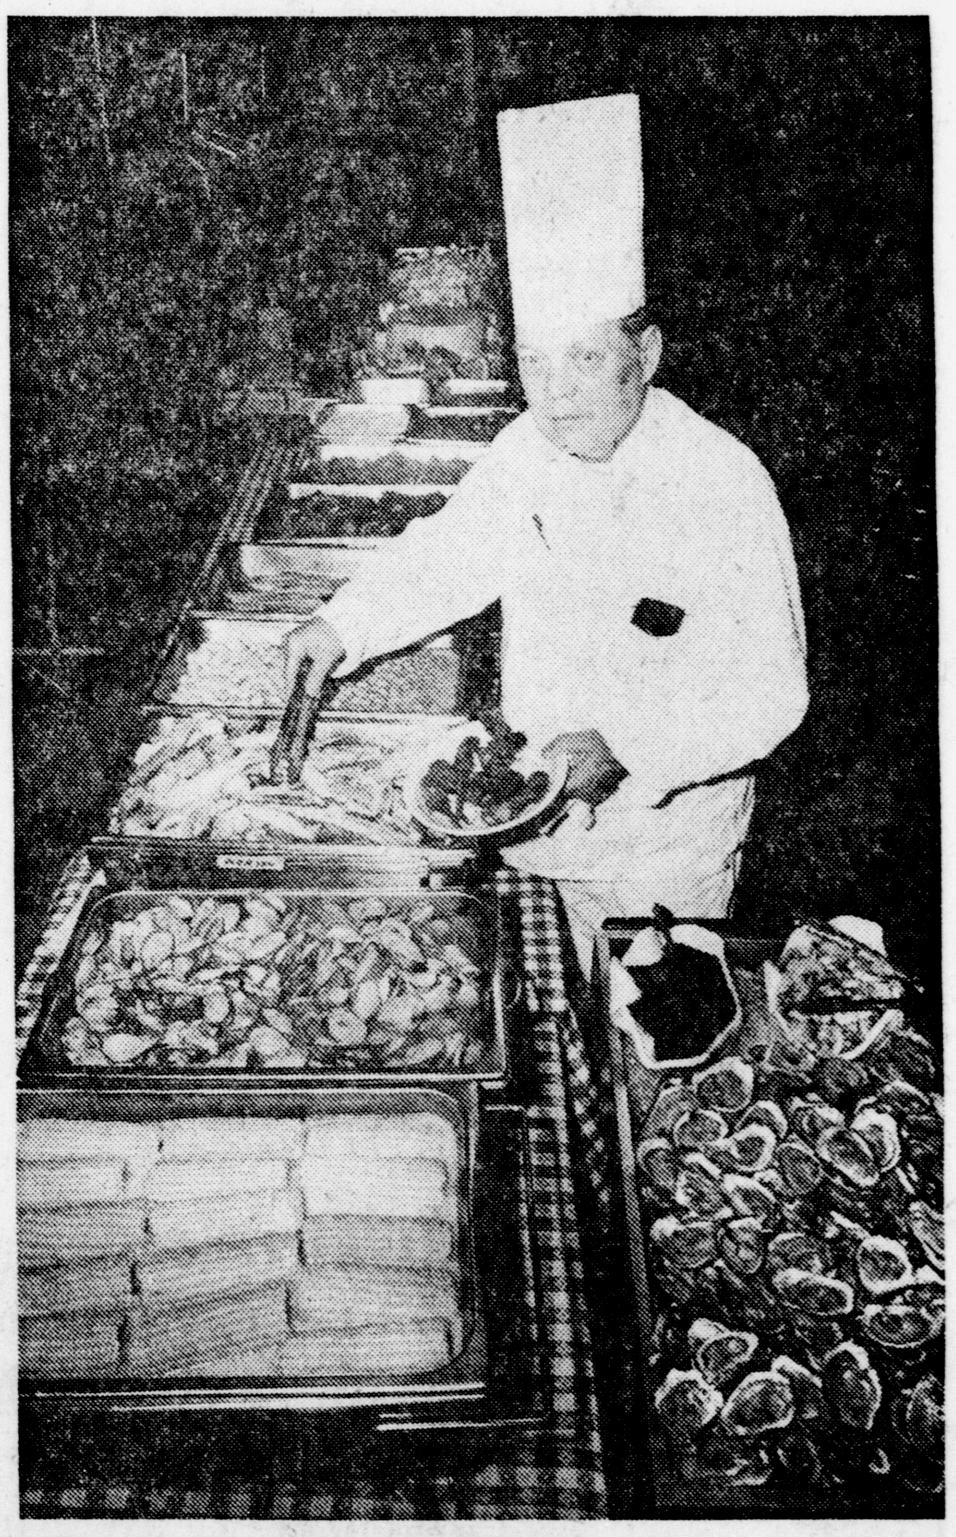
Louisiana Crawfish Boil

A seafood lover's catch

by GENIE CAMPBELL

My breathing was labored and it became increasingly difficult to sit up straight in my chair. It wasn't anything serious however, nothing a nap wouldn't cure. I had simply over-eaten.

Pier 100's annual Louisiana Crawfish Boil was a seafood connoisseur's fantasy come true. Long tables stretching the entire length of the barroom of the Mount Prospect restaurant were piled high with shrimp, steamer clams, blue points on the half shell, barbeque ribs, scallops, Alaskan king crab legs, Louisiana red drum, crawdads and assorted relishes, salads and something I haven't tasted since summer, fresh corn on the cob. Blame me for stuffing myself?



SAMPLING HIS work before the crowds rolled in, Chef Walter Johnson adds several Alaskan king crab legs to his plate of crawdads. By Friday afternoon Walt was ready to drop. He had been preparing fish for two days and a night without rest.

For dessert, if you managed to save room, there was watermelon, and the beer flowed freely in between trips back to the buffet table. All you could eat and drink for $10 per person. And there were hundreds of takers. From 6 p.m. to midnight both Friday and Saturday the food table was seldom visible for all the people crowded around filling their plates just one more time.

MANY LOYAL patrons who had received word by mail, came from Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin. Veterans of other fish boils and clam bakes hosted by the Captain (the owner's preferred title), they weren't about ready to miss this annual feast.

Yet it was a very special occasion too. Pier 100's original chef, Walter Johnson (who received his training on the wharfs of San Francisco, and is able to prepare any kind of fish imaginable), was returning to oversee the kitchen after a year's absence.

Heaping platters and contented, busy eaters added up to all the gratitude Walt needed. The guest of honor remained in the background, sometimes standing behind one side of the bar to watch the continual outpour of food. Walt preferred to remain out of the limelight. He was exhausted after having worked without rest for two days and nights.

Crawdads seldom make the menu in the Midwest, but a long time ago in the old Swedish neighborhoods of Chicago, it was considered a delicacy to serve crawdads, when available, with a schooner of beer.

Louisiana crawdads are currently in season. More than 200 pounds or approximately 3,000 of the little crayfish that resemble miniature lobsters were flown in directly to be the star attraction at Pier 100's special seafood buffet.

THOUGH THE FISH were delivered at the last minute, the actual ordering and menu planning was started six weeks in advance.

"When we plan one of these dinners, we just hope they don't have a bad storm on the Atlantic," said the Captain. "The fishermen can't even get out then."

Yet a bad snow storm in Chicago can also wreak havoc to the best laid fish dinners. The seafood might not even arrive, or if it does, people might cancel reservations.

But it would have taken more than bad weather to keep seafood lovers away this past weekend. It was too good of a bargain to let go by.

Pier 100 orders fish from seven ports of call including Africa. And though noted for their stuffed Idaho Golden Trout, other seafood entrees will vary, according to what is being caught. Some nights you might find Conger Ell, pout or skate wings on the menue.

"Definitely people are becoming more daring," said the Captain. "It's not all perch and white fish anymore."

IS YOUR MOUTH watering? Save your appetite. The response was so good for the Louisiana Crawfish Boil, the Captain is considering following it up with another seafood extravaganza next month in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Irish or not — seafood enthusiasts will be there ready to crack open the shells.

No standing in dad's shadow for Hank Jr.

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

Hank Williams Jr. has come of age in "Hank Williams Jr. & Friends" (MGM records), his best album, in my opinion.

Williams, in the album comes to grips with the dilemma of being a famous person's child in two ways. He does it directly in the lyrics of "Living Proof," where he says he does not want to be "living proof" of his father's greatness. He hopes that his own son will never take up the guitar and denies any desire to become a legend, like his father, the creator of "I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry" and dozens of other classics.

There also is the break with his father's traditional-style country music as several of the songs belong more in the progressive Southern rock school. The album is the better for this, too, as the change in style makes for a fresher, livelier performance.

TWO SONGS written by Toy Caldwell of the Marshall Tucker Band are highlights. They are "Losin' You" and "Can't You See." The album's other outstanding song is Williams' own "Clovis, New Mexico" with its clever rhymes. His friends, in addition to Caldwell, include Charlie Daniels, Pete Carr, Chuck Leavell (Allman Brothers) and Jerry Wallace.

The album will appeal to both country fans and those who like the Tucker-Allman brand of music. It is good to see an artist make such a successful change of direction.

More new albums in this country roundup:

"200 Years of Country Music" by Sonny James (Columbia), In this unique project, James attempts to cover all the major country music styles that have evolved during the past 200 years by singing 11 songs, each associated with a different performer. In each case, James has assembled as many of the original band members as possible.

ALTHOUGH JAMES changes his phrasing, he does not really try to imitate the originals, who include Roy Acuff, Bill Monroe, Gene Autry, Jimmie Rodgers, Elvis Presley, Hank Williams, Bob Wills and the Carters.

The project works, with the highlights being "Wildwood Flower," "Back In the Saddle Again," "San Antonio Rose" and "Great Speckled Bird" with Bashful Brother Oswald on dobro.

"Lovin' and Learnin'" by Tanya Tucker (MCA). Country's teenage sensation turns in a good effort, although there are weaknesses, such as the pop arrangement of Dave Loggins' "You've Got Me To Hold On To" which is unsatisfying.

Her strong efforts on ballads, like "Leave Him Alone" and "Makin' Love Don't Always Make Love Grow," more than make up for the loose sloppiness of the oldie, "Ain't That a Shame." She also does a good job with the Eagles' "After the Thrill Is Gone."

"WHEN THE TINGLE Becomes a Chill" by Loretta Lynn (MCA), This is her typical, smooth performance. Her own "Red, White and Blue" with its Indian tempo and potentially controversial lyrics (an unwed half-breed mother who wishes she were all Indian) is the best thing on the album.

Otherwise, the only thing that stands out is a sub-par "Rhinestone Cowboy" (the change in narrative viewpoint hurts) and the shortness — under 26½ minutes — of the album. When rock albums routinely give you more than 40 minutes for the same dollars, something has to be done to beef up albums such as this.

"We Be Sailin'" by B.W. Stevenson (Warner Bros.). It's all smooth sailing in this album from Stevenson, the first in some time. Particularly appealing are the jaunty opening songs, "Way Down By the Ocean" and "East India Company."

Soundings:

LORETTA LYNN'S autobiography, "Coal Miner's Daughter," co-written with New York Times correspondent George Vecsey, is scheduled to be published in late March.

Palatine's MARTIN MULL, singer-comedian, is writing a Bicentennial film, "My Country 'Tis of Thee." Also working on the film are musician Steve Martin, Harry Shearer from The Credibility Gap and Peter Elbling of The Times Square Two.

PAUL WILLIAMS will handle music supervision and direction for the long-delayed remake of "A Star Is Born" with Barbra Streisand and Kris Kristofferson. Kenny Asher, long-time Williams collaborator, will also work on the film music . . . ROBERT STIGWOOD (RSO records) and ALLAN CARR plan to turn musical "Grease" into a film.

John Raitt and others will star in Oscar Brand's stage hit, "SING AMERICA SING," on Channel 11 (PBS) the week of March 22.

Albums in the works: "Lifeline" by PABLO CRUISE," song of Joy" by CAPTAIN & TENNILLE, "Fearless" by HOYT AXTON, "Cry Tough" by NILS LOFGREN, a new America due April 1, a solo by MIKE PINDER of the Moody Blues and JUSTIN HAYWARD and JOHN LODGE'S follow-up to "Bluejays."

In the area: LITTLE FEAT Saturday at the Auditorium, Chicago.

'Look, Mom, It's Growing' from a child's eye view

"LOOK, MOM, IT'S GROWING"
BY ED FINK
A. B. Morse Company
(Countryside Books),
Barrington, Ill., $2.95

What better person to review a kid's gardening book than a child? So I asked my eighth-grader to read it, and here's the pint-sized view of "Look, Mom, It's Growing:"

> "I learned I could make plants from food — like a hanging carrot! And the book gave me some ideas for cool experiments that seem easy and fun to do. I found out some pests to look out for — like mealy bugs. Many kids will learn about things they don't know — like feeding, fertilizing and watering. Maybe, now, I'll pay more attention to my plant."

Ed Fink's book is geared to an 8 to 12-year-old level, I would guess, and he seems to know that kids don't want sophisticated dope — they want fun with their basics. So he tells about plants that move, eat insects, even plants that wear "boxing gloves."

THE AUTHOR TALKS about growing apples, oranges, grapefruit and avocados from seeds left over after eating the fruits. Now my daugher isn't throwing out the garbage anymore — she's growing it — pineapple tops, beet and parsnip tops too!

"Look, Mom, It's Growing" is complemented by simple, accurate graphics (line drawings of various plants), a glossary of terms and a project record along the lines of 4-H, all very helpful to kids. It covers desert, terrarium, bulb and water gardening, and shows how to raise an outdoor garden. There's info on potting, sprouting, making leaf cuttings — the author covers his ground quite thorougly, almost effortlessly, like Santa with a kid on one knee.

Why do all kids like to grow beans, peanuts and sunflowers? I don't know, but Ed Fink didn't forget.

Now Mchele is strolling around the school yard with three sunflower seeds down the back of her blouse because Ed Fink said in his book that supposedly if a girl does this, the first boy she meets will be the one she marries. And he also told her how to "rig" a daisy to always have the pulled petals turn out "he-loves-me," instead of "he-loves-me-not."

Now if I could only get that girl to do the dishes with the same enthusiasm with which she zipped through "Look, Mom, It's Growing!"

"THE SWISS ACCOUNT,"
BY LESLIE WALLER
Doubleday, $8.95

Intrigue and high finance go together like bacon and eggs, or so the fictional chroniclers of the business world would have us believe. This yeasty novel has as many predictable elements as a corporate annual report — including a lovely young woman about to inherit control of a Swiss financial and industrial dynasty (don't ugly young women ever inherit big legacies?), an old lover from the Harvard Graduate School of Business, etc.

Thdy all mesh quite neatly and enjoyably. The author, an old hand at books about business machinations, handles the characters and plot with great skill and smoothness.

V T presents kids' show

Village Theatre of Arlington Heights recently announced its case for "The Invisible Dragon," a children's show being directed by Kay Hawley of Arlington Heights.

The one-act will be presented March 13, 14, 20 and 21 in the Green Barrel Room beneath Olympic Pool in Arlington Heights.

Appearing in the fairy tale are Bill Allenfort, the king; Leni Collet, the queen; Bob Hawley, the story teller, and Lynda Sears, the princess. All reside in Arlington Heights. The prince is being played by Jay Howe of Lake Zurich, and the stage manager who appears on stage with the characters, is Karen Knudsen of Palatine.

Appearing in the play as townspeople are Marge Caperton of Buffalo Grove; Chris and Larry Peterson and Kathy Connelly, all of Des Plaines; Jean Errant of Palatine, and Peter Benitz of Rosemont. The production manager is Hank DeGroh of Arlington Heights and Kay Peet, also of Arlington Heights, is stage manager. Peter Benitz designed the set.

Two matinees, 1:30 and 3:30, will be staged on each production day. Reservations, 259-3200.

Neurotic 'Taxi Driver'

Movie never answers why

by DAVID DUGAS

(A review)

Many admirers of Robert Altman's sprawling movie "Nashville" nevertheless felt unsatisfied by its climactic assassination scene. Nothing was known of the gunman except that he was a young drifter with an overbearing mother — and probably hit the wrong target.

Martin Scorsese's "Taxi Driver" focuses on such an assassin, and he is brilliantly portrayed by Robert De Niro.

But one learns little more about his motivation in two hours than one does about Altman's killer in a few minutes.

As Travis Bickle, De Niro takes a job as a New York taxi driver to while away his sleepless nights. He tries for a romantic relationship with a pretty blonde (Cybill Shepherd) who runs a storefront headquarters for a presidential candidate (Leonard Harris) but is soon rejected.

HE BUYS HALF a dozen guns of assorted sizes, practices marksmanship and goes after the candidate. Missing his chance, he then trains his guns on the pimps exploiting a juvenile hooker (Jody Foster) he wants to rescue. Somehow this earns him a citation for heroism, not to mention a letter of gratitude from the girl's parents. He returns to society as the same engaging psychopath he was to start with.

Director Scorsese, who had his first popular success with "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" last year, is back in the grim territory of his earlier "Mean Streets" this time, and New York has never looked more ominous. Anyone can make pimps, prostitutes and debris-strewn streets look worrisome. Scorsese manages to make even the entrance to the St. Regis hotel look threatening.

Two recent films feature characters variously out of sync with society. Al Pacino plays one in "Dog Day Afternoon." Jack Nicholson is another in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest." Both somehow let the audience in, however slightly, on their special madness.

De Niro no doubt could have done the same if Scorsese had meant to illuminate the character instead of just scaring us with it.

There are a number of fine performances including those by Shepherd, Foster, Harvey Kietel as a pimp and Peter Boyle as a fellow cab driver.

THE SCORE by Bernard Herrmann, who died last Christmas immediately after completing it, features a wonderfully moody saxophone but sometimes turns to orchestral droning that only emphasizes the pretentiousness of this overwrought drama.

"Taxi Driver" is a Columbia picture, rated R for its four-letter dialogue and a particularly graphic shootout near the end.

DPTG to stage 'Sebastians'

"The Great Sebastians," a comedy opening March 12 for three weekends at Guild Playhouse in Des Plaines, derives its title from its leading characters, a pair of vaudeville mind-readers who call themselves The Great Sebastians.

Dealing with their adventures in an Iron Curtain country, the melodrama is laced with a number of demonstrations of their hocus-pocus. Even their final escape from Communist captors is achieved by a special trick.

Don Schroeder of Arlington Heights and Betty Kandlbinder of Palatine play Rudi and Essie Sebastian.

"THEIR HOODWINKING is so complicated," said Hank Vandenboom of Wheeling, who is directing the show, "that sometimes there are several pages of stage directions in the script accompanied only by four lines of dialogue. The whole scene may be acted out on stage in only about 15 action-packed seconds."

Also in the cast are Cathy Pasowicz, John Klein and Lucy Brodzik, all of Chicago; John Schile of Roemont; Joel Cohen and Randy Suits, both of Niles; and Ed Sauer, Jackie Shadinger, Marshall Kievit and Larry Peterson, all of Des Plaines.

Betty Kandlbinder

Also, Sue Louiseau and Toni Higgins, both of Arlington Heights; Dan Santerior of Hoffman Estates; Tim Burke and Jim Groat, both of Elk Grove Village; Jim Beddia of Buffalo Grove; and Mel Sinderman of Franklin Park.

Performers who are also working backstage are Cathy Pasowicz, Jackie Shadinger, Larry Peterson and Marshall Kievit. The producer is Julie Tobias of Des Plaines and Beth Vandenboom of Wheeling is assistant to the director. Other members of the production crew include Bill Shadinger and Arlene Zoellick, both of Des Plaines; Maxine Coehen of Niles; and Erv Busse of Melrose Park.

PERFORMANCES are Friday and Saturday, 8:30 p.m. March 12, 13, 19, 20, 26 and 27. Two Sunday matinees will be performed at 2:30 p.m. March 21 and 28.

"The show written by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse for Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne is good family entertainment. That's why the Sunday matinees were added to the run of the production," said Jim Beddia, DPTG president. For ticket reservations, readers should call 296-1211 between noon and 8 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Russians search for pop fortune

by ROBERT MUSEL

"Our big regret," said the elegant Soviet music executive, "is that our pop music isn't yet recognized abroad."

And with that he introduced a group called Pesniary of such astonishing musicianship they made a folky song titled "The Little Partridge" sound like a candidate for the American charts.

There were eight of them on conventional pop instruments including electronic guitar and organ — except for the two vocalists who played the Byelorussian lyre, a curious instrument which looks as if it were assembled from spare parts of a cello, barrel organ and accordion.

"All this outfit needs," said an American in the enthusiastic audience, in Cannes, France, "is some western-type material and a western record producer and they could make it."

THAT WAS GOOD news for Alexander Lebedev of VAAP, the Soviet copyright agency, which has a newly formed outfit to collect and distribute royalties from performances of music in Russia.

The Russians got a lot of attention at MIDEM, the pop music fair and festival of the world, held annually in Cannes, but only because the $2 billion-a-year music industry feels it is at the end of another cycle of rock rhythms and a fortune awaits the publisher who first identifies and exploits the next trend.

The verdict was that Russian music is not what everyone is looking for.

And after a week of offering their ear drums on the shrine of success the general opinion of the 5,100 participants from 42 countries was that pop is displaying the lack of direction that marked the days immediately before the birth of the Beatles a decade ago.

"It's the same pattern," said Publisher Dick James, who found the Beatles and then Elton John for the most lucrative parlay in pop history.

"NOSTALGIA IS hitting the charts, the music of the Glenn Miller era and the 1950s," he said. "But somethihg new must be in the air just as it was when the Beatles walked into my office. The problem is to sort it out of the diversity of music now available."

Sam Trust, president of ATV music of Los Angeles, said there was no question that the melody was becoming more important than the lyric in current songs.

"They are tired of messages," he said, a statement confirmed that very night when the audience at a festival gala sat on its hands while Joan Baez sang something about freeing political prisoners.

It's more than just a restaurant

Bill o' fare

Featuring:
The Barn

One hundred years ago it housed cows. Today it resembles a medieval castle. And though the Barn of Barrington is a restaurant, patrons will miss out on half the experience if they concentrate only on the food. Some of the furnishings, collected from throughout the world, are unusual art treasures.

The rail of the spiraling staircase in the grand hallway was imported from Italy, originally for one of Chicago's Lake Shore Drive mansions. Hung behind the stairwell is a huge, antique French scale once used to weigh meat on the Rue Bonaparte in Paris.

THE WOODEN entryway into the Great Hall, the main dining room, was rescued from the Harley Davidson mansion. And no barn I've ever visited contained 18th century wall tapestries and authentic Art Nouveau stained glass.

Still, it's a barn. You can tell. The original 120-year-old beams still support the 40-foot high ceiling of the Great Hall, formerly the hay loft.

And downstairs in the Carvery Restaurant (which features a greater amount of French cuisine in contrast to continental upstairs), one can distinguish the old cow stalls worked into intimate seating arrangements.

THE BARN is operated by August Ditzinger, former executive chef at Chicago's Berghoff Restaurant, and architect Fred Schurecht. It's a very workable partnership. Ditzinger oversees the kitchen and the Schurechts (his wife Grace is an interior decorator), have collected most of the furnishings.

After a stroll through the separate dining rooms and many small alcoves, we settled down to dinner in the Great Hall.

Catching my eye immediately on the menu was clear, turtle soup au Cognac, $2, a delicious, hearty consomme served in a dainty white cup and saucer.

My two dining partners were equally pleased with the soup du jour, lentil.

THE PETITE ROLLS on the table are well worth trying. They may look like Swedish rye, but they are actually made from ground nuts.

The observant should also notice the design of the house salad before taking a fork to it. The bib lettuce is arranged in the shape of a tree crown while hearts of palm form the trunk. Extra garnish includes artichoke hearts and peeled tomato slices.

For my main couse I selected Dover Sole Meuniere, $12, light, flaky white fish served with Parisien potatoes and fresh green beans seasoned with a variety of herbs. They were excellent as was the fish, though I felt the entree to be over-priced in comparison to other fine restaurants.

BETTER OPTIONS are Crabmeat Florentine, $8.50 served on leaf spinach (frozen I think but still tasty), consisting of a generous portion of crabmeat smothered in hollandaise sauce and tender tournedo Florentine, $8, also served on leaf spinach and topped with sauteed mushrooms.

Other recommended entrees are the Poulet Saute au Curry, $6.50, boneless chicken in a mild curry sauce that I'm told will even appeal to those who normally find curry too overpowering, and Turbot Veronique, $9.50, a white fish prepared in a white wine sauce and served with grapes.

For after dinner, the barn specializes in coffee liqueurs and flaming desserts.

Eating at the Barn is a luxury. It's wise to take enough time to do it up right. At least visit the Music Room, a lounge by week day and discotheque on Friday and Saturday.

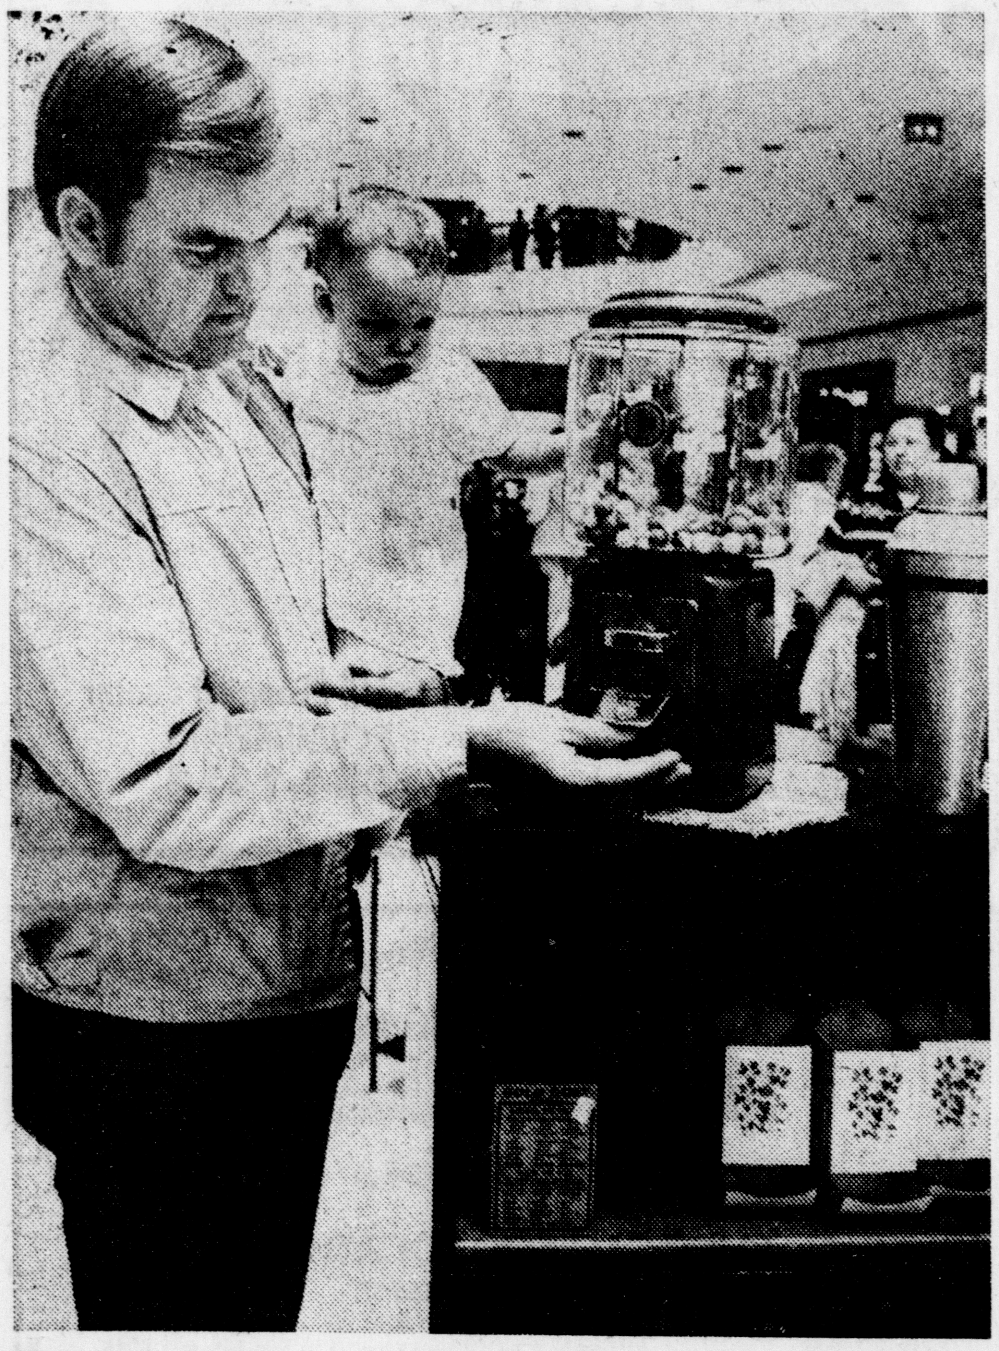
THE DANCE FLOOR is made out of blackboard slate rescued from turn-of-the-century schools and the carved wooden designs over the main bar once adorned old circus wagons. The large copper and glass lighting fixtures are street lamps from Copenhagen, Denmark.

New at the Barn is the street of shops featuring a gift boutique, women's clothing store and a gourmet shop where the Barn's nut rolls may be purchased for 10 cents a piece.

If dinner is beyond your budget, try the brunch on Sunday. The all-you-can-eat buffet features a variety of breakfast and dinner items such as eggs Benedict and pastry shells filled with veal ragout. But save room for the desserts: crepe suzettes, three kinds of cheese cake, Black Forest torte and apple strudel. The price is $6.50, half that much for children under 10. Reservations, even for the brunch, are encouraged.

—Genie Campbell

TWO FINAL performances of "Hogan's Goat" are being presented tonight and Saturday by Friends of Schaumburg Library at the library, 32 Library Ln. Featured in the production are Ken Le Traunik, Peggy Deichstetter (seated) and Sandy Rode.



THOMAS BISHOP and little daughter Rachel, Schaumburg, admire a penny gumball machine, just one of the antiques available at the Woodfield Antique Show running through Sunday. From leaded glass windows to brass beds and caned chairs, from quaint dolls to old vending machines, the antique show will offer a glimpse of the past. Hours of the show are from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. March 4 and 5; 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. March 6; and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. March 7.

Booths still open for craft/book sale

A limited number of booths remain for the first arts and crafts show used book sale sponsored by Buffalo Grove High School Choral Guild Saturday and Sunday, April 3 and 4. The show will be held in the high school gym at 1100 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

Rental space 8 by 8 feet is $14 for two days. Information or reservations, 537-5562, before 3 p.m., or 537-5509, after 3 p.m. Space is being assigned on a first come, first serve basis.

Good try but 'Nanette' hardly worth staging

by LOIS HENDERLONG
(A review)

It takes more than a will to please and hard work to mount a full scale musical.

The Players of Schaumburg's production of "No, No, Nanette" is proof of that.

To be sure, the cast tries hard. But this musical requires attractive voices, proficient dancers, and bit of razzle-dazzle choreography and at least a minimum of acting ability to hold the thin plot together. And none of those elements were evident in any great supply Saturday night.

The skimply plot is about a sweet young thing, Nanette, who runs away to Atlantic City in search of Adventure, and her Uncle Jimmy's suspicious-looking but oh-so-innocent involvement with three cuddlesome cuties.

BASICALLY, all the goings-on are simply an excuse for some snappy dancing and several all-time favorite tunes. Without strong talent to put it all over, the flimsy piece of theater is hardly worth staging.

Most of the fun in a musical like "Nanette" is its spontaniety and infectious festivity. What's happening on stage should look so easy and merry that the audience would desire to cut loose a little, too. But these dancers — less than half a dozen of them — don't inspire us to kick up our heels; they remind us how uncomfortable and frustrated we'd look if we actually tried a few steps.

The simple movements, choreographed by Cindy Youman, looked like hard work, and it's hard to say who breathed a deeper sigh of relief when all the hoopla was over, the performers or the audience. We're robbed of our fun if we have to worry about whether the not-so-nimble dancers are going to knock over the knick-knack table.

EVEN WITH A corp of experts, the company would have a hard time making the splashy scenes effective, given the peculiar stage layout. Housed in an office complex, the Players are saddled with a long, narrow room with no backstage area — in fact, with no stage either. For this play, they provided a simple platform along one wall, with two rows of chairs set up along the opposite wall and the sides. Only a few feet separated the audience from the actors and though at times the tight quarters make me feel a trampling was imminent, the setup seemed the most logical of the not-very-viable alternatives.

With a few exceptions, the singing and acting are equally disappointing. Ken Freehill, as the beleaguered lawyer who must extricate Uncle Jimmy from his predicament, offers a strong delivery, as well as one of the evening's few creditable dramatic performances.

OPPOSITE HIM, Karen Holbrook gives a gutsy portrayal of the diamond-loving society lady who possesses both stamina and drive beneath her creampuff exterior; her throaty torch song has real impact.

But it's downhill from there. The rest of the singers are endowed with the most modest of vocal resources "Tea for Two" is tepid, and "I Want to Be Happy" didn't make me happy, too. About the only good thing to be said is that everybody could carry a tune, if not belt out a song with some whammy.

Even figuring out what tune was being sung was a chore. The program gives no song listings, so anybody not familiar with the songs won't be any wiser after seeing it either. And though the program said there would be two intermissions, there was no break between Acts II and III. The quibbles may seem minor, but programs are supposed to be designed to help, not confuse, the playgoer.

The Players of Schaumburg are again presenting "No, No, Nanette" tonight and Saturday. See Billboard listing.

Back for more fun at Second City

by Genie Campbell

SECOND CITY is right. Most of the audience is being held over for its 52nd consecutive review which officially opened this week. One would expect it. Satisfied customers always keep coming back.

And though this current rundown of blackouts and short skits doesn't have the sharpness, wit or spontaneity of past material, the revue still registers high on the scale of entertainment.

With elections rapidly approaching, it is natural to pick on politicians, both state and federal, though Second City's elbowing is a bit more tame than usual.

One of the better skits focuses on DON DE POLLO and JIM SHERMAN as presidential contenders George Wallace and Ronald Reagan, who happen to be talk show guests on "Minah's Place." Reagan "never has liked Washington," he admits, and Wallace, if elected, "doesn't think he'll ever go there." Least, that's Second City's version.

Patty Hearst trips across stage blindfolded to a jingle — "Hello Bailey, good-bye SLA," and Squeaky Fromme appears in her "Helter Skelter" world to do a commercial — "Does your deodorant let you down in a crowd?"

Religion always gets hit but to keep pace with the times, Second City offers — "Come in Jesus good buddy, we've got us a convoy."

Also in the cast are ERIC BOARDMAN, MARIAM FLYNN, STEVEN KAMPMANN and GEORGE WENDT. But I'm afraid the two ladies steal most of the show this time.

With all the Bicentennial hoopla going on, it's nice to be reminded of certain days gone by that, indeed, are best laid to rest forever. And if you can laugh at them besides, that's even better.

Barbara Eden

A relatively new playwright from Texas, PRESTON JONES, returns to the early '60s (gee, that's only yesterday) to spotlight a dying breed of brotherhood that is meant to closely resemble a mild offshoot of the Ku Klux Klan. But the years have taken their toll on the "Knights of the White Magnolia" who now number only a handful but still meet to salute one another and pass a flask.

It might be pathetic if it wasn't so very funny with a lineup of redneck characters that makes for great male ensemble acting at Goodman Theatre. Though all extremely talented, three members of the cast stand out: EARL SYDNOR as Ramsey Eyes, the black custodian; GORDON OAS-HEIM, the only one to try to uphold tradition and peace of the brotherhood; and JOHN WARDWELL as retired Col. J. C. Kincaid, who continually lapses into past wars.

"The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia" is not a great piece of theater. But it is extremely well directed by HAROLD STONE, and in times of few commendable theatrical offerings, it constitutes a worthwhile way to spend an evening.

THE CAMELOT SINGERS, currently appearing at the TOP OF THE TOWERS of the ARLINGTON PARK HILTON for an indefinite stay, opened a new show this week featuring country and western music.

And just in case your children haven't had an opportunity to see it yet, "THE MAGIC OF YOUNG HOUDINI" has been extended at MILL RUN CHILDREN'S THEATRE. The musical magic show continues for three more Saturdays through March 13.

"ECHOES IN BLUE" choreographed by Milton Myers to Duke Ellington's music will be one of the pieces performed by the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theatre, which opens at the Auditorium Theatre for a six-day stay March 2. It is one of the four new productions that will be presented by the multi-racial troupe during this visit.

Alvin Ailey dancers open a six-day Chicago visit

Three new pieces, all set to Duke Ellington's music, will highlight the Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theatre's six-day Chicago visit, which begins Tuesday at the Auditorium Theatre.

The company of 26 multi-racial dancers will bring to Chicago audiences for the fist time Ailey's "Night Creatures," Milton Myers' "Echoes In Blue" and "Liberian Suite'' choreographed by James Truitte and Lester Horton.

The Ailey troupe will also present a new production of "After Eden" choreographed by John Butler and most recently presented in Chicago by Lawrence Rhodes with the Pennsylvania Ballet.

A revival of Ailey's "Reflections in D" to Duke Ellington's music is also on the program. Other ballets to be presented include "Revelations," "Streams," "A Song for You," "The Lark Ascending," "Love Songs,". "Carmina Brana," "Hidden Rites" and "The Road of the Phoebe Snow."

Now 18 years old, the Ailey dancers have grown from a black dance troupe to a multi-racial company that combines jazz, modern and more classical dancing to reflect an American heritage.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday with a 2 p.m. matinee Sunday.

Local actor takes lead in comedy

In Country Players production of "Unhealthy To Be Unpleasant" opening next weekend, Richard Flynn of Hoffman Estates is cast in the major role of J. Francis Amber, an aging actor suspected of abusing his senile mother, played by Frances Bottom of Barrington.

Frank Randall of Lake Zurich will play the part of William Uggims, the man behind the title organization which is dedicated to the elimination of unpleasant people. Norma Randall of Lake Zurich will play the role of Connie Tufford, the maid with the sharp tongue.

Appearing in supporting roles are Sharon McNamara, Laurie Peterson and Eric Berger, all of Barrington; Laura Flynn of Fox River Grove; and Ruth Pranno of Arlington Heights.

Performances are 8 p.m. March 5, 6, 12, 13, 19 and 20 at the Shady Hill Community House in Barrington. Tickets, $4, will be available at the door. Information, 526-5385.

Scholarship for opera singers

The Stratford Shakespearean Festival has inaugurated a new scholarship, the Maureen Forrester Guthrie Award, to provide grants for young opera singers in need of financial assistance for voice lessons. The Guthrie Fund has donated some $4,000, and other private donations are being solicited. (UPI)

Ask Andy

Dolphin, porpoise faces different

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A PORPOISE AND A DOLPHIN?

Marine shows are enjoyed by just about everybody. And a favorite performer featured is the dolphin. Often mistakenly called the porpoise, the dolphin seems to be a born star. He can make tremendous leaps out of the water; and since he is such an intelligent fellow, he can be trained to perform numerous underwater feats and also aerial acrobatics.

For years people have called toads frogs, bison buffalo and dolphins porpoises — and vice versa. Sometimes it is difficult to know which is which. There are, however, differences between these look alikes, and in many cases just knowing what to look for will help.

Actually, dolphins and porpoises don't look all that much alike. One way to tell them apart is as plain as the nose on your face. Dolphins generally have a rather large beak that is three to six inches long. The purpoise's snout, on the other hand, is rather blunt.

Although often called porpoises, the animals that delight us with their antics at aquarium shows are really bottle-nosed dolphins. As he leaps high out of the water to daintily pluck a tasty morsel from his trainer's hand, you would never believe he weighs as much as 800 pounds. And while most dolphins are smaller, the bottle-nosed dolphin grows as long as 12 feet.

If you were a deep-sea dentist examining the dental equipment of the dolphin and the porpoise, you could spot another difference between the two. The dolphin has pointed teeth, while the porpoise has spade-shape teeth.

Andy's favorite way to distinguish between the two animals is by their expressions. The bottle-nosed dolphin is the fellow with the pleasant smile on his face. He always looks as though he were going to say something nice to you. The porpoise, sad to say, wears a rather somber expression.

Dolphins are naturally playful and enjoy games with turtles, fish and even people. For years, stories have been told about dolphins helping swimmers in trouble. Whether the dolphins were really playing lifeguard is a question, however. Dolphins naturally like to push things they find in the water, and it's likely they were merely playing a game.

Dolphins and porpoises are related to the great whales that swim the oceans. They are all air-breathing mammals whose ancestors gave up their place on the land for a watery existence in the world's seas.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Steve Torres, 11, of Enid, Okla, for his question:

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A COPYRIGHT AND A PATENT?

Let's say you have just written a beautiful song about our country's Bicentennial. You're proud of your efforts and, in order to keep someone else from stealing your tune, you seek a copyright. The copyright laws in the United States protect a composer's works from being copied. These laws also protect written works, as well as dramatic and artistic materials. For example, many photographers copyright pictures they have taken. The copyright office, located in the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., grants a copyright for 28 years and allows the owner to extend it for another 28 years if desired.

Perhaps you have invented a new musical instrument in addition to writing your song. Now you need a patent. A patent will enable you to control the sale and manufacture of your invention. Creative people who invent or discover some new and useful machine, product, substance or method are entitled to a patent. When granted, the owner has the exclusive right to make, use and sell his invention for 17 years.

Do you have a question to ASK ANDY? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to ASK ANDY in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 680, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

ABC capitalizing on youth appeal

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's a well-known sign of advancing middle age when policemen, ball players and soldiers stop looking like men and begin to resemble boys.

But on television these days, you don't have to be graying to feel everyone is getting younger — they really are.

The networks consider the 18-49 age bracket the most desirable audience, and nowadays they seem to be aiming for the younger end of the group, primarily by lowering the age of its actors.

ABC has been particularly successful in going the youth route, with the likes of "Happy Days," "Laverne and Shirley" and "Welcome Back, Kotter."

NETWORKS DON'T drop winning formulas, and one result is a television movie, "Young Pioneers," to be aired on ABC Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. "Young Pioneers" is one of some 45 pilots ABC is looking over for possible series presentation next fall, and it's a natural for the "family hour."

It stars Linda Purl and Roger Kern as newlyweds, 16 and 18 years old, who lie about their age and homestead in the Dakota Territory in the 1870s. In the first episode they survive a blizzard, she has a baby in a sod hut, their crops are eaten by a ravening swarm of grasshoppers, and a few other troubles also visit the couple.

What problems are left over for the series is hard to imagine, unless it's hostile Indians, claim jumpers and Butch Cassidy and his Wild Bunch riding out the Dakota Badlands.

Ed Friendly served as executive producer for the show, which is well done once the audience recovers from the shock of watching the West being tamed by a couple who don't look old enough to get into a PG-rated movie on their own.

Shuffle gone off to Buffalo

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Today's hand is the opposite of a freak. It is produced any time you deal out a new pack without giving it one shuffle. You can cut as often as you like, but this comes after no shuffle at all.

Before the American Contract Bridge League used computers to produce the duplicated hands used in major championships the late George Goff used to deal them all out personally. George was a man of great honesty, but he got old and the last year that he made them up he produced one unshuffled hand for the open pairs.

It was caught early and thrown out, but before this happened, one pair had achieved some real notoriety. North made one of those shaded third-hand bids, South responded with an unsound two notrump and North compounded the felony by going to game.

West opened the five of hearts. Dummy played low and the defense started with four heart tricks. Then West led the three of clubs. East won and led back a low club. South played low and the defense added four club tricks. They still had to get another so South was down five.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Reader concerned over glucose test

I had a complete physical about three months ago when I retired. Everything was fine except the doctor told me that I had an indication of a surgar problem and gave me a five-hour glucose tolerance test. The third-hour sugar reading was 174 and he said it should be 124 or less.

I weigh 180, am 5-feet-9 and 63 years old. The doctor told me only to watch my sweets and maintain a 1500 calorie diet and have my blood checked in a year.

How serious is 174 for the third hour? Since I have now moved to Texas, should I wait a year, or find another doctor now? Also, I asked the doctor if I should check my urine and he said it wouldn't show in urine tests.

It is true that a reading of 174 three hours after ingesting glucose (sugar) is high. The interpretation of the results, though, must be dependent upon all the facts in the case. Were you properly prepared for the test by eating adequate amounts of carbohydrates and sweets for three days before testing? If a person avoids carbohydrates and tris to lose weight because he is going to have a checkup, he may have an abnomal test result that resembles diabetes which is a response to the diet he has been on.

Blood sugar (glucose) values vary a lot depending on the method used for the chemical analysis of the test. Certainly 174 is not in the danger range but it is far from normal.

You might have sugar in your urine because I presume your blood level may be even higher in the first hour after taking the glucose. If the level is round 170 or higher, sugar can spill into the urine. Even normal people who eat a lot of sweets may sometimes have a peak blood sugar level and some sugar in the urine. The test wouldn't tell you anything new though as you already know you have blood sugar level in the range of 174.

I think you should make a real effort to eliminate any obesity that you have your height and weight suggust that you could lose 20 to 25 pounds. Many people with abnormal sugar test results have normal responses after losing excess obesity.

FOR MORE information on the diagnosis of diabetes and the glucose tolerance test send 50 cents for The Health Letter, Number 3-11, Diabetes: Diagnosis, Prevention and Management. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Your high blood sugar level does increase your likelihood of having heart or vascular disease. If you smoke, stop. Eliminating excess fat will decrease your blood pressure, even if it is normal and that will help too. Any elevation of cholesterol or blood fats you might have will usually be benefited by elimination of obesity.

While you could follow a program of your own for a year, I believe everone should have a doctor they can call on if they need him. That means you should find a doctor as soon as you go to a new community and give him a chance to become familiar with you and your medical status. You'll know what to do then if you have an emergency or need a doctor suddenly. When you are already in trouble, it is a poor time to start looking for one.

Rice throwing custom a waste, hazard too

Dear Dorothy: I'd like to know of a method for tinting uncooked rice to throw at a wedding. — Karen Crossen

First, I don't know of any way to tint uncooked rice. Second, let me get a prejudice off my chest. Throwing rice is a custom being abandoned, and rightly in my view. Too many accidents have happened on the slippery stuff. The list is full of slips resulting in broken legs, wrists and worse (one woman broke a hip that never healed properly). More, it strikes me as out of place these days to throw away good food.

Dear Dorothy: My father is on a strict low-sodium diet and he loves vegetables. Without salt, however, they're not too palatable. Can you suggest a seasoning that will help? — Mrs. J. D. Goller.

There are probably many ways to make vegetables more exciting without salt. Maybe others under the same restrictions will be willing to share. One reader reported that cooking green bell peppers, either fresh or freeze-dried, with vegetables gave them a delightful flavor, even without any salt. And lemon juice has long been used by those avoiding salt to flavor vegetables.

Dear Dorothy: Is there any way I can get a scratch off my glass coffee table top? — Mary Smith

If the scratch isn't too deep, jewelers' rouge might do it.

Tip to new homemakers: Although industry has come along with perfect throwaway cloths (that can be laundered), save old towels or castoff underwear for tough cleaning jobs. The roughness of the material does half the work.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Women observe prayer day

World Day of Prayer will be celebrated Friday, March 5 by Church Women United, who will join in a chain of prayer with millions of people in 169 countries. The world-wide service is sponsored by the International Committee for World Day of Prayer which has appointed Church Women United as the official sponsor in the United States.

Locally, Church Women United in Northwest Cook County invite everyone to join this worldwide fellowship at 1 p.m. in Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rohlwing, Palatine, at the Magnus Farm Nursing Home, 801 E. Central Rd., Arlington Heights; or at 2 p.m. in the Plum Grove Nursing Home, 24 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

The service, prepared by women in Latin America, reflects their concern for "Education for All of Life." Concrete situations, common to the lives of some Latin American women form an integral part of the worship.

This is the 90th year of the World Day of Prayer in which Protestant, Catholic and Orthodox women of many races take part. Offerings in the United States go toward the Intercontinental Mission Committee of Church Women United Christian ministry in national parks, scholarships and leadership training. Donations will also go to programs in other countries.

Investments to anxiety new Greenerfields study

Courses from anxiety to investments are being offered during March at Greenerfields Unlimited continuing education center, 318 Happ Rd., Northfield.

In an informal apartment setting Greenerfields offers men and women a one-day "Investment Seminar" devoted to answering questions and problems. The seminar, scheduled March 6, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., will consider stocks, bonds, gold, the short term money market, tax shelters and tax exemptions. The course will be led by Gene Mackevich of E. F. Hutton and Co.

Mackevich is also scheduled to teach an "Investments Course For Women" Thursday mornings for four weeks, beginning March 4. This course will stress approaches to profitable investing and investments which legally avoid, shelter, or defer federal income taxes.

"ANXIETY AND THE Courage To Be" will not concern itself with money, but with free floating unfocused fear. A one-day workshop from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on March 12, the day will be spent distinguishing between normal and neorotic anxiety, exploring positive and destructive attitudes that people use in trying to cope with guilt, depression and despair. Emphasis will be placed on hope and the courage "to be." Course leaders are Ben Richardson, Trenton Pitcher and Gina Rosenstein. Richardson is a philosopher, poet, historian and television personality, Pitcher is a clergyman with a background in drama and psychology and Mrs. Rosenstein is a therapist in private practice. The workshop will be held at Colby's, Northbrook.

Fees range from $20 to $30. Registration information is available by calling Greenerfields 446-0525.

Next on the agenda

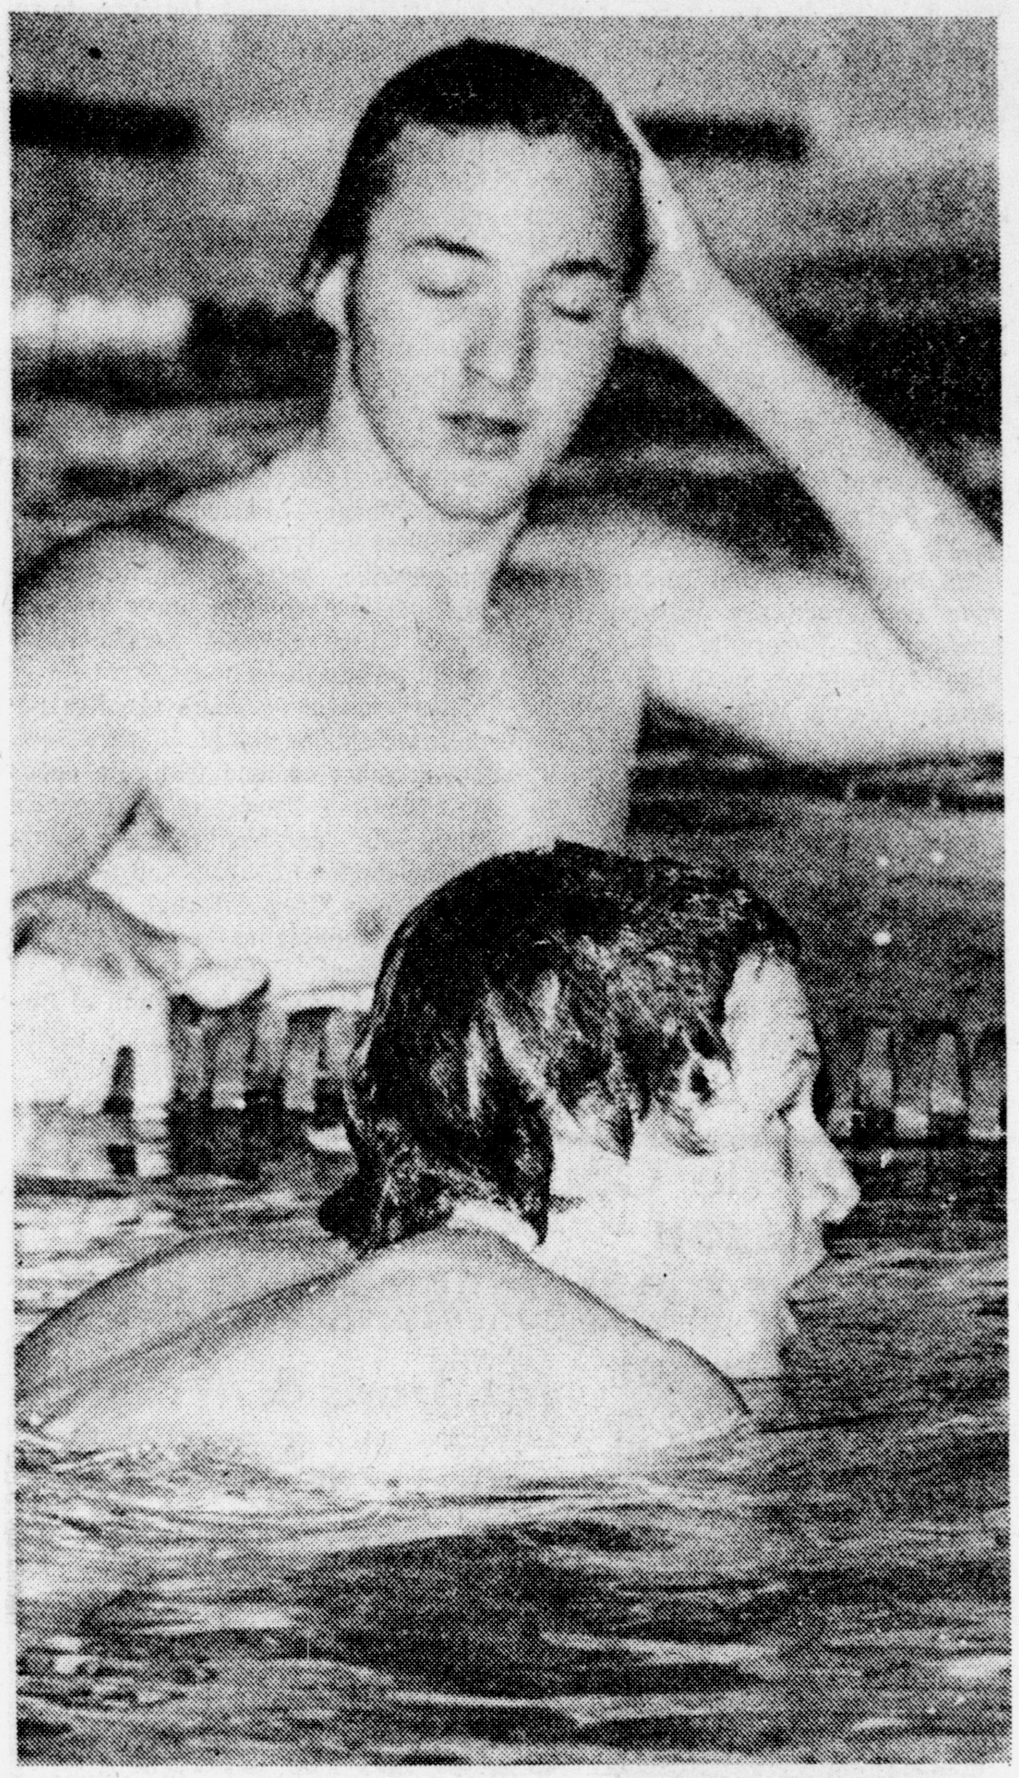
State finals begin; swim stars assemble in Darien



WHERE AM I? Chris Tague of Hersey (foreground) checks the scoreboard after winning the 200-yard freestyle in the Arlington District meet while No. 2 finisher Jon Newcomer, of St. Viator, recovers. Both will compete in the event in the state meet, which starts today at Hinsdale South.

by BOB GALLAS
Swimming Editor

For a high school swimmer, up to 11 months of pain, sacrifice and endurance come down to this weekend.

Once again, perennial powerhouse Hinsdale Central will be the odds on favorite as the 45th annual state swimming meet gets underway today at Hinsdale South in Darien.

A large contingent of swimmers representing eight Herald-area schools will compete, starting at 10 a.m. today with diving preliminaries. Swimming prelims will begin at 4 p.m.

The finals in all events will begin Saturday at 1 p.m. at the school, 7401 S. Clarendon Road, Darien. Delayed broadcast television coverage of Saturday's finals will air on WGN-TV, Channel 9, starting at 4 p.m.

Leading the individual performers will be Chris Tague of Hersey. Tague is ranked first, according to district meet times, in the 200-yard freestyle, and is second in the 500-yard freestyle, just a fraction of a second behind Carbondale's Chris Phillips.

Teamwise, the St. Viator Lions have a shot at finishing high in the final standings, but that chance hinges on how well members of the illness plagued Lion squad can perform.

After an entire season of dominating the known field in the 500-yard freestyle, Tague's warning that "swimmers come out of the woodwork" at state meet time has come true.

Tague is faced with stiff competition in the 500, where he had held a five-second cushion, but now must look ahead to Phillips who finished fourth in the state last year in the 500.

In the 200, Tague holds a one second lead over Phillips, who finished third in the event statewide last year, and over Kankakee's Rusty Walker.

Tapering down his workouts for the first time this year, the senior from Hersey is looking for a big time drop in both his events. Joining Tague from Hersey will be diver Bill Cashmore, 10th statewide according to district performances.

The flu and other maladies have been hampering the St. Viator squad. Mark Rohl, who finished sixth in the state last year in the 100-yard freestyle, missed practice early this week with a viral infection, according to coach John Fleck. Rusty Myers, who finished behind Tague in the district meet, also missed practice with the flu.

"We're down a little, because of Mark's (Rohl) poor performance in districts because of sickness and all," Fleck said. "But it's hard to stay down, once you get to the state meet."

"If Rohl can come back after being sick, I think we'll finish towards the top," Fleck said. The Lions have nine swimmers competing in 11 events, including both relays.

Though the Lions have had expected good performers hit with illness, there have been some nice "surprises" for Fleck, like Jon Newcomer, hurt during the season in a car accident, who took second in the Arlington District meet in the 200-yard freestyle and holds down a leg of the team's 400-yard freestyle relay.

Another is Chris Stewart, who won the district title in the 100-yard freestyle. Both, Fleck thinks, can go faster.

In the butterfly, Rolling Meadows' Tom Stahnke and Prospect's Tom Cole are close to two seconds off the pace, set by Hinsdale's Matt Robertson, but could finish in the top six.

Casey Schlachter of Maine West and St. Viator's Rohl and Stewart are contenders for a spot in the top 12.

A total of 338 individual competitors and 54 relay teams qualified for the state meet. Hinsdale Central leads in qualifiers with 17 individuals and both relays. Hinsdale is followed by New Trier East, Evanston and Fenwick

White Sox to take non-roster players to spring training

BILL VEECK, White Sox owner, tells newsmen Thursday he will open Spring training on schedule in Florida March 1 with 25 players.

Maverick Bill Veeck, acknowledging fears of reprisals from other owners, said Thursday his Chicago White Sox will open spring training in Sarasota, Fla., March 1, with 25 non-roster players.

Veeck said he would be "delighted" if the other 23 major league owners made similar decisions to starting playing ball. First indications were none would.

At a hotel room news conference, the flamboyant new owner of the Sox admitted he had been "Intimidated" by what the other owners could do to him if he went ahead with spring training involving regular contract White Sox players.

Instead, Veeck said, he and Manager Paul Richards, because of "commitments to the city of Sarasota and the fans," will begin with 23 minor league players and veterans Cleon Jones, formerly of the New York Mets, and Bob Oliver, a former New York Yankee and Pittsburgh Pirate, who have no contracts.

At a hastily called news conference, Veeck said he was "intimidated" by the other 23 major league owners and therefore would not begin spring training wit the 34 White Sox players who had already signed contracts for this year.

Besides Jones, the former New York Mets slugger, and Oliver, the ex-Pittsburgh outfielder, those invited to Sarasota, Fla., will include five other players who have played in the major leagues and four others who have been on major league rosters.

The other players are all minor leaguers.

Veeck said he had talked to Bobby Bragan, head of the national association of minor leagues, and he agreed there were no obstacles to having the players open up spring training on March 1.

The White Sox will be the only team to do so because the other 23 owners have refused until the touchy question of the reserve clause has been ironed out.

"It isn't the spring training I had envisioned," Veeck said, "It isn't what I had in mind but it is the best I can do."

Veeck has maintained the White Sox need a full spring training because he and Richards are new to the team and need more time to look at their players.

Asked about the reaction of the other 23 owners to his announcement, Veeck said he was certain he was acting on legal grounds and "I don't much care."

The colorful owner said he was complying with "the letter, if not the spirit" of the owners' decisions not to open spring training until their player negotiations have been resolved.

Asked if he thought his stand would amount to a thorn in the side of the other owners, Veeck smiled and said, "I hope it does."

He said he had received a number of calls from the other owners this week asking for unity. He said the only time there was unity was when he joined the other owners, not when he wanted them to join him.

Veeck criticized those who he said hoped the Kansas City ruling making Los Angeles pitcher Andy Messerschmidt a free agent would "go away."

"It won't," he said, "unfortunately for both sides."

Wrestlers visit Champaign

FINE FINALISTS. Buffalo Grove captured second place honors at the Barrington Sectional after four wrestlers battled their way into the finals. From left, Doug Browning, Greg Thomson, Tim Foley and Rich Wilhelm along with coach Dennis Riccio. Jim Battaglia and Brad Smith in 1971 . . . Smith and Jeff Alvis in '72 . . . Jack Horowitz in '73 . . . Rick Morris in '74 . . . John Gross in '75 . . .

Will the string continue?

All of these names have at least two common bonds: Each, for one, represented the Herald area, and each additionally has savored the struggle and satisfaction of rising to the top as a state wrestling champion.

It is now the moment when battle lines have been drawn for a new state championship series and nine area grapplers will attempt to keep their success story alive. The odds for these nine youngsters would appear to be insurmountable. Gathered in Champaign this weekend are almost 200 of the finest mat athletes in Illnois . . . champions and near-champions, all who have survived fierce competition through district and sectional levels just to qualify for this main event.

And now there are 16 finely-tuned, superbly conditioned wrestlers waiting in each of 12 classes to begin the final ascent to the throne. Only one at each weight will win four straight bouts between today at 1:00 and Saturday evening at 7:30 in the Univer-

College football rich get richer at signing time

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

He's out there now in some little dry-bed town where the people are God-fearing, mother-loving, flag-saluting and psychoneurotic about football.

Everybody in town has seen him flick the ball 70 yards on his knees with two linebackers ripping at his jersey.

He's got it all, the colleges say, which is why Woody Hayes and Bo Schembechler and Joe Paterno and Bear Bryant have been trying to sign him since he was in the fourth grade.

He's the blue-chipper.

This is that time of year that drives college football coaches to drink — or into the insurance business. The announcements are coming in regularly these days as the blue-chippers make their college decisions, announcements that send shock waves across the country.

The winners shout and the losers cry as Mr. High School Football Star makes his decision. The winner makes the announcement in a press conference on the battleship Missouri. The loser tattles to the NCAA or CIA or FBI or somebody about recruiting violations.

It's fun time for the press, agony time for the coaches. It's a sick business, recruiting, but a necessary one in the current setup of big-time college sports. It's a war as the 'have-nots' struggle for survival while the 'haves' keep signing blue-chippers.

Everybody has solutions. Somebody came up with an elaborate draft plan of the top high school talent in the country, a draft similar to the current pro football setup.

Of course, it would be all but impossible to set up a common draft of high school players. Couldn't you just hear the yelps from parents? Their kids wouldn't be getting that special treatment and there'd be a rebellion.

"You can't tell me where to send my boy to school," they would say. They'd be correct.

But it's that way when they get out of college, and the players can't do much about it.

The way things are going in college football, the rich keep getting richer and the poor keep getting poorer. If Texas is your school, fine. Or Alabama, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Ohio State, Michigan, Notre Dame or any of the perennial powers.

But what about the others?

In this era of rising costs, you have to wonder how much longer they can remain in business, and let's not forget this point — college football is a business, big business.

It's understandable why the big teams keep getting all the talent. The kids aren't dumb. They want to go to the best schools to put their talents on display.

He knows, too, he will be playing before big crowds and that the conditions will be first class all the way. What's happened is that a self-perpetuating problem has been created.

The stronger these schools become, the better players they attract. And the better players they attract, the stronger they become.

That's fine — to the victors should go the spoils. But what chance do the others have of ever catching up?

I was interested in some comments by a man who has researched this "rich get richer" syndrome. Indiana assistant athletic director Bob Hicks uncovered no happy conclusions.

Hicks reported that approximately half the blue-chip players recruited by the Big 10 schools will attend Ohio State and Michigan. They do every year. A similar situation exists in other conferences across the country where the 'haves' continue to prosper.

Hicks says "it is pure folly for the poor — the Indianas, Kentuckys, Illinoises, Oregons and the rest — to seriously try to turn the whole thing around."

He referred to a research article by Dr. P. E. Allsen of Brigham Young University listing the most significant factors influencing student-athletes' reasons for selecting a college: (1) football tradition, (2) coaching staff, (3) educational opportunities, (4) facilities and (5) location of school.

Interestingly enough, the COACH is the No. 1 attraction for the athlete in basketball . . . not the education or location.

"If tradition is football's No. 1 selling point," Hicks continued, "it is bound to get worse. Ohio State, Michigan and Notre Dame have tremendous momentum in our part of the country. The other schools are fighting a losing battle. They can say all they want about hard recruiting turning things around, but it's a myth. You won't get the blue-chipper.

"In all big businesses where a monopoly can occur, laws and controls are enacted so that all can survive. There is no provision for controlling the monopolies in college athletics, and the results will prove disastrous. Pro football knows how important it is to keep the competition healthy. This is why they 'choose up sides.' To maintain balance."

People may have laughed last weekend when a draft of high school players was proposed, but it is an interesting idea.

If they ever did draft on a regional basis, for example, to keep the cost down and keep the whole thing from getting too confusing, could you imagine the yowls emanating from places like Columbus and South Bend and Ann Arbor and Tuscaloosa. Those folks like things the way they are now.

The draft could be called dictatorial, even socialistic — this spreading around of the wealth. But how sweet it would be if the people in, say, Bloomington, Ind., or Champaign, Ill., or Iowa City, Iowa, or Evanston, Ill., would get an occasional chance to see their team on top.

Does anyone honestly see that time coming? I certainly don't.

"The only other way colleges can hope to catch up with the runaway leaders is to cheat," said Hicks in his analysis of the problem. "There's no way cheating can save us all in the end."

Hoosiers clinch; May scores 41

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Scott May made up for cold shooting by his Indiana teammates with a season high 41 points Thursday night to lead the No. 1 ranked Hoosiers to a 96-67 victory over Wisconsin, clinching the Big Ten basketball championship.

The Hoosiers faltered only in the opening minutes in taking their 35th consecutive Big Ten win and their 55th straight in regular season play.

The Badgers took a 6-0 lead but Indiana came back to move in front at 9-8 with 16 minutes left in the first half, and the Badgers never caught up thereafter. Indiana broke the game open in a five-minute stretch late in the first half by outscoring the Badgers 13-2 to move in front 34-20.

May accounted for six points in that stretch and reserve forward Rich Valavicius contributed four. May drilled 16 field goals and hit on nine of 10 free throws before leaving with one minute to play.

Tom Abernathy was second high scorer for Indiana with only 12 points. Dale Koehler had 17 and Brian Colbert 16 to lead Wisconsin. It was Wisconsin's 14th straight defeat, all in Big Ten competition.

Hawks beat Kings

Second-period goals by Ivan Boldirev and Stan Mikita broke a 2-2 tie for the Chicago Black Hawks in their NHL game late Thursday night against the Kings in Los Angeles.

The Hawks won 6-2.

Boldirev's goal came 11 minutes into the second period on assists by Darcy Rota and J.P. Bordeleau. After Rota was stopped point-blank by L.A. goalie Gary Edwards, Bordeleau dug for the puck behind the net and fed Boldirev out in front for Ivan's 25th goal of the year. Mikita followed two minutes later with his goal.

The Hawks had taken a 2-0 lead on first-period goals by Alain Daigle and Dennis Hull, but the Kings tied it up on power-play scores by Tom Williams and Mike Corrigan.

Seven MSU gridders ineligible

Michigan State University has formally declared seven football players ineligible for their roles in a recruiting scandal that ended in the Big Ten school's placement on three years probation by the NCAA.

College officials said they will seek to have the players reinstated before the football season begins.

In finding MSU guilty of numerous recruiting violations early this year, the NCAA ordered the players declared ineligible for the rest of their college careers. The MSU ineligibility committee has complied with that order.

MSU's case for the athletes soon will be presented to the NCAA.

"What we want to do is put together the best case possible and then present it," he said.

Marti leads; rain tees off Jack

Favored Jack Nicklaus' bid to take the first round lead in the $300,000 Tournament Players Championship was sidetracked Thursday when a long mid-morning rain delay forced suspension of play when Nicklaus had two holes still to play.

Nicklaus was at 5-under-par, one stroke behind pace-setting Fred Marti, an unheralded tour veteran who turned in a 6-under-par 66 Thursday at Lauderhill, Fla., for his best round in several years.

Nicklaus was tied on the leader board with Don January, San Diego winner J.S. Snead and British Open champion Tom Watson, all in with 67s.

Play in the opening round was suspended from 9:15 to 10:30 a.m. because steady rain made the greens unplayable.

Nicklaus, favored to win his second TPC title in three years, did not tee off until after 2 p.m., starting on the back nine. He was at the eighth tee on the front nine when play was suspended for the day at 6:25 p.m. EST because of darkness. Nicklaus will play his final two holes of the first round Friday morning before the second round begins.

About 40 players in the 144-man field were still on the course when play was suspended for the day. All will finish early Friday. No. 1 Friday 2-27 -

Tests for 'borderline diabetic' Barry

It's no secret Golden State Warriors star Rick Barry has lost some of his playing spark in recent games, and now he says it may be due to the fact that he is a borderline diabetic.

Barry has taken tests for diabetes yearly for a long time but because of his recent lack of energy, team physician Dr. Robert Albo put him through a new series of tests this week, it was revealed Thursday.

"If there is anything of concern, Dr. Albo will let me know," said Barry. "My tests have been such that I have to test all the time, but this time Dr. Albo wanted an extra test just to be sure of my condition."

The 32-year-old star admitted he has lacked energy in recent games.

"It just hasn't been there," he said. "My legs have been a little tired. They say that when you get older that's the first thing to go."

Barry said he will await results of his latest tests before determining what he should do.

"I'm not going to worry about it until I hear from Dr. Albo," he said. "After all, I've been a borderline diabetic for a long time."

sity of Illinois Assembly Hall and take their rightful place at the top of the mountain.

Additionally, a team champion will be honored at the conclusion of the Class AA finals Saturday night. East Leyden is considered the front runner, on the strength of the six entries coach Chuck Farina will take into the fray. But the chances may be even better for a DeKalb, Richards or Joliet (West and Central) boasting only three entries but having some veterans with pre-established credentials among their ranks.

The only area team with any kind of shot at high team laurels is Buffalo Grove. Coach Dennis Riccio's outfit is one of only 24 among the 120-odd schools represented that will have three or more entries.

Individually, there are some reasonable certainties. A grappler who placed high in 1975 and has battled all the way back to the 1976 showdown is unlikely to bomb out.

There are many more uncertainties.

Here's how the finals shape up, by weight:

98 Pounds — The most likely question is who York's Mike Farina (36-0) will face off against in the title bout. Likely candidates are Argo's Andre Powell (28-1), a returnee, or Bloomington sophomore Fred Mariani (33-0-1).

105 Pounds — The favorites are Mundelein's Kevin Kick (25-1) who finished fourth at 98 last year, Keith Whelen of Granite City North (34-1) who was sixth at 98, Tilden sophomore Doy Harrison (20-1) who made it down in '75 as a freshman, and returnee Bernie Harms of Pekin (29-8). Kick's quarterfinal bout with Lee Goldsmith of New Trier West (37-1) could be a crucial one.

112 Pounds — Possible finalists are DeKalb's Joey Williams (25-1-1) who placed fifth last winter and vet Doug Schafer of Sterling (35-0). Schafer opens against Willie Staples of Proviso East (16-2-1) who lost to Gross of Forest View in the 105 championship match in '75.

119 Pounds — Jim Carlstrom of Rolling Meadows opens against a toughie, Dave Palmeno of Rockford East (34-1), who was sixth last year. Also in this rugged weight class are the returning 112-pound champ, Romeoville's Fred Ferrin (32-4), Tom Best of Naperville (23-4) who was third last year and vet Dale Evans of Joliet Central (29-1).

126 Pounds — There are three undefeated grapplers, including Bison Rich Wilhelm, and all are entered in the lower bracket. The others are returnees Jeff Gerdes of Oak Forest (29-0) and Keith Puebla (31-0) of Moline. Fremd's Doug McCarthy is in the opposite bracket opening against Bill Kaiser of Peoria Richwoods (27-4-1). Wilhelm takes on Jim Galas of West Leyden (29-6) and after Puebla there could be another goodie . . . Ralph Cortez of Addison Trail (36-1).

132 Pounds — Hersey's Dan Lococo opens against returnee Dan Murphy of Belleville East (33-3) and Bison Greg Thomson is on the same side against Greg Podgorny of Rock Island Alleman (26-5-1). Also in their bracket is undefeated Ed Rogers of DeKalb (24-0) but in a tougher opposite bracket are defending champ Scott Trizzino of Joliet Central (31-0), and vets Willie Warner of Rich Central (30-1) and Willie Perry of Springfield Lamphier (28-3).

138 Pounds — Front runners in a wide open race are veterans Don Larimer of Naperville (26-1), Rob Roto of Glenbrook South (31-5-1) and possibly Marvin Wiley of Fenger (23-2) along with newcomer Oscar Ordonez of Oak Park (31-2).

145 Pounds — The King is back for a fourth time and Bolingbrook's King Mueller (31-0) is a heavy favorite to retain his crown. Doug Browning of Buffalo Grove opens on the opposite side against Rock Island's Tony Scott (33-3). Mueller will battle Mark Smith of Waukegan (32-0), no doubt in a great semifinal.

155 Pounds — Jim Thomas of Hoffman Estates is bracketed opposite returning second place finisher Jim Morris of Glenbard South (35-0) and third place finisher Greg Moore of Richards (24-5) as well as vet Gilden McClom of Parker (34-0). Thomas will open versus Rory Fullmer of Rock Falls (27-2).

167 Pounds — A seemingly well-balanced field has Ted Tyk of Rolling Meadows taking on Barrington's Eric Moll (29-3). On the other side returnee Phil Gulsvig of Libertyville (33-2), who has beaten Moll twice, starts off with Gehrig Dergo of Morris (34-0).

185 Pounds — Perhaps the weakest weight of the tourney. Greg Gulsvig of Libertyville (33-0) appears to be the best bet in a stronger upper bracket. Dave Miller of East Peoria (31-0) might be best down below.

Heavyweight — There are five undefeated entries that St. Viator's Scott Zettek must contend with. He opens against Greg Thompson of Glenbard South (31-4) and has vet Steve Solaja of Washington (27-0) as well as Rockford East's Greg Gilbaugh (35-0) on his side. Heading up the other bracket are returnee Chandler Mackey of Thornton (28-0), Dave Klemm of Lincoln (32-0) and Pekin's Bob Taylor (34-0) who finished sixth a year ago.

Oak Brook teams lead tennis play

Heading into the home stretch, Oak Brook Park District is a strong favorite to grab both "A" and "B" championships in the nine-club Ladies' Suburban Indoor Tennis League.

Led by Judy Giannelli, Chicago District 35-and-over doubles titlist, and Kay Holzinger, Oak Brook sports a 26-3-1 record in defense of its "A" crown. Meanwhile its "B" team, runner-up last year to River Trails of Mt. Prospect, stands at 29-4, compared with 24-6 for River Trails and 24-9 for Elk Grove.

Oak Park, three matches back at 26-6-1, is Oak Brook's only real nemesis in the "A."

The Oak Brook vs. River Trails "B" match Saturday, March 6, at Oak Brook will be crucial. A sweep by the hosts would all but clinch, but a sweep or 2 to 1 victory by the visitors would create a new ball game.

Judy Graves and Marianna Boyd, the Mount Prospect duo playing No. 1 "B" for River Trails, are unbeaten this season.

Believe it or not, this Ripley is world's finest

Jim Murray

In a way, this is a Believe It Or Not by Ripley.

The story goes back to a year ago, when the track meet promoter, Al Franken, was putting together his Sunkist Indoor Invitational.

One thing a meet promoter has to watch for is honeyed words from coaches who have track and field phenomenons who have just equaled or broken world records "in practice." The pitch is high and hard. "The kid cleared the bar by a good two feet, I tell you! Would have gone through the ceiling with abetter pole plant! What? Where? Oh, this was in his garage down in Downey. Uh, could you send us two round-trip tickets L.A.-to-New York? We'll be in New York that week."

Franken makes a practice of keeping posted with Track and Field News and ear-to-the-ground track filberts like Dick Bank, or coaches like Jim Bush. In the world of track, you see, if a Siberian monk breaks a world record in secret at night out on the tundra, everyone knows it as soon as he hits the ground or the watch stops.

So, when San Jose State coach Ernie Bullard phoned a year ago to say he had a kid who was "clearing 17-6 in the pole vault in practice," Franken did a little fast checking. "What'd you say the kid's name was?" he asked Bullard. "Ripley," said Bullard. "That's what I thought it would be," said Franken. "And, if I get to believe it or not, I choose not."

Dan Ripley, he found out, was a vaulter who had cleared a modest 14-6 in high school, and his all-time best was a bare 16 feet. He was a backyard pole vaulter, a kid who had taught himself by using bamboo carpet rollers, and vaulting over clotheslines. Franken wanted performers who could top 18 feet, not the wet wash.

Within a week, Ripley had a believer, though, when word came down from Saskatoon that a youngster from San Jose State named Ripley had just broken the collegiate indoor pole vault record with a 17-8 leap, after his coach had begged meet officials to let him enter because his practices had been "sensational."

Two weeks later, reinstated by Franken, Ripley posted a world indoor record of 18-1 at the L. A. Sports Arena. Later that year, he tied for the UCAA outdoors with an 18-1 clearing, but was placed second for most misses at that height. Last weekend, in New York, he set a world indoor mark of 18-3¾.

How can a youngster, uncoached and uncoachable, struggling on inferior equipment and almost total lack of competition, build himself into a world-class pole vaulter and a possible Olympic gold medal winner when some countries throw almost the whole national athletic resources into the pot to produce such a talent? How do you go from jumping hedges to jumping records — from a personal high of 16-3 to an indoor mark of 18-1 almost overnight?

Any sports fan who has ever bet a daily double knows you can't get ready for the Kentucky Derby on works, that horses who run a hole in the wind in the morning frequently turn into frightened failures in the afternoon when the flags are flying and the crowds are cheering.

But this was one time when the "closet champion" was even better when he had an audience of something besides a line of lingerie. I asked Dan Ripley how he could do it.

He laughed. "It's like a golf swing. You have to get something that will work for you repeatedly under pressure. Each vaulter has to get his individual technique: where to hold the pole, how many steps, how to plant, the speed which makes for the widest catapult. I hold the pole at 15 feet 2 inches, use a 16-6 pole, take 16 steps in a 113-foot run. You do that over and over, and get so you could do it in your sleep, and you'll find you'll do it in a meet."

But didn't he worry about being "psyched" out by the ploys of older, more experienced vaulters with 50 to 100 meets under their belts and not just practice-field vaults? Ripley laughed. "The biggest 'psych-out' in the world is jumping higher. I don't know of any trick that can overcome that. Besides, rather than trying to distract other vaulters, you would be better spending the time and energy working on your own jump. That's what I do."

Now that he's soared two feet over the credibility gap, Dan Ripley no longer has to spend time and energy begging his way into meets. Which is a good thing. Because, even if you are making 20 feet in practice, there's no way to get on the phone and implore your way into the Olympics. Moonlight marks won't count for Montreal. A letter from mom or a call from the coach won't do for the Big O. You got to do 18 feet right out there in front of God and Roone Arledge and Channel 7 and Lord Killanin or it's back to the clothesline and hedges of home for you forever.

Lions to close home schedule

The St. Viator Lions will try to end their regular basketball season schedule on a winning note when they host St. Joseph High School tonight at 8 p.m.

Whatever the outcome of the final conference game of the year, the Lions are locked into fourth place in the East Suburban Catholic Conference, presently owning a 7-6 record, two games behind second place St. Patrick (9-4).

The Lions suffered a heartbreaking setback last weekend to struggling de Sales, 62-60, ending all hopes for a third place tie.

The first time these two teams met this season, Viator came away with a 51-41 victory at Westchester.

St. Viator will be looking to improve its 8-15 over-all record for first-year Lions coach, Ron Creigier.

The Chargers come into St. Viator with a 4-9 conference mark, tied with Notre Dame for fifth place in the ESCC.

West travels to Niles East

The Maine West Warriors close out their regular season of Central Suburban League play tonight as they travel to Niles East for an eight o'clock contest.

The Warriors have a chance for a second place tie in the league's south division with Maine South if West comes up with a win while South loses to league leader Niles West.

The Warriors bring a 9-4 conference record into tonight's game, compared to Niles East's 3-10 mark.

The first time the two clubs met this season, the Warriors crushed the Trojans, 85-45, led by Bob Zuccarini's 26 points.

The Maine West over-all record stands at 15-9, with the regionals starting next Tuesday on the Warrior home floor. West goes up against Rolling Meadows in the opening game Tuesday night.

Rolling Meadows

SANDBURG JUNIOR HIGH

Carl Sandburg Junior High's basketball team, representing Dist. 15 Palatine-Rolling Meadows, concluded its season by capturing the third place trophy in the annual Dist. 54 Invitational Tournament. Sandburg defeated Frost Junior High of Schaumburg 50-39 for the consolation trophy In the first round Sandburg defeated another Schaumburg team, Keller Junior High, 63-38, and had the distinction of being the only non-Dist. 54 school to advance to the second round. Sandburg lost to the eventual tournament champ, Eisenhower of Hoffman Estates, 49-39. Sandburg's over-all season record was 11-7. The team was coached by Ken Sutula. It also finished third in the Dist. 15 Invitational Tournament and tied for second in their Dist. 15 Conference.

Table hockey open set

The Third Annual United States Open Table Hockey Tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday, March 27-28 at the Chicago Holiday Inn, One South Halsted Street.

Entrants in singles and doubles competition will be battling for $2,500 in prize money. Over 150 table hockey players from Canada and the United States are expected to attend.

Singles competition is scheduled for March 27 and doubles for March 28 with $500 going to the first place winners in singles and doubles.

The entry fee for the event will be $25 and daily ticket prices will be $3.00 a day or $5.00 for a two-day pass.

For further information contact Rick Sorci at either 358-1222 or 359-3642.

Monroe to Sox camp

Larry Monroe, the former Forest View High School pitching ace, has been invited to the Chicago White Sox' spring training camp as a non-roster player. Monroe twirled a no-hitter for Appleton (Wis.) in the Midwest League last season.

Palatine's Popp nominated

Palatine senior running back Jim Popp has been nominated to the Prep All-American Football Program yearbook for 1975-76 The Herald learned from Coach & Athlete Magazine.

Nominations to the yearbook are made each year by high school coaches, sportswriters and college recruiters across the country.

Popp had an explosive senior season for the 7-2 Pirates as he rushed for 18 touchdowns and 1,214 yards, an area single season record.

Hoffman soccer signup

The Soccer Club of the Hoffman Estates Park District will be holding a formal registration for the 1976 Spring and Fall soccer program on Saturday, Feb. 28 at the Vogelei Barn.

The Barn, located at 650 West Higgins Rd. in Hoffman, will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. for registration. For complete details call 885-1194.

Oakton advances

Oakton Community College advanced to the Region IV Sectionals finals of the NJCAA today by pasting Wright, 84-78. Oakton (20-8) was paced in scoring by Tom Florentine's 23 points and 20 more from Jerry Jones, both Maine South High School products, and have a date with Mayfair at 3:30 at Triton.

If Oakton gets past Mayfair, it will qualify for the state tournament March 4-5-6 in Danville. Oakton has beaten Mayfair twice during the regular season, but only by margins of one and three points.

Zikes takes 54th

From campuses nationwide

—Area football stars were busy signing letters of intent to play college football in the past weeks.

The Schaumburg Saxons, champions of the Mid-Suburban League's South Division, sent all-state linebacker Scott Scholz to the University of Illinois. Other Saxons who signed letters were quarterback Russ Zonca (Eastern Illinois), running back Scott Mielke (Western Illinois) and receiver Brad Crawford (Drake).

Northern Illinois landed a pair of area products. Palatine quarterback Mark McCostlin will be playing for the Huskies next year as will Harper College kicker Dave Patterson.

—Mark Mara, a graduate of Palatine, had his best night as a collegian recently when he fired in 36 points and hauled down 13 rebounds to lead Kankakee Community College to a 104-90 win over Danville.

Wheeling's Ed Kruk got 15 points for KCC in that game.

—John Sloan, from Rolling Meadows, has the sixth best shot put in the Big-10 this season. The University of Illinois sophomore, who was a state champion in high school, has tossed the shot 52' 9½''. The league's best is 56' 6½''.

Another Rolling Meadows product, who is also attending the U of I, is Mark Harris. Harris' 15-6 pole vault is among the Big-10's best.

—Bob Kelly of Wheeling, a sophomore linebacker at North Park College, has been named to the Illinois Sports Information Directors Academic All-State team.

—Freshman Rick Morris, from Fremd High School, contributed 16.2 points to the Northern Michigan University gymnastics team when he scored 7.8 on floor ex and 8.4 in vaulting during a recent meet.

Midget hockey team 2nd in world meet

The midget team from the Flames Hockey Club, based in Arlington Heights, finished second in the World Hockey Tournament at Detroit recently.

The local team, which plays out of the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena, qualified for the tourney by competing against seven other midget (15 and 16 year olds) teams.

Then the Flames' team took part in the round robin tourney that last nine days. They went against teams from Canada, Finland and Sweden.

A team from Canada beat out the Flames for first place. Still, finishing second for this first-year team was quite an accomplishment. They compiled a 4-1 record at the tourney.

Signup at Hersey for Little League

A second signup for the Prospect Heights Little League baseball program will be held tonight from 7-10:00 at the Hersey High School fieldhouse.

All boys between the ages of 8 and 14 who live within the new proposed boundaries are eligible.

The boundaries are Hintz Road on the north, Kensington Road on the south, Windsor Drive on the east and Arlington Heights Road on the west.

Registration will be held during major league tryouts. Boys between the ages of 10 and 14 should bring gloves and tennis shoes.

But can he still shift?

Jules Goux, a driver for Peugeot in the third Indianapolis 500 run in 1913, spoke no English and had to communicate with his American coach through an interpreter.

It was the bilinguist who called attention to a vital piece of Goux's racing equipment missing from the driver's cockpit: the bottle of chilled wine the Frenchman demanded when he drove.

During his first pitstop Goux had himself refueled and had no trouble winning the race.

Meadows holds slight lead in sectional

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Gymnastics Editor

Rolling Meadows and Hersey reached the halfway point in the Rolling Meadows Sectional Thursday night in a virtual dead heat for the team championship.

The host Mustangs, cruising on a superlative high bar showing, held a slim .30 lead over the Huskies after the completion of free ex, side horse and high bar.

Trampoline, P-Bars and still rings will be completed tonight beginning at 7:00 p.m.

Keith Liszewski

Hersey, runnerup in the Mid-Suburban League and champions of their own district tournament last week, jumped into the lead after the free ex event as Danny Muenz (8.50) and Bob Barut (8.30) finished 1-2 in the medal race.

Meadows was close behind Hersey's 24.45 score on the event with a total of 23.55 as Mike Illingworth (8.20) copped the third place medal and Glenn Dahl had a strong supporting 7.75.

The Prospect Knights, who sit third after the first night of competition, used a fourth place medal by Doug Zahour (8.05) to a 22.85 tital on free ex.

Buffalo Grove's Fred Bista took fifth place with an 8.00.

Prospect's Dave Scheible turned in the best performance of the evening for the Knights as he won the side horse event with an 8.45 judging.

The Knights' balance on the event staked them to a slim lead over Hersey after the second event.

Hersey's Muenz, who has virtually clinched the all-around title and will give the Huskies a distinct edge if the last three events are as close as the first three, took a third on side horse with a 7.55.

Fremd's Doug Smidl was second at 7.60, Prospect's Jeff Christian fourth with 7.45 and Deerfield's Steve Moran fifth with 7.40.

The Mustangs thrilled the partisan crowd on the high bar as their final three performers took turns outdoing themselves.

Guy Owsiany, the 12th performer to work the bar, took a short-lived lead with an 8.20 only to lose it to teammate Mark Waclawski with an 8.35.

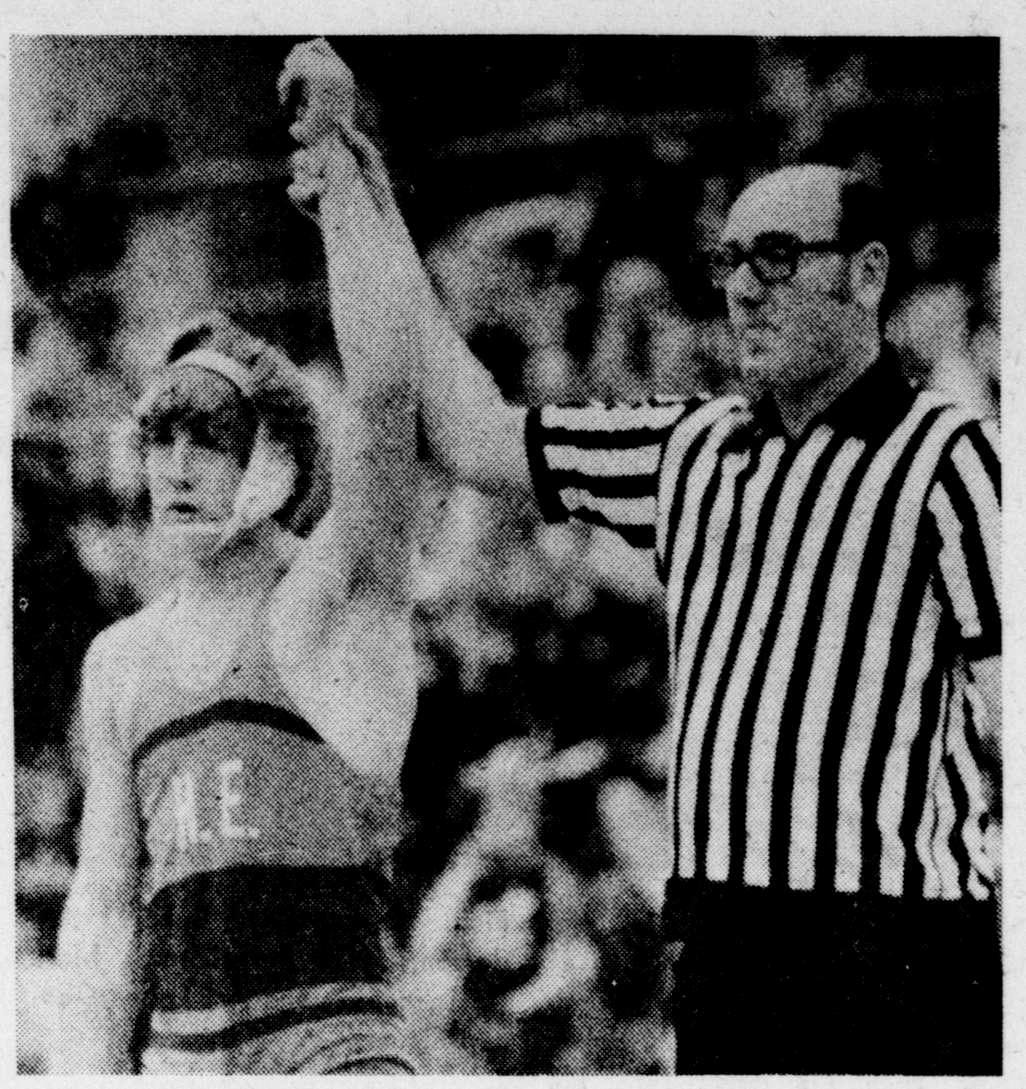
Waclawski held the lead just long enough to turn the bar over to Keith Liszewski.

The Mustang senior threw his best routine of the year and was marked by the four judges at 9.0, 9.0, 9.0 and 8.7 for a 9.0 average.

The medal winning performance drew the only standing ovation of the night.

Waclawski's score tied for third place with Prospect's Doug Zahour while Owsiany's effort grabbed the fourth place medal. Muenz was second at 8.45.

Hersey's Rich Stange tied for fifth with Mundelein's Jeff Martin with an 8.05.



HAWK HOPE. Jim Thomas of Hoffman Estates High School hopes this victory scene will be repeated in Champaign at the state wrestling tournament.

Des Plaines National wins five, holds lead

Des Plaines National Bank took five points from Wauconda Bowl to hold their lead over Hoffman Lanes in the Paddock Junior Classic League.

The Bankers hold a commanding 16 point lead over Hoffman while Fairlanes in Rolling Meadows is in third place.

S. Fleming led the Bankers with a 572 series. He was helped by J. Saffold with 508 and R. Wilson with 508. Saffold had a 202 game.

Wauconda won the second game to avoid a shutout as Thorsen threw a 518 series.

Hoffman Lanes edged Fairlanes 906-903 in the deciding third game after the two teams split the openers.

Bill Geiersbach paced Hoffman with a 542 series while Mark McPherson knocked down 540 pins. Geiersbach's 189 was the high individual effort for Hoffman.

Pete Scalzitti had a 210 en route to a 513 series and the high series of Fairlanes went to Pat Fiddick with 549.

Jan Higgins fired a 568 series for Ten Pin Bowl as they shook off a loss in the first game to take five points from Beverly Lanes.

Higgins' 221 was the high game thrown in the league and he finished with the second highest series of the night.

Carl Heldmaier had a 533 series to lead Beverly.

'Vet' Sacred Heart team tops Maine West, 53-35

by PAUL LOGAN

Sacred Heart of Mary's varsity basketball team demonstrated just how important experience means Thursday night.

The Maine West Warriors, a team that had played just two previous games, hosted Sacred Heart, a group of girls who had six games under their belts, and lost 53-35.

Coach Joan Wojtko's Sacred Heart grils controlled the rebounds at both ends of the court all night, allowing the Warriors few second shots while taking second and third tries themselves.

Sue Skarzynski, Sacred Heart's strong center, and Beth Kastner took care of most of the rebounds. Skarzynski, who carried a team-leading 17.5 average going into the contest, paced her team again with 13 points. She probably would have reached her average but the substitutes played the final quarter.

Sacred Heart only trailed once when Karen Gafrick, Maine's top scorer, hit a jumper midway in the first quarter to put her team on top 9-8. Baskets by Kastner, Skarzynski and team captain Karen Loicano put the winners back into the lead at the end of the first period, 14-9.

Sacred Heart built its advantage to 26-15 at halftime with Loicano according for six second-quarter points.

The visitors put the contest out of reach with a 16-point third period. Guard Margaret McNamara, who failed to score in the first half, played a superb all-around game in the second half. McNamara had four steals, including two straight that led to five of her nine points. Her dramatics boosted the score from 33-21 to 38-21.

"She's more of a dribbler," said Wojtko of McNamara. "Scoring-wise, she did pretty well. She had a good game."

Wojtko was pretty pleased by her whole team's play, especially season-long consistent performances of Skarzynski and Loicano. Loicano just missed tying Skarzynski in the point department with 12 — all in the first half. Besides McNamara's nine, Peggy Campano had eight.

Gafrick led all scorers with 22 — exactly her average in three games. "If she doesn't score half of our points, we're in trouble," said West coach Connie Bauman.This is only Gafrick's first year of school competition

"I finally got her to come out," said Bauman. Gafrick, a junior, is a star swimmer for Maine. The 5-foot-2 guard has "a natural touch."

"We have a very young team. Out of the 24 who are out, 21 are first or second-year players. If they learn a lot and come back next year, they'll be strong."

Karen Stocco's four points was the next closest scorer to Gafrick. Maine's record is now 1-2.

Sacred Heart moved over the .500 mark at 4-3. Wojtko's team will wind up its season this weekend at Conant's two-day invitational tournament.

Women's softball signup scheduled

The Des Plaines Park District invites all women interested in playing 12-inch softball this summer to an organizational meeting Monday at the park district office at 748 Pearson St. at 7 p.m.

League rules, fees and tentative schedules will be discussed. There will be a residency requirement for two-thirds of a team's players to enter the league.

Readers praise Olympics, blast owners in baseball

Fan's forum

Dear Bob Frisk:

You said it all in your column (Friday, Feb. 20) today when you stated "considering the garbage on TV these days I can't believe that extensive Olympic coverage once every four years is so difficult to accept."

Let me just add to that statement, that my whole family loved every minute of the Games they were able to watch. What a pleasant change from all the "cops and robbers" shows that are usually offered on TV. Besides, it gave my children a chance to become more familiar with their father's homeland.

Wish we had all been there! The splendid TV coverage was the next best thing to it.

Mrs. Ferdinand Oehler
Prospect Heights

Fans Forum:

Bob Frisk's column about the television coverage of the Winter Olympic Games briefly touched on the aspect that makes it so enjoyable to watch. And that is that for a 10-day period Americans could take part in a great spectacle of amateur sports — the best young athletic talent in the world. Absent is the professional taint that spoils most TV sports. Absent is the jaded outlook of most pro athletes.

Compared to the usual offering of TV, the Olympics coverage was a respite, no doubt. But compared to the rest of sports coverage, the Games on TV was the most refreshing course in amateur athletics ever presented.

Donnie Hyde
Schaumburg

Dear Fans Forum:

The baseball owners have gotten away with their little game for the last time. The spring training lockout is the most flagrant violation of good faith I've ever seen. For I don't know how many times the owners have tried to make us fans think the players were at fault, especially in the 1972 strike, which lasted all of three or four days. Now that an arbitrator has given the players their rights, the owners are trying to "bargain" those rights away from them.

This time, though, they won't succeed because the public, I feel, has finally tilted in favor of the players. People are realizing that the players have indeed been exploited for many years and only now are they beginning to exert their rights.

The owners think that if there is no baseball season, the fans will blame the players. No more. They will blame the owners.

Legal Notice
ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Zoning Board of Appeals of the Village of Inverness will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, March 16, 1976, at the hour of 7:30 p.m., at the Inverness Village Hall, at the north end of Highland Avenue, Village of Inverness, to consider the petition of Robert A. Friese that he be allowed to add a 2-car garage to his existing resisdential building located at 2118 Freeman Road, Inverness. Said garage, unless permitted by a variation granted by the Board of Trustees, would violate the sideyard requirements of the Village of Inverness Zoning Ordinance. The property is legally described as

Lot 1 in Dilks' Subdivision, being a Subdivision of part of the Northwest quarter of Section 20, Township 42 North, Range 10 East of the Third Principal Meridian, Cook County, Illinois, per Plat recorded as Document No. 17498070-D.

All interested persons will be given an opportunity to be heard at said hearing.

Public Notice

The Federal Insurance Administrator, in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (P. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 P.L. 90-448), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 24 CFR Part 1917 (Section 1917.4 (a)) hereby gives notice of his proposed determinations of flood elevations for the Village of Mt. Prospect, Cook County, Illinois.

Under these Acts, the Administrator, to whom the Secretary has delegated the statutory authority, must develop criteria for flood plain management in identified flood hazard areas. In order to participate in the National Flood Insurance Program, the village must adopt flood plain
